Three Firms Deny Watchdog's Charges

High Oil Profits, Prices Hit

From CP

Dr. John Young's prices and incomes commission Friday criticized four big oil and gasoline companies for not rolling back excessive price increases last winter.

Three of them — Imperial Oil Ltd., Shell Canada Ltd. and Texaco Canada Ltd. — denied the charges and said they observed price guidelines.

The fourth, Sun Oil Ltd., in a carefully worded statement did not deny it went over the guidelines, but said its 1970 operations "were planned and conducted in a manner which we believed would in the normal course have met with the commission's price restraint program."

Ron Basford, minister of consumer and corporate affairs, said he regretted that the four companies did not agree, when asked by the commission, to take some "compensatory action" when their profits rose unexpectedly.

The commission report, which was tabled in Parliament, charged the companies with unduly large price increases and refusing to take "remedial action" requested at meetings between the commission, the government and the companies.

The four were among oil refiners and distributors who put a series of price increases into effect last fall. Price increases in gasoline, fuel oil, diesel and marine oils and solvents were scattered across Canada and concentrated in the Atlantic and Quebec regions.

At that time, the commission was policing a set of price restraint criteria agreed to by businessmen and governments in February, 1970. The rule was that price increases were not to exceed cost increases for the rest of the year.

The four oil companies said they believed they were acting within the rules. But severe

Grain Deal Signed By Soviets

OTTAWA (CP) — Russia will take 120 million bushels of wheat from Canada between now and 1972, it was announced Friday.

A new sale of 81,500,000 bushels, along with another 38,400,000 bushels under terms of a 1966 contract, was valued at $235 million by Otto Lang, minister in charge of the Canadian wheat board.

Lang, replying to questions in the Commons, said "the likely total sale of wheat for the 1970-71 crop year which ends July 31, will be within the range of 430 million bushels to 470 million bushels."

Contracts covering the new sale were signed in the Senate reading room in the Parliament buildings.

Jack Bigg (PC—Pembina) said "no news could be more welcome to Canada."

In a reference to Prime Minister Trudeau's recent Russia trip, Bigg added:

"I am delighted that at last, whether it is on the road to Damascus or the road to Russia, the present administration is seeing that a breakthrough in international relations is followed up."

NDP Leader David Lewis also welcomed the sale and noted that Trudeau was not taking credit for it.

He also said Canada should consider providing developing countries with long-term credit so they, too, might buy Canadian wheat.

Deliveries are to start this month from both the Pacific and eastern Canadian ports, with the chance of some shipments through the northern Manitoba port of Churchill.

Grades to be delivered during 1971 are numbers 2, 3 and 4 Manitoba northern and No. 1 Canadian western red spring wheat.

Lang said the Russians also have an option to take No. 3 or No. 4 Canadian western durum wheat as part of the over-all purchase.

He said the new sale bears out Russian promises to turn to Canada when they needed wheat.

Sharp Reports

New Era Of Hope In NATO

LISBON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp says there is a new spirit of hopefulness among members of NATO that the "era of confrontation in Europe is passing and an era of negotiation is under way."

The Canadian minister made the remark at a news conference Friday following a two-day meeting of foreign ministers from the 15-nation alliance.

Sharpe appeared pleased with the outcome of the meeting which expressed, among other things, general acceptance of a Canadian proposal to appoint a special NATO representative or representatives to investigate recent Soviet proposals for East-West talks on mutual European force reductions.

Sharp said the Canadian recommendation had run into some early opposition but this had been dispelled. It had been incorporated in a United States proposal, accepted by

Highway Blast Kills Five

WACO, Ga. (UPI) — A trailer truck carrying 10,000 pounds of dynamite collided with an automobile on a busy highway Friday night and blew up, killing at least five persons and caving in a roof of a nearby shool gymnasium where 200 persons were holding a gospel sing.

The Red Cross said that 33 other persons were injured as a result of two explosions, one so great it ripped a crater 100 feet wide and 20 feet deep, "big enough to set a building in," in the highway.

A nearby house was wrecked, woods set afire for a quarter of mile and ambulances and fire trucks demolished just outside this small Georgia city.

The Georgia Highway Patrol said the disaster was set off about 8:30 p.m. when a small foreign car collided with the truck, owned by the Baggett Trucking Co. of Birmingham, Ala., en route from Birmingham to a granite quarry in North Carolina.

A patrol spokesman said that the truck also was carrying 10,000 pounds of a low grade type of explosive called "slurry" and dynamite caps in addition to the dynamite.

The patrol said a fire resulted from the collision, setting off dynamite caps that finally led to the blast so great it shattered windows in houses five miles away.

The patrol identified the truck driver as A. W. Fielding, 50, of Birmingham, and said he may have saved several lives by running up and down the highway warning motorists that his burning truck was loaded with dynamite. Fielding was not injured, but the driver of the car was killed.

Haralson County deputy sheriff Gene Kirk called it the biggest explosion he had ever heard.

Police, Officials Agree To Meet

By BRUCE LOWTHER

The first sign of a possible thaw in the wage dispute between Victoria and its police, which has caused police to "work according to the rules," came Friday from Mayor Courtney Haddock.

He disclosed the Victoria police union executive had, at his request, agreed to meet three city representatives early next week.

And he also made two statements which could be taken to indicate the city might go above its last wage offer to police and might not refuse to go to arbitration as the police want.

Haddock said he met the union executive Friday morning and they agreed to sit down with lawyer Edwin Pearlman, city manager William Hooson and city personnel director Terence Fitzpatrick.

The mayor declined comment on what the meeting would discuss, including wages and arbitration, and did not give a definite date

Through a Glass, Darkly

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (UPI) — Miss Kristi Pollok, 21, was named winner of the Ontario County Dairy Princess contest amid general applause.

The new representative of the milk producing industry commented: "I'm so shook. Right now I'd like a glass of beer."

'Doomsday' Cancelled

Because of a bomb hoax May 26 in Australia, a Seattle television station will have a love story instead of a suspense thriller as its late movie tonight.

Qantas airlines paid $560,000 May 26 after a phone caller, apparently following the plot of the 1968 Rod Serling movie Doomsday Flight, said a barometric bomb would explode aboard an airliner carrying 116 passengers when the plane reached a certain altitude.

No bomb was found when the plane landed at Sydney from Hong Kong and Australian police later detained a man for questioning.

Shortly after the hoax, actor-writer-producer Serling apologized, saying he wished he had never written the Doomsday Flight story and especially not so graphically that it had become a textbook.

Some weeks ago, KIRO-TV in Seattle set Doomsday Flight for showing at 11 p.m. today. Friday the station announced it had withdrawn the film, substituting the 1961 French love story Fanny.

Gaglardi Calls Nader 'One of Greatest Nuts'

Gaglardi was speaking to the annual conference of 260 members of the Motor Dealers' Association of British Columbia.

After calling Nader a nut, Gaglardi agreed cars are unsafe and safety features should be added. However, he said only 6 to 10 per cent of car accidents are due to mechanical faults in the vehicle.

Gaglardi warned the dealers that there was a danger of the car industry pricing itself out of the market, due to rising labor costs and a profit margin that is sometimes too high.

"The automobile is the most expensive and uneconomical product I can buy but it is the most necessary piece of equipment today and plays a vital role in molding the community," Gaglardi said.

Eighty-six per cent of all travel is by automobile. It supports allied industries such as mining, rubber, plastic, gas, oil, construction of highways and manufacturing, he added.

Surveying the provincial economy at present Gaglardi said the forest industry reflects the present condition of the Canadian economy in general, although the market should pick up this year.

And in support of our economy, he said, we should not be afraid of foreign capital. The campaign to "buy Canada back" is greatly exaggerated.

Canadians failed to recognize the wealth and resources of this country and would not invest in it.

Canada: Poor 47th State

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — If Canada were one of the United States, it would rank 47th among the states in income per capita, vice-chairman Robert Bonner of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. said Friday.

● Bonner lists dozen obstacles to trade development. Page 11

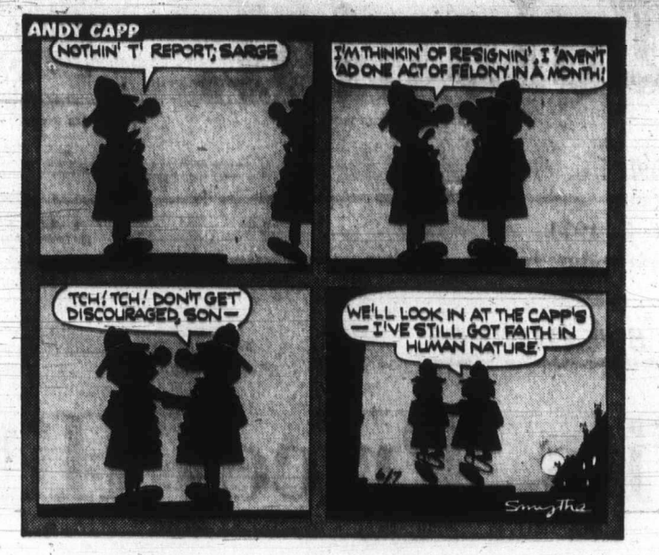
Addressing a business conference at the University of Western Ontario, Bonner said only Ontario and British Columbia, with per capita incomes of about $3,369 and $3,121, achieve any notable rank among American states, ranking 33rd and 42nd.

Canadian average per capita income in 1969 was a little more than $2,700 in U.S. funds, putting Canada ahead of only West Virginia, Alabama, Arkansas and Mississippi.

"There was a time when Canada ranked second only to the United States as measured by gross national product per capita," Bonner said.

"We are now fourth in world rank by this measure Sweden and Switzerland having displaced us in recent years."

He said for Canada to attain full employment or an unemployment rate of 3 per cent by 1972-73 would require annual economic growth of about nine per cent, "and we are not yet prepared as a matter of national policy to achieve growth of that magnitude."



Oil Prices Under Fire

winter cold in December sent their fuel oil and diesel sales up more rapidly than anticipated, and as a result their revenues for the year rose faster than their costs. This, the commission said, was a contravention of the price restraints.

It exonerated four other firms, BP Canada (1969) Ltd., Canadian Fuel Marketers Ltd., Petrofina Canada Ltd., and Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. It sought information from Irving Oil Co. Ltd., but did not obtain it in time for its study of the industry, and is pursuing inquiries with that New Brunswick firm.

Further increases in fuel oil and gasoline prices made earlier this year as the result of higher prices being paid for Near East crude oil, are under investigation.

The 1970 price restraints were not carried forward into 1971. It therefore appeared significant that the commission should report now on a contravention of pricing restraints that expired six months ago.

One commission source said that the commission felt a responsibility to complete the job it set out to do last year. "To serve as a watchdog and bark."

Basford said the amount by which the four companies ran beyond the restraint criteria in profits was small. Figures were not given in the report. But Basford said it was important in principle that the companies should have observed the criteria.

Police, Officials

for it. However, the Colonist learned elsewhere the meeting was set for Monday or Tuesday.

It will come shortly after a special closed meeting of the Victoria police commission, of which the mayor is chairman.

Police union members have, since about noon May 26, been "providing a service according to the rules," as union spokesman Kenneth Horsman put it Thursday in confirming a Colonist story about a change of emphasis in enforcement.

On the morning of May 26, the police commission offered police a wage increase of 7½ per cent over the next year and union officials rejected it.

Since then, the number of arrests and tickets made and issued by police has decreased — although Horsman declined to elaborate on working-to-rules other than to say it might mean less exposure to danger.

Haddock was asked Friday about the May 26 meeting and described it as "only unofficial, exploratory talks." Some sources took that to mean a higher offer might be forthcoming when official talks begin, presumably next week.

Police decided at a union meeting Tuesday to seek arbitration rather than appear before the B.C. Mediation Commission.

Asked about that, Haddock said: "I hope not." The reply was taken to mean arbitration had not been ruled out by the city.

It is known there is some opposition among policemen to any further talks with city officials.

Haddock said it was not definite that he would attend the union-city meeting. He said the union would have a lawyer and Horsman said Thursday the executive would meet the lawyer, a Vancouver man, this weekend to discuss the dispute.

Haddock also repeated a frequently - made statement that the members of the Victoria police force "are fine men."

He added: "They've got their job to do and I've got mine. I'm hopeful we can work out a solution."

'I'll Go to Jail'

Joe Won't Say He's Sorry

WINNIPEG (CP) — Highways Minister Joe Borowski says he will not apologize for remarks about a Dauphin magistrate which led to his conviction on a contempt-of-court charge.

In a letter Friday to Justice Israel Nitikman of Court of Queen's Bench, who found Borowski in contempt April 28, the highways minister said:

"I will go to jail not just for one year but indefinitely, rather than apologize to the real culprit, or to publicly accept the propositon that magistrates and judges are immune to public criticism as you imply in your judgment."

Nitikman, in convicting Borowski, gave him a one-year suspended sentence on condition he make a full apology within 60 days to Magistrate F. M. Manwaring of Dauphin.

The magistrate made copies of his letter to the judge available to reporters and to members of the United Steelworkers attending the annual meeting of the Manitoba Federation of Labor here.

The contempt-of-court charge against Borowski arose from comments he made in a radio interview in March about Magistrate Manwaring who was hearing a case brought personally against the minister under the provincial Vacations with Pay Act.

Borowski was acquitted on that charge in provincial magistrate's court earlier this week.

Sharp Notes NATO Hopeful

the meeting, calling for a special autumn meeting in Brussels of deputy foreign ministers to discuss the force reductions issue.

A communique issued after the meeting said NATO countries will continue to seek clarification of the Soviet proposals through regular diplomatic channels for the time being. The Brussels meeting — likely in September — would discuss results of these contacts.

The American administration has been under congressional pressure to reduce the 300,000-man American garrison in Europe unilaterally.

The foreign ministers also proclaimed an interest in beginning talks with Communist nations on a system of security and economic cooperation throughout the Old World.

But the ministers insisted talks on security can start only after a firm Big Four agreement on Berlin. They expressed hope such a settlement will emerge by December.

Sources said appointment of an envoy to Eastern Europe is not likely until some time after the fall Brussels meeting and only if it is clear such a representative could play an effective role in obtaining details of the Soviet position.

As before, France dissociated itself from the sections of the communique dealing with force reductions. French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann has expressed skepticism about the idea.

France does not participate in miltary planning in the alliance and appears to fear any agreement on force levels could affect the French nuclear forces.

Sharp said Schumann accepted an invitation to visit Canada, probably some time in the fall.

Reason, Not Rigidity

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What's a poor senior citizen to do? Some doctors tell us we need daily portions of egg, milk, etc., and others tell us we should avoid such foods because they produce cholesterol. Whom shall be believe? —B.D.J.

I'm well aware of this conflict of advice, and it is my belief that worry over cholesterol has been carried to unrealistic extremes.

For one thing, it is impossible to avoid cholesterol entirely, because the body will manufacture cholesterol from whatever we eat — whether it contains cholesterol to start with or not. Some cholesterol is a necessity.

For another, cholesterol alone certainly is not entirely responsible for hardening of the arteries. Other factors are involved, so why fix all the attention on that and ignore the others?

I agree that a moderate amount of care in choice of our foods is reasonable — but it is also beyond argument that eggs, milk, and other foods contain other nutrients which are most beneficial.

My solution to the matter is to exercise reasonable care but not to distort the diet into rigid patterns.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter uses an electric heater in the bathroom when she bathes the children. There is no exhaust fan and it gets very hot in there. Could this heat harm her or the children?—Mrs. B.R.K.

I doubt if there is anything harmful in the heat itself, and there are no fumes from an electric heater, so there's no risk on that score.

However, I see no point in making the room warmer than comfort demands. Some heaters of this type are equipped with thermostats—or the heater can be turned off after the room is warm enough.

The principal danger is that electrical contrivances of any sort are a potential danger in the bathroom if insulation breaks down and one comes in contact with the power wires.

Note to Foolish in B.C.: Having had a hysterectomy and removal of one ovary does not prevent you from contracting venereal disease. A blood test will tell whether you have syphilis; a culture whether gonorrhea. Penicillin treatment is required for either.

Grave Yields 25th Body

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies dug up the 25th body in the Yuba City mass murders Friday, and authorities disclosed the existence of nine more possible gravesites.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said his men would study aerial photographs taken by a Redwood City firm and "see if there's any possibility of anything showing up out there," before resuming their search today.

Auditor-General Strikes

Federal Waste Raked Anew

OTTAWA (CP) — Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson, apparently unchastened by a brush with the displeasure of the Trudeau administration last year, presented Parliament Friday with a bulky new catalogue charging slipshod government handling of public money.

Henderson, whose office watches over the way the government conducts its business, scolds government departments and agencies for alleged mishandling of millions of dollars in his report for the year ended March 31, 1970.

In particular, free-handed federal financial aid to private businesses comes under attack in the 285-page annual report.

One attempt to recover overpaid funds failed because the company involved had loaned the money to its foreign parent, he says.

Many of the 308 separate comments in the annual parliamentary best-seller criticize—in tones of sorrow or pique—repetitions of alleged accounting misdemeanors that the scrappy, British-born auditor-general has raised almost annually since his appointment 11 years ago.

Henderson, 63, whose report was due early this year, once again attributes delay to lack of manpower and pay scales to do the job on time.

More staff has been promised, but "the office continues to be seriously handicapped by the action of the treasury board in maintaining its downgrading of all the senior positions in the office."

It was the treasury board, among other government departmenas, that led a counter-attack against Henderson last year for allegedly criticizing policy decisions of the government instead of sticking to accounts-watching.

Legislation to curtail his powers, introduced by the government last Nov. 16, was withdrawn under furious opposition attack 17 days later.

Among charges of government waste, the report attacks escalation of costs of planes, ships and other defence equipment, some of which is being produced at high cost only to be put into mothballs.

Other items:

● The supply department overpaid a contractor and circumvented government authority in paying about $3 million more than it should have in shared-cost development of aviation instruments. The additional funds were paid even though it was known at an early stage that the contractor was in financial difficulty and the objective of the program — product diversification — remains largely unaccomplished.

● The supply and industry departments, under programs designed to assist product development in the defence industry, is supposed to share in resulting profits in some cases, but nothing has been received in two years.

● The defence department received little or no benefit from $4 million invested in development of CL-84 short-takeoff-and-landing — STOL planes when it withdrew from the program in July, 1970.

Public Purse Election Aid?

OTTAWA (CP) — A Commons committee studying election expenses has recommended that firm limits be placed on campaign spending, but it stopped short of suggesting that the public be informed of all donations made to political parties or candidates.

The committee also recommended spending limits for parties. The suggested party limit of 30 cents per elector in each riding would be reviewed "immediately after the first general election."

The suggested spending limits for candidates would be: $1 per elector for the first 15,000 electors, and 50 cents per elector for the next 10,000 electors, and 25 cents for each elector beyond 25,000.

In 21 ridings, which cover a wide geographical area, there would be an additional 10 cents per elector.

There would be reimbursement for candidates from the public purse. This would include the equivalent cost of mailing one first-class, one-ounce item to each elector in the riding and; the equivalent of three cents per elector toward the cost of producing campaign literature.

It also suggested that campaigns be limited to 28 days.

Contributions should be tax deductible — the same as charitable donations — and reported to the revenue department, said the committee report, tabled in the Commons Friday.

"We were persuaded that the benefit of full disclosure could be obtained by . . . disclosure to the minister of national revenue."

Tortoise at the Post Office

EVER SINCE ROWLAND HILL produced the first postage stamp in 1840 — the famous "penny black" — it has been accepted as a public duty that the mail must go through. In the interval the mail carriers have hustled up from an eight to 10-miles-an-hour gait of the stage coaches to the 550 miles-an-hour-plus of the jet airliners.

The main cities of Canada — excluding the Maritimes — are all within five or six hours of flying time of one another, which should make next day delivery between these points a fairly credible achievement.

Unfortunately the Canada Post Office itself has not been able to keep pace with the increased tempo in which mail is carried from point to point.

The old adage that the mail must go through has had its edge badly blunted by strikes and go-slow tactics within the post office itself, and the public for some time has been intermittently putting up with what seem to be unexplainable delays.

Atop this annoyance and uncertainty the Canadian public has been faced, and is going to be further faced, with increased charges for the postal service.

This week the citizens of the Victoria area have been circulated by the post office with details of what is called an Assured Mail Program. This offers the sender either 24-hour or 48-hour delivery provided the letter is put in the letter box to meet stated deadlines.

These deadlines depend upon the category of mailbox in which the letter is dropped.

An all-red letter box, of which the Victoria area has about 260, has a deadline of 10:30 a.m. for next-day delivery locally and to points this side of Winnipeg, and second day delivery to Eastern Canada.

If the letter is popped before 2:30 p.m. into a letter box with a blue and white stripe — of which there are about 100 in Victoria — next day delivery is assured only for most parts of southern B.C.

For those who use the main Victoria post office the deadlines are 1 p.m. and 6 p.m.

The post office circular appears aimed to impress the users of the Canadian postal service, that it is offering something new and better than it has ever had before.

But this is not the case. The new timetable is slow — dreadfully slow — compared with the time the mail takes in actual transport. Not only distant mail but local mail is moving slower today than it did ten and fifteen years ago.

To some degree this may be caused by increased volume—a lot of it unwanted junk-mail on which first-class poundage is paid—but if this is the case the post office has not advanced with the times and has not projected itself to future needs the way any private communications enterprise would have to do to survive competition.

Jean-Pierre Cote, the minister responsible to Parliament for the post office and its affairs, indicates that a new $80,000,000 program of new machinery and equipment will solve the problem — but it will take five years to implement.

Only then, he claims, will the post office be fast as well as reliable.

The minister speaking to the bill that will enable the post office to increase its first-class letter rate from six to seven cents, and the third-class rate from five to six, apparently did not impress the Commons for in the second reading all but the government party voted against the increase.

Indeed the public is likely to withhold comment upon the new "slow but sure" policies adopted by the post office until they see how it works. But it is still difficult to understand why a letter mailed in Victoria one day cannot be assured delivery in Toronto the next.

"Have they voted yet?"

Why the Fuss?

DURING THE PAST FEW YEARS small groups of young people clad in saffron-colored robes with partly shaven heads have appeared in a number of cities in North America and Hawaii. They seldom number more than half a dozen in any one group and pass their time chanting prayers in Sanskrit, the ancient and sacred language of India.

They are pleased to be known as members of the Hare Krishna sect, a religious group whose origins are lost in East Indian antiquity and confused by mythology. About as much as an outsider can find out about it and its followers is that it is a personal religion involving a personal god.

Through personal observation it can be said that the members of the sect individually or together appear to be a sincere, peaceful and happy people, who neither attempt to break the law nor interfere with other citizens.

It is a pity that the city fathers feel that "something must be done about them" which implies that they are a danger and an annoyance to the local community.

One of the important rights Canadians enjoy is freedom of religion and surely it cannot be said that the Hare Krishna followers are disturbing the peace any more than, say, the Salvation Army band or the literature-vending Jehovah's Witnesses when both of these organizations are out "doing their thing" on our city streets.

If we accept the right for one group to follow its teachings and to worship God in its own way, then surely we must accept others, particularly if they abide by our laws and do not create a public nuisance.

The Common Market

Decision Based on Survival

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN from London

WHETHER or not to enter the Common Market of Europe presents Britain with one of its most difficult decisions in history. Not since the sixteenth century when the King of England chose to reject the Pope and join the Reformation has there been such a momentous choice. Nor is this choice likely to be any more democratic than that of Henry VIII.

It is true that in this century, Britain joined in two great continental wars. But, at the time, there was never any sense of free choice. There seemed no alternative but to fight. The British felt at bay and reacted as predictably as a cornered animal.

It is true that the British chose their own form of socialism. But this was an organic, not a revolutionary choice. It grew out of the same impulse towards reform that led to the abolition of the slave trade and the outlawing of child labor in factories and mines. It owed more to the angry and potent Christianity of backstreet nonconformist chapels than to Karl Marx.

The acquisition of an empire was no cold, strategic or economic choice. It was almost an accident. Indeed it has been the special luxury of the history of Britain that she has been free to pick and choose her adventures and that none of them was finally committing, since the British were always free to disengage and retire behind their wall of water.

But this choice of whether or not to enter the Common Market is something quite different. This is, or should be, an icy, calculated stock-broker's choice, the sort of choice that red-robed judges made between the life or death of some wretched malefactor. This is a choice, unpressed by obvious necessity or patent self-interest, that could change the history of these islands.

Apparently, from all the polls, a majority of the country is against going into Europe. This does not greatly matter. There may be political screaming as the moment of decision is at hand, but any cabinet worth its official cars and expectations of peerages can weather that. Britain quit India, abolished the death penalty and created the image of permissive society — all against the clear wishes of the majority. In Britain, unlike the United States, a government is elected and then left to get on with its business. If it fails or becomes boring, then it is ejected at the next election. But in the meantime it is allowed to govern with a remarkable freedom from effective day-to-day pressure.

The massive opposition to entry into the Market is instinctive rather than rational. There are very few people in Britain who could argue the facts of the advantages of joining or staying out.

The experts are so widely conflicting on the subject that they are valueless. the Conservative and Labor parties are divided and both give the impression of wishing they had never been presented with such a choice and of poking into the great issue to find political advantages for themselves.

There is no real leadership on the problem. More than that, it is not really a divisive issue. People talk of it with resignation, as if it were the prospect of the birth of an unwanted child. Referendums are not held in Britain. But the wind of opinion is against entry and the wind is not a noble one. But then this uncertain dust does not, in the practice of British government, greatly matter.

The essential thing against the Market is that it is European. Honorable men speak in public about the diminution of Britain's ancient sovereignty implicit in joining. What they mean is that it involves equality with a lot of foreigners and, before that unspoken comment, the economic arguments pale and retire into the shadows.

This is not quite as ignoble as it sounds. This is not a xenophobic or neurotic country. But it is a country that believes it has survived by being separate. It is a conventional country and the conventions of most other countries are suspect. King Edward VII said, "Abroad is bloody" — though he was often there, if only for his overtaxed liver. But the remark still rings bells in Britain.

The opposition is based on the idea that what Britain has done and made is sacred — the Queen in Parliament, the Established Church, the trades union movement, English cooking, the British police — the list could be endless — but all these are seen to be threatened by a parcel of foreigners who have not had the God-given advantages of a British background.

It is an attitude that cannot be defended but it can be understood. It springs out of the history of a country which is an island and proud of it and which is now suffering from its profound and ancient self-confidence and self-approval. It is not a rational attitude. It is as automatic as hands leaping to cover a face before a crash. It is not quite as important as most commentators assume. The final decision will be taken by cold-eyed men who are interested only in survival. That is the whole point of the decision.

Number of Addicts Stable

How Britain Deals with Drugs

By ERIC CLARK from London

BRITISH drug experts—long of the belief that this country's system of dealing with narcotics addicts is the best in the world — have reacted with scorn rather than anger to the attack on it by John Mitchell, the United States attorney-general.

Mr. Mitchell, talking at a police dinner in Atlanta, said that the British system of making narcotics available free to addicts under medical supervision was "proving to be wrong" and that drug-pushers had moved into Britain "in a big way."

One of the first comments — and typical — came from Lady Wootton, a former member of the official Committee on Drug Dependence, who said: "He does not know what he is talking about."

Many experts found the attack ironic coming from a country with an estimated 250,000 heroin addicts (Britain has under 3,000 "registered" addicts), and at a time when the number of addicts in Britain appears to have stabilized. As to claims of large-scale drug-pushing, there is no evidence at all.

This is not to say that the British system should be regarded as a total success — nor the American one as a total failure. The two systems are totally different. In the United States, with narcotics illegal, success must depend on stamping out the black market supply of drugs — a task that gets harder, not easier, as world communications increase. Britain's system, at its most basic, consists in prescribing drugs for "registered" addicts at special centres. Behind it lie two beliefs: first, that addicts are sick people who need a supply of drugs to continue living; and, secondly, that by making free supplies available to those addicted, the black market will be kept out and the number of addicts contained.

Its supporters see it as humane and sensible, and the American way as cruel and punitive. But it has had a chequered history.

The British system, like so much in this country, has just developed rather than been planned. It came into being at a time when there was really no heroin-addiction problem. The addicts who existed were people whose addiction had followed medical treatment for complaints in which heroin was given, or they were doctors with easy access to the drug. In the main they were mature and middle-aged or older. They could be given heroin to maintain their addiction with no fear of some of it being passed to others.

But in the early 1960s the situation began to alter. A new type of heroin-user appeared on the scene. He was young (late teens or early twenties) and he used heroin as part of a group scene.

By 1965 the situation was changing dramatically. In 1959, there were no heroin addicts under 20; by 1966 there were 317 of them. The total number of addicts rose in two years from 750 in 1964 to 1,300 in 1966.

The British system that had worked when there was no problem was obviously failing.

What was happening in practice was that the new addicts were persuading the handful of doctors willing to prescribe to them (a doctor could deal with them or not, as he wished, and most did not) to overprescribe. Sometimes the doctor did so in good faith, convinced that the addict was taking the amount of heroin he claimed. A few doctors emerged who would prescribe enormous amounts for money.

The addicts with supplies greater than their needs were able to sell the surplus, thus "turning on" more people. In time these new addicts registered with doctors themselves and did the same thing. It was a vicious spiral.

To remedy this, the law was changed in 1968. Under new legislation, which now applies, only doctors at specially-designated treatment centres are allowed to prescribe to addicts. They have been called "treatment centres" — although very few addicts want treatment and use the centres simply to get their supplies.

The lack of treatment has been one of the system's failures. Facilities provided (including social workers) are inadequate for serious attempts at treatment. And for those who do want to withdraw from drugs the number of in-patient units available is small.

On the positive side, though, the new legislation does seem to have reduced the black-market in heroin (shortage of supplies is shown by the current price of about £6 a grain compared with £1 before the centres were set up), and to be containing the number of addicts. Between 1964 and 1968 the number of addicts increased nearly four-fold. Now the figure has stopped rising. Some even believe that it will begin to fall. This could happen not because of addicts being cured but because the number of new addicts could be exceeded by the number of existing ones dying (life expectancy for a young heroin addict is little longer than that for a cancer patient.)

Heroin, because of its affects, has always been regarded as the most worrying drug.

But there are many others in use — and these are supplied entirely by illicit sources or by overprescribing by ordinary doctors. The types being abused at any moment depend among other things on availability and current fashion. Cannabis (marijuana), increasingly regarded as a not-too-serious drug, is in widespread use. The misuse of amphetamines fluctuates widely; sleeping pills are an adult addiction. The use of LSD among the young rises.

In an attempt to rationalize Britain's drug laws new legislation is currently going through Parliament. Under this, the offence of trafficking in drugs will be created, and drugs will be categorized according to their harmfulness. In the main category, carrying the highest punishments, will be both heroin and LSD. Cannabis will be in a lesser category.

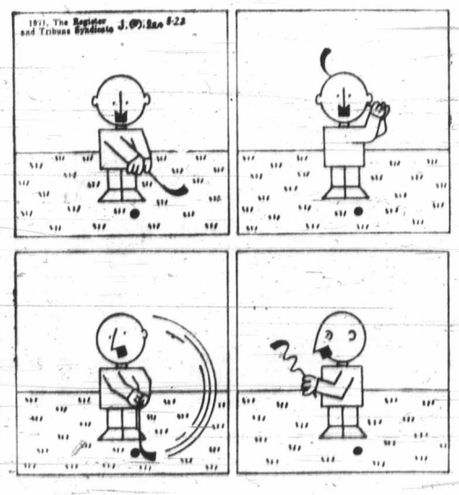
PERKINS — by John Miles



I Beg to Differ

An Advance for Men

By FRANK LOWE

FOR many years now, as some of you may know, I have been campaigning for equality for men. I realize that recently something known as Women's Lib has come along to try to cloud the issue by claiming women occupy a lower status than the male — but this, I believe, is merely so much dust being thrown in our eyes.

In other words, women sensed that men were getting restless. That they were trying to achieve equality with women. So Women's Lib started all this nonsense about "equality for women."

What the whole Women's Lib thing is about is that women feel threatened in their position of superiority — and by kicking up this present fuss are trying to focus attention and sympathy on themselves.

It is the old technique of the Big Lie.

But now, thank heaven, I have some scientific ammunition to prove that women are equal with men or, better still, that men are equal with women.

Which has been my lonely battle cry for all these years.

My ally in my fight for equality for men is none other than the World Health Organization. In a recent issue of its magazine, World Health, Professor M. J. Karvonen, director of the Finnish Institute of Occupational Health, backs me up.

And when it comes to backers, it is always good to have a Finn. The Finns are a hearty, lusty robust lot — as anybody who has taken parts in the original (not the Canadian version) sauna bath can testify.

Or anybody, for that matter, who has been the recipient of Finnish hospitality can testify. But that is another story.

Anway, Professor Karvenen — bless him — declares in his authoritative article that when it comes to mental and emotional abilities, men and women are equal.

What great news. No longer can a wife say to her husband when he has arrived at a different conclusion, "That's men for you — no man can understand a woman's thinking."

Now, faced with such a response, the male can refer to Professor Karvonen and the World Health magazine and show that a male is as intelligent as the female.

He no longer will have to mumble, "Well, have it your way, dear," and retreat to his easy chair to brood despairingly about the inequality of male intellects when compared to female intellects.

It is also a put-down for these females who are currently going around ululating about how women could run things better if only they had a chance to seize political power.

Obviously this is not true. Professor Karvonen says men are just as good as women when it comes to solving emotional or mental problems.

Thank you, Professor Karvonen.

There is one area, mind you, where the good professor gets on somewhat sticky ground. He claims that women have less muscular strength than men who are in their 20s, 30s and 40s.

This rather appalled me, as I have known 20-year-old girls to utterly terrorize men (fathers) who were in their 50s. Also, I have seen mothers in their 40s take on huge, teen-age sons — sons who could and would tear the average father apart — and bring them to heel like so many trained retrievers.

But he restored my faith in my own thesis when he noted that by the time men and women are in their 50s, they are equal in physical strength.

I think this is a wonderful observation. It means that every man past 50 can watch the snow come down, and then blandly suggest that his wife go out an shovel the drive.

"We're equal in strength," he will be able to say. "So while you shovel the drive, I will run down to the basement and load the washing machine with the dirty laundry."

Prior to this most men thought it was their duty to go out there and shovel the snow. Or lift the chesterfield to its new place in the opposite corner of the room.

But now men have achieved true equality. You, my dear, have the privilege of shovelling the walk and moving the furniture.

I will be quite happy to turn the knob on the washing machine and sit and listen to it gurgle and swish.

Audie Murphy—Past and Last

Requiem for a Hero

By VERNON SCOTT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The funeral for Audie Murphy lasted 40 minutes. Then pallbearers carried the casket, covered with red, white and blue flowers, out of the white wooden church to begin the last journey of the most decorated GI of the Second World War.

"The Kraut tanks rumbled past Lt. Murphy's position, passing him by as close as 50 yards and firing at him as they passed. The Kraut infantry line, consisting of two full companies of 125 men, surged up across the open meadow in a wide arc."

It was another meadow in Forest Lawn Memorial Park and dotting the slopes were 800 people who could not get inside the church where 400 others listened to the soloist sing How Great Thou Art and then cried as they filed past the coffin.

"Then I saw Lt. Murphy do the bravest thing that I have ever seen any man do in combat," wrote Lt. Walter Weispfenning in his official report of the engagement. "With the Germans only 100 yards away and still moving up on him, he climbed onto the slowly burning tank destroyer and began firing the 50-calibre machine gun."

There was only a sprinkling of uniforms on the green cemetery slopes and in the church Friday — some in American Legion regalia, a few with Veterans of Foreign Wars caps, most in civilian clothes with tiny metal American flag insignia in the lapel buttonholes.

"There he was, completely exposed and silhouetted against the background of bare trees and snow, with a fire under him that threatened to blow the destroyer to bits if it reached the gasoline and ammunition."

—AP

Former wife Wanda Hendrix weeps

Three young Marines from the El Toro base stood outside. One identified himself only as Private Smith. "We believe in what he stood for and wish more of our generation did," he said.

"Standing on top of the TD, Lt. Murphy raked the approaching enemy forces with machine gun fire. Twelve Krauts, stealing up a ditch to flank him from his right, were killed in the gully at 50 yards range."

From the crest of the hill on the sunny day the mourners could look below on the movie lots of Warner Bros., Disney and Universal where Audie made most of his movies including the only one that ever really went over — To Hell and Back.

"His clothing was torn and riddled by flying shell fragments and bits of rock. Bullets ricocheted and careened off the tank destroyer as the enemy concentrated the full fury on this one-man stronghold."

Out of the movie stars who lionized Audie when he first came to Hollywood only one showed up Friday. That was actress Ann Blythe who played in one movie with him But the little people showed up — the stagehands, character actors, electricians, grips.

"He was wounded in the leg by fragmentation from an 88-mm. shell but he kept on fighting. With blood spreading over his torn trouser leg, he continued to hold off the entire German force of about 250 men, aided only by our artillery fire."

His former wife, actress Wanda Hendrix, was there with her husband. She paused for a long moment at the casket. "That part of him that was a hero and a fine man I will always remember," she said. Then she paid respects to his widow, Pamela, who was in the sideroom reserved for the family.

"After an hour-long fight, exhausted, bleeding profusely and his ammunition spent, Lieutennat Murphy limped back to his company. He reorganized his men and led them in a violent attack on the enemy, driving the Germans from the area."

Lieutenant Col. Arthur Isbell the chaplain from nearby Ft. MacArthur, delivered the eulogy. He talked about Audie's life in Kingston, Tex., where he grew up. "His life as a war hero and international celebrity and businessman never changed the fine qualities that too few people came to know," Isbell said.

"Lieutenant Murphy then had his wound treated on the field. He consistently refused to be evacuated. Lieutenant Murphy's intrepid stand, fighting alone against overwhelming odds, enabled his regiment to hold ground that was won at a heavy cost in blood."

Dr. J. Vernon McGee, a minister from Murphy's home state, concluded the funeral rites and then the crowd dispersed. A top kick sergeant saluted the casket as it was carried to a hearse to be flown to Washington for burial in Arlington National Cemetery on Monday.

'Victoria Parley Fiasco' —Caouette

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit Leader Real Caouette predicts that the forthcoming constitutional conference in Victoria will be a fiasco.

Caouette said in an interview that while Canada's heads of government are fighting for a new constitution "they don't even know what they want."

"Ask any premier what changes they want and they don't know. Prime Minister Trudeau doesn't know either."

He said he would support changes giving more powers to Quebec, "but I wouldn't go along with any constitution which didn't give the same rights to all provinces."

'Everybody' Borrowed To Make It Back Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty-two adults and one baby, stranded in Hong Kong when their charter flight to Vancouver was cancelled, arrived home Friday on a regular scheduled flight — angry, broke and puzzled.

They were among 180 persons booked on the cancelled aircraft being returned to Canada by CP Air at reduced rates authorized by the Canadian Transport Commission. They were to have left Hong Kong on the charter June 1.

Interviewed at Vancouver International Airport, most said they had spent all their money the day before their charter was scheduled to return to Vancouver because they thought their holiday had ended.

They said they were told in Hong Kong that their flight had been delayed, at first for a day and then for up to 10 days. Some said they panicked at the thought of trying to survive without money for that length of time.

"The first I knew about any problems was when a girl phoned me and said the flight was delayed for 10 days," Mrs. Suetching Yeasting of Vancouver said.

"I was staying in a hotel with some other ladies. Everybody had to borrow money to get back to Vancouver. I feel terrible about the whole thing — everybody got mad."

Raze Devji, operator of International Charters, said Thursday the organization had acted as broker for a group called Commonwealth Friendship Association in arranging the charter.

He said a Dutch charter line with which he had arranged transportation pulled out of the deal April 14 when CTC permission for the trip was refused on the grounds that some members of Commonwealth had not belonged the required six months for charter planes.

Police Chiefs Plan Office In Ottawa

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police will establish a permanent secretariat in Ottawa this year to handle its affairs, the association's secretary-treasurer said Thursday.

Donald Cassidy of Ottawa, director-general of the National Harbors Board police, told the annual conference of the Western Canada Chiefs of Police Association the move was made possible by a $25,000 allocation by Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer.

Grim Reapers Win Retrial

CALGARY (CP) — A five-man Alberta Appeal Court ordered a new trial Friday on reduced charges of manslaughter for 11 of 13 men convicted of non-capital murder last year.

The men, all but one members of the Grim Reapers' motorcycle club, were sentenced to life imprisonment in the death of Ronald George Hartley, 23, of Calgary.

Hartley, president of the rival Outcasts motorcycle club, was beaten to death March 7, 1970, on a country road outside the city. The men were sentenced in September.

The judgement was written by S. Bruce Smith, Chief Justice of the Alberta Appeal Court, and concurred by Justices James M. Cairns, G. H. Allen, H. G. Johnson and Carlton W. Clement.

The appeal court ruled that Mr. Justice Neil Primrose, who presided over the trial, did not adequately instruct the 11-man jury about the possibility of convicting 12 of the 13 of manslaughter.

CUPE Resolution

Mayor's Ouster Urged

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Delegates to the annual convention of the B.C. division, Canadian Union of Public Employees, have urged Prince George residents to remove from office Mayor Harold Moffat and any aldermen who support what the union describes as "scurrilous views in respect to public employees."

About 175 delegates representing 14,000 municipal, school board and university employees in B.C. unanimously supported a resolution which charged that Mayor Moffat has "grossly and publicly insulted the municipal employees of this province."

The Mayor told a meeting of municipal officers earlier this week that municipal vehicles should have radios installed to check on employees. He also advocated firing a few employees now and then to keep them alert.

Chinese Deer Born in Zoo

Postmen Revise Constitution

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Union of Postal Workers, in the final stages of a stormy convention, unanimously passed a revised constitution Friday after Montreal delegates returned from a brief walkout the previous day.

"I don't believe we'll have any more problems," said union president William Houle of Ottawa.

"We're in the home stretch ... Several financial reports, election of officers and a few other details are the only items remaining on the agenda."

Houle said the new document includes the best features of constitutions from other Canadian unions. Its most significant features are a "streamlined executive structure" and a provision allowing the national officers to discipline union locals.

Poll Supports China in UN

NEW YORK (CP) — A poll by Louis Harris reports that Americans have reversed themselves and now favor admission of China to the United Nations by 48 to 27 per cent, with the remaining 25 undecided.

Road Slide Claims Two

LYTTON, B.C. (CP) — Two people were killed and five injured Friday when three cars dropped into a 40-foot crevice on Highway 12.

The dead, Nellie Gillis, 60, of Nelson, and Ramsey Henry, 30, of Lytton, were passengers in two cars which drove into the crevice after 150 feet of roadway slid down an embankment.

An RCMP patrol car also fell in, but the policeman was not injured.

Robot All-Round Servant

MOSCOW — Some people have servants. Boris Grishin has a robot.

Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, said Grishin's walking metal man answers the door, wakes him up, supervises his exercise, serves him mineral water, plays music, turns off the lights and calls the fire department when things get too hot.

Gershin, a teacher in the industrial city of Kaluga, calls his robot "Ars" an abbreviation for automatic radio-electronic secretary.

"The big-headed, emerald-eyed robot," Pravda said, "when meeting a guest on the threshold of the apartment says, 'How do you do, my name in Ars'."

Pravade said Ars has a temperature sensor and maintains a constant temperature in Grishin's apartment by opening windows. "When Grishin struck a match near a bookshelf, a relay went into action, and the robot raised the telephone receiver to call the fire department," the newspaper said.

Court Award to Surrey Hospital Matter of Concern to Gaglardi

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi has expressed concern over a Supreme Court of Canada decision ordering Surrey municipality to pay King George private hospital $100,000 in back payments for welfare patients.

Three private hospitals in Victoria including Glengarry and Glenwarren private hospitals, have similar court actions pending against the city of Victoria.

The high court ruled that Surrey must pay the same daily rate for welfare patients as private patients are paying $11. The municipality had been paying $8.05.

Mayor William Vander Zalm said the decision would cost Surrey "a bundle." He predicted costs could reach $250,000. In the meantime, he said, Surrey is going to continue not placing welfare patients in private hospitals.

Gaglardi said he believes the court judgment is "a wrong decision."

"I don't know the complete circumstances of the Surrey case, but the decision must have been based on some technicality."

Gaglardi said if the level of care necessitates an increase in pay, "then there should be an increase — but just remember that the government doesn't dig its money from a hole in the ground.

"You know who is going to have to pay for it — the taxpayers."

Scandinavia: here's why flying there on one plane is better than two.

All airlines have a legal luggage allowance. And just about every Atlantic passenger we've ever seen takes full advantage of it.

Anything you can legally carry means less to cram into those already overflowing suitcases, right?

Which is O K until you have to start carting it all around airports, transferring from one plane to another, one terminal to the next.

With Atlantic 71, once you're on, you're on till Copenhagen...your seat is yours all the way.

The other ways, through places like Montreal or New York involve changing planes, transfer hassles, waiting around—and carrying that luggage with you every inch of the way.

Because we offer same plane Western Arrow service direct to Scandinavia this summer.

But we want to be more than that. So?

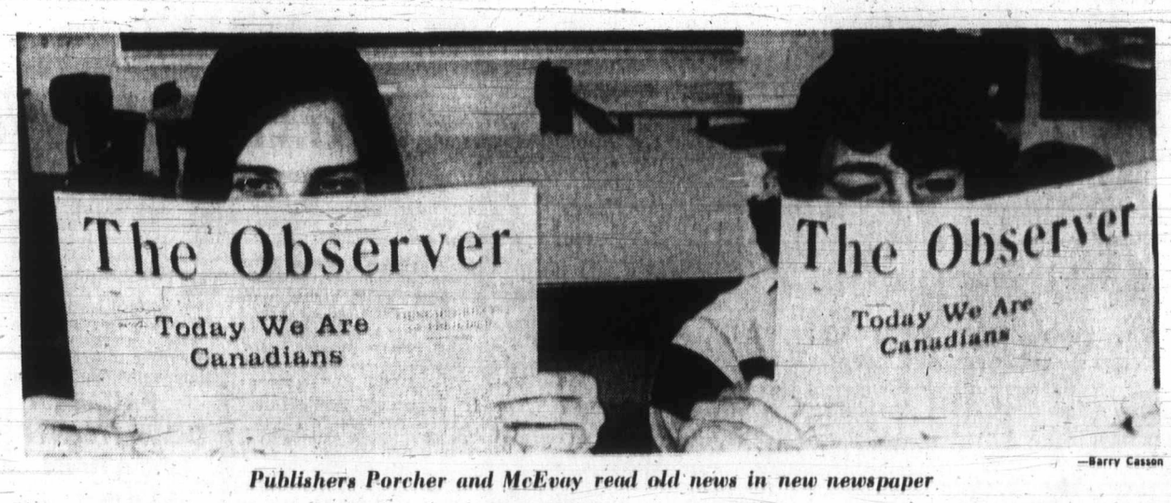
How Eight Students Put Out A Paper



—Barry Casson

Publishers Porcher and McEvay read old news in new newspaper

Deadlines, Headlines and Facts

by NANCY BROWN

There are a couple of youngsters at Shoreline junior high school who'll never again criticize a newspaper headline — or for that matter anything about their daily or weekly newspaper.

They've just finished putting together a four-page centennial newspaper, The Observer — one that might have been published in Victoria 100 years ago.

All the researching, writing, editing and make-up skills that go into a daily newspaper were used by the Grade 10 students who published the paper — but it took them four months to get it out.

And at the end of that four months they found themselves in a spot that newspaper people would understand — two inches of white space and not a line of copy.

They solved their problem simply — they made up a poetic advertisement, and that's an out a make-up man doesn't usually have.

There were six more on their committee — Peter Fitch, David Taylor, Linda Alexander, Kathy Malone, Val Wood and Elaine McBride. They were aided by social studies teacher Brian Wile.

The idea first came to the students when the school centennial committee was considering a project for what was to be a booth in a planned district-wide centennial Fair.

A display of an old-time printing shop was planned, and the newspaper was a secondary idea — something that could be handed out to fair visitors.

The fair idea was abandoned, but the newspaper idea grew.

Students started research at the Provincial Archives, University of Victoria library and the public library. In fact, they went most any place they could find an old newspaper.

They had about 10 hours of school time to do the research. The remainder of the work they did on their own.

Later they held meetings and decided on areas of interest, assignments, and most of all, deadlines.

They admit to some plagiarism in articles which cover B.C.'s entry into Confederation, prejudice against Chinese laborers, the transcontinental railway issue and thumbnail sketches of some politicians.

They added some letters to the editor, for and against Confederation, and critical of Darwin's Origin of Species.

A few household tips on soap making, blood tonics and medicines for colds make weight along with some advertisements.

The paper was printed Wednesday.

Now comes the problem of distribution.

"We don't really want to give it away in the schools," said McEvay. "There's four months of work in it, and it would be awful to see unwanted copies stuffed in the garbage can."

They have decided to send copies to the queen, Prime Minister Trudeau, local politicians, school board officials and similar people.

"We sure learned a lot putting that paper out," added McEvay. "We learned a lot about history, and even more about newspapers.

"I don't know how you put out a paper every day, or how people make up so many pages and write so many heads in one day."

Commented Laura Porcher: "It was fascinating, but I don't think I'd like to work on a newspaper — I don't really think I'm cut out for that kind of thing. I think I'd like to be a mathematician."

Turn Lane Allows Safer Park Entry

Earlier a double white line had been painted on the highway at that point so motorists driving south from Victoria had to use a narrow access road off West Saanich Road or somehow make a turn further along the highway and approach the park from the north.

There had been complaints, and fears of accidents as summer park traffic becomes heavy.

PROVINCIAL COURT

A 42-year-old Saanich man who incited two other persons to kick at two policemen was sentenced Friday in Victoria Provincial Court to one month in jail for assaulting a peace officer himself.

The man, Carl Henry of 135 Burnside West, pleaded guilty May 13 to such a charge and a Saanich policeman told court then that Henry grabbed one constable around the neck after two policemen came to his home on the evening of May 12 while investigating another matter.

The policeman also testified Henry incited two other persons in the home to kick the officers and one constable was kicked on the left hip. Sentencing Henry, Judge William Ostler noted both a previous assault conviction and the incitement.

James Foyer, 58, of 1269 Pembroke was jailed six months by Ostler after pleading guilty May 17 to a charge of trafficking Jan. 6 in Victoria in a derivative of barbituric acid.

Defence lawyer Cal Becker asked for a suspended sentence because the sale of pills in a downtown hotel was made at "a ridiculously low price" since Foyer, an alcoholic, needed only that much money for liquor.

Ostler noted the pills had been "obtained by devious means" and the sale was "deliberate to obtain something that he himself desired." He called Foyer "pathetic" and said the case was not one for probation, but for leniency.

□

Terry Horst Carl Reichenbach, 17, of 4043 Shelbourne, was remanded in custody to June 16 for a pre-sentence report and sentence after pleading guilty to a Saanich charge of breaking and entering and theft. A Saanich detective told court a large number of items worth a total of about $440 was taken "on or about" last Wednesday from a home at 3374 Shelbourne.

□

Peter Christopher Knox, 19, of 1975 Gosper, was fined $250 following his plea of guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana — a small quantity found May 22 when his car was checked in Oak Bay.

□

In traffic court, Judge E. F. N. Robinson ordered a $400 fine for Mrs. Denise Eleanor Burnham, 23, of 2653 Sooke, who was found guilty following a trial on a charge of failing to remain at an accident scene.

The charge resulted from an incident Dec. 27 in the 1600 block Island Highway, Colwood, during which George Richard King, 41, of 3408 Hazelwood, Happy Valley, was killed when knocked from his bicycle while going home from his night-watchman job. Mrs. Burnham also was given a partial six-month driving ban.

□

Robert John Lambie, 40, of 2637 Richmond, was fined $250 and given a partial four-month driving ban after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving May 29 in Victoria with a blood-alcohol reading of more than .08 per cent.

MARK OF EXCELLENCE
Firebird Formula 400 Some of the equipment illustrated or described is optional at extra cost.

It has a bumper you can knock and performance you can't.

It takes an eagle eye to spot Firebird's front bumper. Why? Because it looks like the rest of the body. Actually, it covers the entire front end. And it's made of Endura—Pontiac's rust-proof and amazingly resilient material that resists dents, dings and chipping. How about that...a bumper you can knock.

About the performance you can't. You can't, simply because you pick the output for your Firebird. Take our three Formula Firebirds. The Formula 350 comes with a 350-CID V8. The Formula 400, a 400-CID V8. And the Formula 455...you guessed it...a 455-CID V8. (You can order the 455-CID H.O. with functional scoops on this one.)

You don't have to order the front disc brakes. They're standard. So is a suspension firm enough to let you feel an occasional expansion joint.

Sound inviting? There's a place nearby where you can thump Endura and check out the rest of our story. Your Pontiac dealer's, of course. That's where you'll find the Formula Firebirds.

And the Trans Am, our ultimate performer. And the Esprit, which makes great sport of luxury. And our "basic" Firebird (only Pontiac would put so much into a car and call it basic), which manages to give you a sports car's personality with surprising economy.

The business of auto safety.

Auto safety is everyone's concern. But it's our business.

And we think the attention that's being paid to auto safety now is a good thing. Because it will result in better driving for everyone.

And, frankly, better driving for everyone means better business for us.

That's why we're trying to make it easy to be safe by putting in safety features that work by themselves. You don't have to do anything to make them work.

Like Side-guard beams. And the energy-absorbing steering column. And the Cargo-guard between the trunk and back seat. They start "working" even before you get in the car.

But two safety features, two of the most vital, are worthless unless you do something first.

Unfastened they do nothing. And you've seen enough statistics to know what a difference they can make. So use them.

But that's not all you can do. Because the most effective safety feature of all can't be added to our cars or anybody else's.

That feature is you. And the way you drive. Which should be defensively.

And rested. And sober.

We're all in this together. And together we can solve the auto safety problem once and for all.

And the time is now.

Inquest Set Monday In Victoria Death

Inquest will begin at 7:30 p.m. Monday into the death Thursday of a 29-year-old Victoria man, Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre disclosed Friday.

The victim was James Gordon Shepherd, 1727 Denman, who died in Royal Jubilee Hospital five days after being found unconscious at about noon last Saturday in the swimming pool at the Palm Springs health spa in the Hillside shopping plaza.

The coroner said the inquest would be held at McCalls' chapel.

A police report issued after the incident said Shepherd was in the habit of practising holding his breath while in the pool.

Midnight Bloomers

Up to Victoria Council

Taxi Hike Nearer

Taxi fares in Victoria will increase by 25 per cent if city council approves a recommendation from the city's finance committee.

Committee endorsed the fare hike following a hastily-called meeting Friday morning with taxi cab operators.

There was no opposition to the increase by any of the company representatives at the meeting.

If council approves the recommendation at next week's regular meeting, the rates will change from 80 cents for the first quarter-mile to 80 cents for the first fifth of a mile, and from 10 cents for each additional quarter-mile to 10 cents for each additional fifth of a mile.

Taxi firm representatives told committee the average taxi ride would increase to about $1.70 from the present $1.50.

The proposed increase also needs approval of the Public Utilities Commission, but a city hall spokesman said in cases where fares are subject to municipal regulations PUC approval is a mere formality.

Pot Fields? Two Firms Deny Buying

MONTREAL (CP) — Two major Canadian tobacco companies said Friday they know nothing about alleged purchases of land in Mexico to grow marijuana.

Spokesmen for Macdonald Tobacco Inc. and Imasco Ltd., formerly Imperial Tobacco of Canada Ltd., were commenting on a speech by Toronto psychiatrist Dr. Saul Levine Thursday.

Levine said Several large tobacco firms had bought land in Mexico suitable for growing marijuana and were waiting for the drug to become legal.

Travel Editors Will Look At Province

About 50 travel editors from around the world will visit Victoria and Nanaimo Monday on a week-long tour of B.C., beginning Sunday in two buses provided by the travel industry department.

Theme of the centennial tour is "showing B.C. to the world" and the tour will include extensive travel through the province, listening to travel commentaries, and viewing slides and films.

"A prime objective of the tour is to demonstrate that B.C. is a cosmopolitan vacation area for the world, complete with high-standard accommodations, dining facilities and a variety of public transportation for those from overseas who find it inconvenient to bring their own car," said Ronald Worley, deputy travel industry minister.

Tour members will gather in Vancouver Sunday and will proceed to Victoria and Nanaimo Monday. They will then see the Fraser Valley, Manning Park, the Okanagan and Shuswap area, Rogers Pass, the south Cariboo, the Thompson Canyon, and then will return to Vancouver.

Libby Dam Policy Suggested

The provincial technical land use committee said Wednesday the provincial government should not grant access to crown lands to Kootenay farmers who, as a result of the Libby Dam project in Montana, do not have sufficient arable land and pasture to make their farms viable.

The committee said the government should buy out such farmers who lost their land to flood waters on the Kootenay River, which is to start backing up early next year.

The committee said persons who will be only partially dispossessed by the flood waters should have first priority on crown lands.

He Beat B.C. by a Day

King Fisherman

Good Catches Before Derby

Fishing has been good in the Saanich Inlet the past week with many anglers getting their limits, which should make the Sweetheart Derby being held Sunday by Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association an interesting one.

The derby is open to all women anglers, 16 years and over, whether or not they are members of the VSIAA. It will run from daybreak to noon, with weigh-ins at any of the boathouses or marinas on the inlet.

Tickets at $1 are also available at any of the boathouses, with the prizes being presented at Anglers' Anchorage Marina at 1 p.m.

Anglers are reminded that all entry forms submitted to The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest must have the weight of the fish entered under the appropriate category.

Firms Must Face Up To Dozen Obstacles

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Canadian corporations are faced with a lot of problems says Robert Bonner, vice-chairman MacMillan Bloedel.

He listed twelve of them Friday in an address to Business Conference at the University of Western Ontario in, London, on the future role of Canadian companies in international trade.

To become heir to the future, Canadian corporations would soon have to deal with:

- Major taxation reform.
- A new Canadian policy on foreign investment.
- The next federal budget.
- British entry to the Common Market.
- Continuing instability in international monetary values.
- Renewed inflation.
- Pollution safeguards and their costs.
- Providing jobs in quantity for the most rapidly growing young population in the industrial world.
- The current recession.
- Regional tensions in confederation.
- Resurgent protectionism abroad.
- A decade markedly short of capital.

The former B.C. attorney general said these problems had various aggravations and that Canada is failing into a state of relative underachievement.

At the same time Canada's spending like the American Joneses without trying to earn as the Joneses do.

Good Ore

One man's meat is another man's poison.

Noranda Mines Friday announced assay results from drilling at its recent Northern Australian uranium find and declared them to indicate a body of high grade ore of undetermined extent.

The announcement produced heavy trading on Toronto Stock Exchange where the opening was delayed, and at the close Noranda was up ¾ at $36, after trading as high as $37.

Denison Mines slipped 2½ to $26¼, and its associate Roman was off .60 at 7. Rio Algom another large Canadian mining company with uranium interests fell ⅝ to $17½.

With uranium ore in an over-supply position, the Noranda discovery threatens to aggravate the balancing-off process in the industry.

Datsun Leads

Best selling imported cars in Canada during the first four months of 1971 were Datsun, Toyota, and Volkswagen, according to R. L. Polk and Co., the automobile statisticians.

The two Japanese cars knocked Volkswagen out of the first place it has held among imports for a number of years.

Datsun which sold 6.3 per cent of all cars in the Canadian market was third only to Chevrolet (8.2 per cent) and Ford (7.8 per cent), the top-selling domestic cars.

Pumps Aid Beer

In the fiscal year ended March 31, Molson net earnings were $12,627,547 ($1.11 a share) compared with $12,172,547 ($1.07) in the previous year.

Molson, which also owns the Anthes Imperial group of companies, said its profits were swelled by a large increase of sales of gasoline pumps, resulting from the introduction of no- or low-lead gasolines during they ear.

BP Has Boom

Britain's largest oil company enjoyed a bonanza in the first quarter of 1971 with British Petroleums net revenue jumping to $117,360,000 from $60,240,000 in the corresponding period of 1970.

Sales of crude oil in its world-wide operations rose by 20 per cent to 23,700,000 tons and natural gas sales were up 40 per cent at 23,498 million cubic feet.

BP is controlled by the British Government as its majority shareholder. It has wide interests in the Middle East and the U.S. including Alaska while it controls B.C. Oil and Gas, its Canadian subsidiary.

Trade Mission Meets Bennett

Japanese Delegation Asks, Offers Hints

By IAN STREET

Spokesmen for a Japanese trade mission expressed concern in Victoria Friday over the possibility of continued labor strife affecting exports of raw materials through B.C. ports.

The 18-member mission, headed by Chujiro Fujino, president of the giant Mitsubishi Corp., Japan's largest trading company, was in Victoria for talks with Premier Bennett and other government leaders.

The group arrived in Vancouver Thursday and is heading across Canada to discuss various aspects of two-way trade across the Pacific.

Fujino told a press conference here Friday afternoon the mission had met Bennett, lunched with the cabinet, then had more detailed talks with Resources Minister Ray Williston, Trade and Industry Minister Waldo Skillings and Mines Minister Frank Richter.

The delegation leader said the long history of friendliness between B.C. and Japan was the basis of "heart-to-heart communications" they had enjoyed both with business leaders in Vancouver and with the government.

Bennett assured the visitors, Fujino said, that despite publicity given to the feeling that Canada didn't want to be dominated by foreign ownership, B.C. welcomed capital from abroad, particularly in the form of joint ventures.

Joint ventures are what Japan seeks; Fujino added: "We are not interested in taking over but in securing raw materials for our use."

Nevertheless, he said, Japan also understands the desire on the part of B.C. and Canada generally to at least partially process raw materials before exporting them. And the delegation leader predicted that future joint ventures in this province will include new processing plants.

Among specific questions put by the mission to the three B.C. ministers were several dealing with the labor-management situation in the province.

Isamu Saheki, deputy leader of the mission and president of the Osaka Chamber of Commerce and Industry, asked how B.C. with its small population could hope to develop the province's vast resources. He was told the answer lies in "mechanization."

When a reporter asked if the Japanese were concerned about the prospct of labor strife holding up supplies of raw materials, Fujino replied: "Yes, we are well aware of that; that's why we asked the question about labor supply."

Kenichi Shibuya, president of Jujo Paper Co. Ltd., which is a partner in a forestry complex at MacKenzie on the shores of Williston Lake in north-central B.C., was blunter. He asked the ministers what measures the province was prepared to take to promote stability in the labor force in that remote area.

In this case, the delegation said, the government spokesmen replied that new facilitis including a hospital were being provided to make for better living conditions for workers in the so-called "instant town."

Other questions asked of the ministers included what moves are being taken in this province to control pollution. The answer, a spokesman said, was "of a general nature," outlining "all kinds of control measures."

Referring to the premier's statement Wednesday that trade "is a two-way street," Fujino said there appears to be little market in Japan for Canadian-made consumer items.

But he added: "Generally speaking, it is the nature of Japanese people to prefer foreign-made goods if the price is the same as a domestic article, or even a bit higher.

"At present 26 per cent of Japanese imports are consumer items but with the rapid growth in the economy, this can be expected to increase, opening new markets."

Shibuya said Japan imports furniture from Europe and suggested if Canadian manufacturers can supply competitive products "in good style," this might be one of the new markets.

He added that other trade prospects with Japan lie in the field of specialty papers for book printing and wrapping. At present only Canadian newsprint is imported.

Four Canadian Marks, B.C. Record Bettered

By KEVAN HULL

Three Canadian interscholastic records, a Canadian junior mark and a B.C. interscholastic standard were shattered Friday in the B.C. high school track and field championships which end today at Centennial Stadium.

Joan Pavelich, the Canadian senior record holder, established the first Canadian mark with a discus effort of 155'5". A member of the Canadian Commonwealth Games team last summer, the Vancouverite representing University Hill had an effort of 169'5" in a recent meet for the senior record.

Then Joyce Sadowick, another Canada team member, showed she had recovered fully from her leg injury by matching her personal best with a 54.7-second 400 metres, just three-tenths off the Canadian senior mark.

Miss Sadowick also anchored the Burnaby Central sprint relay team, which broke Mt. Douglas' B.C. scholastic and Canadian junior record of 49.0, to a 48.8-second clocking.

The other Canadian mark came in the 1500-metre steeplechase with John Coates of Richmond covering the course in 4:19.3, more than 10 seconds ahead of his nearest competitor. The previous mark was 4:20.1.

Al Weicker of Oak Bay broke his own B.C. interscholastic record, established during the Vancouver Island meet two weeks ago, and became the first B.C. schoolboy to better four minutes in the heats of the 1500 metres.

Weicker, pushed by Dexter Asson of Vancouver's King George who was also under the old record at 4:02.7, was clocked in 3:59.8. He also set up a possible double today by winning his 800-metre heat in 1:58.2, the fastest time of the night.

Two Mt. Douglas students gathered firsts, Brad Yakubowich winning the boys' 100 metres by a clear stride in 11.0 seconds and Lynda May coming within 10 yards of the Pan-American Games standard with a winning javelin heave of 147'11".

As expected, Patti Loverock of Vancouver's Eric Hamber and Langley's Debbie Brill of Garibaldi, both Canadian team members, won their specialties but with somewhat disappointing efforts.

Miss Loverock, a former Courtenay resident, covered the 100 metres in 11.8 while Miss Brill took the high jump at 5'8", four inches ahead of Nanaimo's Brenda Steffanson.

JILL FOURTH

Mike Morrill of Oak Bay was third and Gary Lockyer of Esquimalt, fourth in the steeplechase while Jill Pelland, the leading qualifier for the 80-metre hurdles, was fourth in the 100 metres behind Miss Loverock.

There will be 21 finals today with the program getting underway at 12:30 p.m.

Toronto-Owned Entry Swells Belmont Field

NEW YORK (CP-AP) — Toronto businessman Steve Stavro's last-minute entry of Sense a Fear Friday swelled the field to 13 for today's running of the Belmont Stakes, the third leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

The 13 entries are the most since 1954 when the field also contained 13. The most ever to start in the 1½-mile classic was 14 in 1875.

The entry of Sense a Fear came as a surprise because trainer Jerry Meyer had indicated he would start the horse only in a small field. However, Meyer said he knew his horse was ready to go the 1½-mile distance.

SEEKS TRIPLE CROWN

Meanwhile, the Venezuelan-owned Canonero II, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, will be out to clinch the Triple Crown with a victory here today. Only eight horses have ever won all three races, the last of which was Citation in 1948.

Canonero II, who began his Triple Crown drive in such low regard that he was made a member of the mutuel field in the Kentucky Derby, was listed as the 4-to-5 favorite for the Belmont.

All week there has been rumors that Canonero II was not a sound horse because of a skin rash and an infection in his right hind foot. But trainer Juan Arias says the horse is fit and ready and that both problems have been cleared up.

Dr. William O. Reed, a top veterinarian, said the colt will run without the slightest handicap.

OTHERS RUNNING

Others entered are J. M. Davis' Royal JD, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Epic Journey, Tartan Stable's Highbinder, Anthony Imbesi's Purse Finder, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lunger's Salem, Pastrael Stable's Twist the Axe, Peter Kissel's Pass Catcher, James J. Harris' Adobe Ed and the Johnny Campo-trained entry of Neil Hellman's Good Behaving and Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French.

The Belmont Stakes will be telecast on Channels 2, 6, 7 and 13 starting at 2 p.m.

If all 13 start, the 103rd running of the Belmont will be worth $162,850 with $97,710 to the winner.

Sense a Fear, a $5,200 yearling, has been second in three stakes races this year but in his last start finished last in the Peter Pan Purse, won by Purse Finder.

Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B., will start from gate 8 aboard Good Behaving, a triple stakes winner who missed the first two Triple Crown races.

An 11-run explosion in the sixth inning brought Sooke Merchants from nine runs behind to a 12-10 win over Colwood Inn in a Stuffy McGinnis Softball League game at Sooke Athletic Park Friday night.

Sooke was behind, 1-10, when they pounded three Colwood pitchers for eight hits, got three bases on balls and took advantage of an error for the big rally.

At Heywood Avenue Park, Century Inn moved into a three-way tie for second place by beating William Head, 8-2. Century used a 12-hit barrage, scoring two runs in four separate innings.

Eric Peterson and Steve Ross gave up one hit each to lead Bell's Men's Wear to a 7-0 exhibition win over Iowa Ghosts before 275 fans at Royal Athletic Park.

Five errors by the Ghosts contributed to their downfall as Bell's scored twice in the first inning and once in the fourth before capping it with a four-run outburst in the sixth inning.

Champ Again

The 31-year-old Napoles battered the game but well-beaten Backus down to the canvas twice in the eighth round and had him in terrible shape when referee Vic Young halted the fight after one-minue, 53 seconds of the round.

The marathon game would have been halted by a 1 a.m. curfew at the end of the 21st inning.

Longest games in the history of the American League were a 4-1 Philadelphia win over Boston in 1906 and a 1-1 tie between Detroit and Philadelphia in 1945, both taking 24 innings.

The major-league record of 26 innings was a 1-1 tie between Brooklyn and Boston in 1920.

Jim Shellenback walked Reggie Jackson with the bases loaded and two out in the 21st inning, then wild-pitched another run home to give the Athletics their win.

Shellenback, the eighth Washington pitcher, then walked Bert Campaneris intentionally.

He wild-pitched the runners ahead with one base each and walked pinch-hitter Larry Brown and Jackson, forcing in the go-ahead run, before Campaneris scored on another wild pitch.

The Senators struck for three runs in the ninth inning, the last two on Toby Harrah's two-out, bases-loaded single off Roland Fingers, the fourth of seven Oakland pitchers, to tie the game.

Cleveland Indians moved up to fourth spot in the American League East with a 4-2 victory over Minnesota Twins in a game shortened to six innings by rain.

Alan Foster held Minnesota to four hits and Ted Ford drove in three runs to help the Indians to the win. Ford's two-run double capped a three-run first-inning explosion by the Indians against Bert Blyleven.

In the National League, Joe Pepitone hit a home run and three singles and right-hander Ferguson Jenkins hurled a three hitter for his 100th career victory as Chicago Cubs stretched their winning streak to four games by trouncing Atlanta Braves, 11-0.

Jenkins, 9-5, retired 14 batters in a row after Sonny Jackson opened the Braves first inning with a bunt single, Jenkins also gave up singles by Bob Didier in the fifth and eighth innings.

Cincinnati Reds bounced back from their no-hit loss on Thursday night by hammering St. Louis Cardinals, 12-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Ross Grimsley.

The Reds, who were beaten three straight games by the Chicago Cubs, including a no-hitter by Ken Holtzman, blasted 17 hits including four each by Tony Perez and George Foster.

Cougars Apply for WCHL Berth Hookway Hired but Shabaga Out

Bishop

Victoria could have a club in the Western Canada Hockey League next season.

Eric Bishop, manager of Victoria Cougars, announced Friday that application had been made for entry into the league and that it would be considered at the league's annual meeting in Saskatoon later this month.

While expressing confidence that the application would be received favorably, Bishop pointed out that approval of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association would still be required.

He said that both the B.C. Junior Hockey League, of which Cougars were coastal-division champions last season, and the BCAHA had been advised of the club's intentions.

Bishop said that the WCHL appeared particularly enthusiastic about expanding into B.C.

There is a possibility that the Estevan Bruins franchise will be moved to New Westminster and a lesser possibility that Vancouver will also be represented. The Vancouver situation hinges on the availability of the Coliseum.

FIVE-TEAM DIVISION

At any rate, if Victoria and New Westminster are admitted for next season, it appears that they will play in a five-team division with Edmonton, Calgary and Medicine Hat.

A six-team east division would likely include Winnipeg, Flin Flon, Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon and Swift Current.

"We might have a couple of rough seasons catching up but that's the super league and that's where our board of directors feel we should be," Bishop said.

FARM CLUBS

He also said that the Cougars had assured the BCJHL that they would operate their franchise somewhere but that no specific place had yet been discussed.

"You have to have at least two or three farm clubs to make it in the 'big-league'," Bishop said, indicating that the B.C. league entry would operate as a farm club. The Cougars would also continue to operate the junior B Cubs, which won the B.C. championship last season.

WON'T RETURN

Bishop also announced that Mike Shabaga, who took over as coach in mid-season from Ron Maxwell, would not be returning and that Tom Hookway, regional scout for New York Rangers, has been appointed director of player personnel.

Bishop said that the club had been unable to come to terms with Shabaga, now back in his native Saskatoon.

"We have two prospects in mind. We'll be talking with the No. 1 choice after the National Hockey League draft meetings in Montreal and I'm sure we'll be able to announce a new coach within two or three weeks."

Hookway, who has been associated unofficially with the Cougars for several years, succeeds Bob Reid.

"Tom has good contacts and knows the player situation in B.C. well," said Bishop. "He's a good hockey man."

Reid, one of the organizers when Cougars were formed in 1967, stayed on with the club after the Victoria group sold its holdings to Bishop and the Calgary group prior to last season.

Reid had indicated that job pressure would probably make the past season his last with the club.

Carol Mann Cards Ace

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hometown favorite Carol Mann, who hasn't won a golf tournament in 16 months, shot a hole-in-one and shared the first-round lead with Jan Ferraris in the $35,000 Lady Carling Open Friday at three-under-par 70.

Kathy Whitworth, Susan Roberts and Joyce Kazmierski were a stroke behind in the 54-hole tourney on the Pine Ridge golf course.

Two U.S. Golfers Reach British Amateur Final

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Steve Melnyk, former United States champion, and Jim Simons won their semi-final matches Friday in the British Amateur golf championship and created an all-American final for the first time since 1967.

The last time was when Bob Dickson defeated Ron Cerrudo, 2 and 1, at Formby, England.

Melnyk beat Britain's Peter Moody, 4 and 3, in one semi-final while Simons eliminated Tom Kite, 21, of Austin, Tex. 1-up in the other.

Simons spent his morning meeting Hugh Stuart of Scotland and beat him, 2 and 1. Before beating Moody Melnyk, 24, from Jacksonville, Fla., ousted Dr. Ed Updegraff, 49, of Tucson, Ariz., 4 and 3.

The 36-hole final will be played today over a course that frightens many golfers because its North Sea weather changes from hour to hour.

Nicklaus Catches Miller In Atlanta Golf Classic

ATLANTA (AP) — Jack Nicklaus fired a four-under-par 68 and moved into a tie for the lead midway through the $125,000 Atlanta golf classic Friday.

Nicklaus, winner of three titles already this year, had a 3 hole total of 135 and was tied with first-round leader John Miller.

Nicklaus had been in the clubhouse for several hours when the 24-year-old Miller failed on a birdie putt on the 18th hole that would have kept him in the lead alone.

Miller, who tied Nicklaus for second in the Masters, had a 70.

Just one stroke back was 42-year-old Gardner Dickinson, who took a second consecutive 68 for 136, eight strokes under par on the hilly, 6883-yard Atlanta Country Club course.

South African Gary Player, former PGA champ Ray Floyd, who had eight birdies but two triple bogeys, Tom Weiskopf and Dave Eichelberger were grouped at 137.

Miller, who has yet to take a title but who has won more than $44,000 in this his third year on the pro tour, had a chance to take the lead alone after he knocked in a 22-foot putt for a birdie on the tough 17th hole.

He put his second shot on the par-five finishing hole in a bunker, blasted out to five feet but missed the putt.

It took a score of 146 to make the cut for the final two rounds. The most notable casualties were U.S. Open champ Tony Jacklin of England and Dave Hill, who has a $1 million law suit pending against the PGA and the tournament player's division.

Pakistani Hits 274 Test Runs

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuter) — Zahir Abbas increased his score to 274 Friday as Pakistan continued to humiliate the England attack on the second day of the first cricket Test match here.

The Record Breaking Pakistanis took their total to 602 for seven wickets by close of play — an immense score against the side which just four months ago won the Ashes in Australia.

Among several records toppled, the Pakistani total passed the previous best for an England-Pakistani series — 558 for six by England in 1954 — and Zahir's tremendous innings set a record for a Pakistani batsman against England, eclipsing Hanif Mohammad's 187 not out in 1967.

Zahir continued to display a wide and attractive range of strokes Friday as he built on his overnight score of 159. He was out at last after a stay of nine hours and 10 minutes, with a stroke off England captain Ray Illingworth. He was caught at square leg.

Zahir cracked 38 fours with powerful strokes. He was assisted by Mustaq Mohammed, who scored his third Test century in a second-wicket stand which put on 291 in 351 minutes.

Worcestershire beat Yorkshire. Worcestershire 244 and 197 for 9 declared; Yorkshire 160 and 101.

Warwickshire 301 for 4 declared and 223 for 5 declared; Lancashire 351 for 7 declared and 145 for 3. A draw.

Middlesex 311 for 4 declared and 246 for 5 declared; Gloucestershire 315 and 204 for 9. A draw.

Oxford University beat MCC. MCC 405 for 5 declared and 164 for 5 declared; Oxford University 337 and 233 for 5.

New Coach

CALGARY (CP) — Ron Payne, 31, who played with Calgary Stampeders for seven seasons, has been named assistant coach of the Western Football Conference club.

He replaces Bo Bolinger on the offensive line coach. Bolinger resigned after two seasons to take a position with St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League.

Hoop Owner Sues Coach

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Bill Sharman has quit as coach of the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association to become coach of the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association, the Stars said Friday.

Bill Daniels, the Utah owner, said Sharman told him Tuesday night he was quitting to join the Lakers. Joe Mullaney's dismissal as the Lakers' pilot was announced Thursday.

The Stars said they had filed a $5,000,000 damage suit against Sharman, who led the team to the ABA crown last season.

Daniels said in the lawsuit that Sharman was signed to a seven-year contract in 1968, which would not expire until April 30, 1975.

Lions Sign Two More

VANCOUVER (CP) — Henry Lodewyks of Winnipeg has been signed by British Columbia Lions of the western football conference, along with an import from Colorado State university.

Lodewyks, 21, was an all-Canadian defensive halfback with the University of Manitoba Bisons last season. The American is James White, 22, a six-foot-four defensive end who has one year of eligibility remaining at CSU.

Make Classified a Reading Habit

This is one of the best reasons for owning a Volkswagen.

It happens to the best of us.
Sooner or later, you're bound to run into a little trouble.
However, if you run into it with a Volkswagen, it doesn't hurt you very much.
VW parts are inexpensive. And easy to replace.
And for the most part, you don't have to dismantle half the car to replace most parts.
A VW dealer won't have to look high and low for a new fender for you either. He's got all the parts right at hand.
And since anything that needs replacing can be replaced so easily, labour costs are held way down.
Which means you don't have to be limited to just headlight smashing.
You can jab the trunk.
Graze the door.
Or bump off a bumper.
It may make you furious, but it won't make you poor.
So if your garage door just happens to jump out in front of you and dent up your VW a bit, don't worry.
We can conveniently replace anything you use to stop your VW.

Hindle Happy with Dolphins' Drills

Head-coach Frank Hindle is optimistic of Victoria Dolphins' chances in their rookie season in the Big Four Junior Football Conference after the club's two-week spring training.

Dolphins, who will hold weekly practices until regular training begins in mid-July, have had a total of 65 athletes out, with from 35 to 45 for each workout.

Hindle is particularly pleased with the quarterback outlook as Terry Karpiuk, who played juvenile for Farmer Construction, Jerry Kustaski, who guided Saanich Hornets to the B.C. juvenile title last year, and 16-year-old Greg Gardner have been impressive.

Gardner is attempting to move up from bantam ranks, where he played with Juan de Fuca Tigers.

Strengthening the Victoria-area hopefuls are a number of players from north of the Malahat with Bruce McInnes from Nanaimo and Rick Price, Dan Kinney, John Jameson, Ian Waters and Jim Young, all from Duncan, drawing special notice.

Helping Hindle are Garry Andrews, who played his junior football in Saskatchewan and had one season with Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League; Joe Kurylo, a former tackle with the Edmonton Eskimos of the CFL; and Roy Vollinger, who has played in Victoria and coached juvenile and junior bantam teams.

Operation Track Shoes At Stadium on Sunday

Entrants from the United States, mainland B.C. and up-Island will compete Sunday with Victorians in Operation Track Shoes at Centennial Stadium.

Operation Track Shoes is a track and field meet for handicapped persons and is being organized by Spades, a group of high school students sponsored by Kiwanis clubs of the area.

Former lieutenant-governor George Pearkes will officially open the meet which is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. and which is open to the public.

Clinic Methods Will Change

Bob Bell, coach of the University of Victoria Vikings basketball team, plans some innovations at the UVic basketball school which will run from July 5 to July 30.

The period covers two sessions, each lasting two weeks.

Planned are the use of lowered hoops and junior-sized basketballs for nine and 10-year-olds and the use of the university's video taping facilities which will pinpoint faults in play execution.

Assisting Bell is Gord Hoshal, a member of the UVic Jayvees team which finished second in the Canadian junior championship last season.

The school is designed for boys between the ages of nine and 13.

Registration forms are available at the University of Victoria Athletic Office, "P" Hut or further information may be obtained by calling 477-6811, local 357.

There's another sport Penny May is good at — softball.

Miss May, who won the Western Canada pentathalon championship recently, smacked two home runs to lead Esquimalt Junior Combos to a 7-6 win over Moose Lodge Loyals in a Victoria Senior Women's Softball League game at Bullen Park Thursday night.

Another team of juniors, Cablevision, moved back into a first-place tie with Tillicum Athletic Club by outslugging Westendale Constructionettes, 14-9, at Beacon Hill Park.

CFB Roadrunners won their first game of the season but needed a six-run rally in the last inning to edge Independents, 10-9, at Naden Park.

Tillicums had first place to themselves briefly when they hammered Independents, 12-3, Wednesday night at Beacon Hill Park.

Horses Lost

CHICAGO (AP) — Fire swept a large barn at Arlington Park racetrack Thursday night and early Friday, killing 33 horses and causing losses estimated as high as $500,000. Two men are being sought for questioning.

Nixon Seeks More Canadian Oil

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon sent to Congress on Friday a broad plan for ensuring adequate "clean energy" in the future, including virtually unlimited crude oil imports from Canada.

But the careful wording of the president's brief mention of Canada in the massive document led observers to speculate that he was putting the prestige of his office behind a new effort toward the oft-proposed continental energy policy.

Interior Secretary Rogers Morton told a news conference he hopes negotiations with Canada can "lead to an agreement within a year" on crude oil imports.

Asked whether the concentration on a crude oil agreement means the U.S. has given up the idea of some form of over-all continental energy policy, which has run into strong opposition in some quarters in Canada, Morton replied: "Certainly not."

That is still an open question, he added, noting that the president's message to Congress does not directly "address itself to that."

Nor, surprisingly, did the other than the unspecific reference to Canada or the potential oil supplies from the vast deposits locked in Alaska's frozen North Slope fields.

Actually, although there is a current quota of 450,000 barrels a day on Canadian crude east of the Rocky Mountains, recent manoeuvres have raised possible Canadian imports to virtually pipeline capacity — close to 700,000 barrels a day. But for various reasons U.S. companies have not been buying Canadian oil at pipeline capacity, although predictions are that demand will rise sharply in the fall.

Nixon noted that over the years the two countries have "steadily increased their trade in energy" and said "the time has come to develop further this mutually advantageous trading relationship."

Record Heroin Catch Soars to 249 Pounds

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. narcotics agents and Spanish police have seized a world record catch of 249 pounds of heroin in Valencia, Spain, Attorney-General John Mitchell announced Friday.

The heroin, with an estimated U.S. street value of $35 million to $40 million, "is the largest seizure of heroin on record," Mitchell said.

The heroin was hidden in an automobile traced to Valencia by U.S. agents, Mitchell said. Two French nationalists were arrested.

Talked Into Surrender

Retired Miner Hijacks Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A retired West Virginia coal mine hijacked a United Air Lines jet Friday night and held its three crewmen hostage for three tense hours until they talked him out of his pistol and his demand to go to Israel.

The airliner — UAL Flight 797 — was bound from Charleston, W.Va., to Newark, N.J., with 66 passengers aboard when it was commandeered and forced to land at Dulles International Airport about 30 miles west of the capital.

The hijacker, identified as Glen Elmo Riggs, 58, let the passengers and two stewardesses debark almost as soon as the plane touched down, shortly before 6 p.m. But he told the crew that it would have to stay and fly him to Tel Aviv because "a bomb was going to come to America."

Told the hijacked plane was too small for a Tel Aviv flight, Riggs agreed to wait for a bigger plane and was finally persuaded to surrender his gun.

Port Refusal Angers Fishermen

There will be no recurrence of a May 29 incident in which five Canadian fishing boats were refused entry to an American port during a storm, U.S. Coast Guard officials said Friday.

Captain Ken Pierce of the Seattle Coast Guard office said the incident has been investigated, and all stations up and down the American coast have been told that refuge should be given when it is requested even if the port in question is full.

Meanwhile in Ottawa, the external affairs department is investigating the charges made by two Port Alberni fishermen that U.S. Coast Guard vessels have prevented Canadian fishing boats from entering Washington state ports.

Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said the charges involve an issue of customary international law. No treaty with the U.S. is involved.

According to fishermen Elliot Cook and Herb Kevis, a small fleet of 18 trollers was fishing off the Washington coast near LaPush, a small port about 40 miles south of Cape Flattery in the early morning on May 29.

At about 4:30 a.m. a sudden storm came up and the boats headed for shore.

Five boats headed into LaPush, but, say the fishermen, the Coast Guard refused to let them into the port.

The rest of the boats turned away, and each looked for shelter elsewhere.

Returning to Port Alberni this week, the fishermen demanded some action. They said the only reason that damage was so light was because the storm didn't last too long.

The fishermen say this was just one of a series of incidents and they want a stop to the trouble.

Cook says that American customs regulations demand 24 hours notice before a boat is allowed into an American port but "in case of storm, haven could be granted without the 24-hours notice."

Pierce said that an investigation was launched into the incident as soon as the coast guard received word of it.

He said that at about 5:45 a.m. on May 29 the fishermen on five Canadian boats reported rough weather, and said they were taking some water over the bow.

All the moorages in the small port were full, and reports were requested from other coast guard vessels in the area.

One boat anchored on the bar reported five to six-foot swells there, while the lightship reported six to eight-foot swells at sea.

"From this it was gathered that the boats were in no immediate danger, and since the port was full they were refused permission to enter.

Centennial Showcase

Plays International

By BERT BINNY

Four more plays were presented Friday night in the B.C. Centennial Showcase of Plays in a program which was described by adjudicator Gordon Peacock as "a truly international showcase — England, Ireland, United States, Germany — spanning 40 years of writing."

First came Objective Case by the Powell River Players, an item described on the program as "a play which vacillates on a thin line between expressionism and realism."

This it certainly did but it remained quite absorbing although the adjudicator observed that "the production was keyed too low: it needed attention to climatic moments, tempo and rhythm.

"There were too few high moments and, with this play, these have to be imposed by the company to hold our interest. They are not supplied by the writer."

The Jewish Wife by the Duncan Drama Group employed only two performers and one of these, the wife, has by far the greatest responsibilities.

The adjudicator found that the piece was "underplayed but it brought a level of reality and understanding of character that we have not seen very often this far in the festival."

Of Johanna Deleeuw who played the wife, Peacock said: "I wished that Miss Deleeuw had projected more forcibly both her voice and the emotional moments. One senses that she is capable of doing so."

A thoroughly delightful comedy, The Moon Shines on Kylenamoe, was presented by the North Pacific Players of Prince Rupert.

"Here," said Peacock, "is a company that has labored hard with a director who obviously knows how to handle spatial relationship onstage. It is a group that I feel certain understands the play and the environment out of which it comes. With certainly good assistance from Sean O'Casey, they gave us at moments a delightful performance. Paddy McGarrigle as Sean Tomasheen gave the key and set the level but found difficulty in maintaining it."

The evening ended wih N. F. Simpson's We're Due in Eastbourne in Ten Minutes, a play of very modern vintage.

The adjudicator noted that "the cast caugh the inenion of he play, gave us an amusing half-hour in a smooth performance and, I feel, served the author quite well, particularly in the performances of Mollie McLynch as Martha and John Crowe as Humphrey."

RCMP To Patrol Protection Island

NANAIMO — RCMP have agreed to make regular patrols on nearby Protection and Newcastle Islands after a weekend fire blamed on vandals on Protection Island destroyed a summer home, said Mayor Frank Ney this week.

As a result of the fire, the volunteer fire chief on the island resigned Tuesday in disgust because groups of weekend visitors merely stood around and watched.

John Lewis said appeals for help from the volunteer force have met with "increasing apathy from both full-time and part-time residents."

Protection Island ratepayers have asked for more policing and Nanaimo RCMP said the marine division of the Nanaimo force will do the patrolling.

Waste Ban Rapped

The vice-president of Crownex International said in Vancouver Thursday B.C.'s director of pollution control gave in to the wishes of "misinformed and ignorant protestors" in rejecting the company's application to discharge mine wastes into the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

E. C. Dobell said in an interview William Venables rejected the application after ignoring technical data drawn up to support it.

A company subsidiary had applied in March for a permit to discharge up to one million gallons of mine wastes daily into the strait, including tailings and chemicals.

Crownex International is one of the parent companies of Dison Development Ltd., operators of the Cowichan copper mine near the community of Jordan River on Vancouver Island, which made the application.

"The rejection was made on the recommendation of the health and recreation and conservation departments, but those departments didn't even ask to see the technical data we gathered on their request," Dobell said.

"They were saying: 'Don't bother us with the facts, our minds are already made up.' The director gave in to a bunch of ignorant and misinformed protesters."

The Pacific Trollers' Association, the Scientific Pollution and Environmental Control Society and residents in the area opposed the application.

Vatican Urges

Get Involved

Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

ROME — The Vatican, in a new approach to communication, urged all Roman Catholics Thursday to get more involved in the mass media, including everything from comic books to television.

An 83-page pastoral instruction from the Pontifical Commission for Social Communication sets forth doctrinal principles and general pastoral guidelines in relating to the press, theatre, radio and television.

The document moves from the Vatican council tone of "extreme caution, almost of suspicion," to a mood welcoming of the media of social communication, according to Gordon Cardinal Gray of Scotland, senior cardinal on the commission.

Issuance of the instruction came at a time of some controversy around the Vatican's own relations with the mass media. There were charges last week that the Vatican had prevented television crews from filming a protest by conservative Catholics in St. Peter's Square. The press staff of the Vatican itself has been reduced recently and some requests for information are unanswered after more than six months.

"If public opinion is to emerge in the proper manner, it is absolutely essential that there be freedom to express ideas and attitudes," the instruction states.

"The process of promoting in what is sometimes referred to as 'propaganda campaign' with a view to influencing public opinion is justified only when it serves the truth and its objectives and methods accord with the dignity of man and when it promotes causes that are in the public interest."

Immersion Proof 'Of Dedication'

Culminating a period of Bible study and advanced ministerial training, 18 persons associated with Greater Victoria congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses were baptized Saturday in the immersion pool at Kingdom Hall on Joan Crescent.

"One must make a personal decision to dedicate himself to Jehovah God before baptism," said one of the candidates, Bob Ell of 4885 Cherry Tree Bend.

He and his fiancee Kathy Logan of 4412 Wilkinson, also baptized Saturday morning, said they feel this was a most important step in their lives.

"It is now possible," said Ell, "for us to make a life together of serving God and man."

Robert Jackson, circuit supervisor for Southern Vancouver Island, explained that going under the water in total immersion symbolizes one's death to his former course in life and that coming out of the water means his coming forth to a new life of service to God.

"So immersion is an outward evidence of the dedication vow of the Christian," he said. "It is just as it was with first-century Christians who were baptized only after a course of study that put them in a postition to minister to their fellow men."

The baptism was one of the events in the three-day circuit assembly, most of which took place in S. J. Willis school.

A public meeting Sunday afternoon drew almost 1,500 persons who heard William Veenstra, travelling representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, who discussed the question: What is Behind the Spirit of Rebellion?

Veenstra said deviation from Bible principles is primarily responsible for the widespread spirit of rebellion as well as for imperfect conditions that stimulate rebellion.

"The real solution to man's overwhelming problems lies in God's kingdom," he said. "But to benefit from that arrangment one must follow God's ways as outlined in the scriptures.

"Jehovah's Witnesses do not promote 'Establishment' but we also do not rebel against the authorities which God permits to operate in this system. We will continue actively working for His new system where injustices will not be permitted."

Glad Tidings Appoints New Minister

The appointment was announced this week by Rev. Paul Hawkes, pastor of Glad Tidings Pentecostal Church, of Rev. David Ball as minister of Christian education for the church.

The new minister is a 1965 graduate in history and psychology of the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, and a 1969 graduate in secondary education from the same university.

Ball taught social studies and history in the high school at Perdue, Sask., where he was also vice-principal for three years.

For nine years he was organist at Elim Tabernacle in Saskatoon. At the same time he worked with the senior choir and the radio-television ministry of the church. He had done extensive work with Sunday school and youth groups.

A native of Alberta, Ball is married to the former Patricia Fulford, a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan, who instructed in pediatrics at the College of Nursing for two years. The couple has taken up residence in Victoria with their three-month-old daughter, Heather.

Convention Surprise

Baptists Fire Up

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The 114th annual meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention took up a record number of social issues on which the conservative denomination previously had taken no stand.

The Rev. Dr. Carl E. Bates, convention president, had predicted a much less controversial session than the 1970 Denver meeting, which erupted into hot debates over a biblical commentary.

During one discussion at the three-day meeting which concluded Thursday, Bates urged delegates to "find a way to conduct business that will not limit our messengers (delegates)" but at the same time will not "allow the secular press to distort our image to the world."

The convention, with 12.6 million members, is the largest protestant denomination in the United States.

Delegates approved resolutions on abortion, prison reform, judicial reform, anti-semitism, the Vietnam war, aid to private education and alcoholic beverages, among others.

Leprosy Worker Leads Meetings

Victorians will have three opportunities to hear of the work of the international, interdenominational Leprosy Mission.

The first opportunity is at 8 p.m. today in the lower hall of St. John's Anglican Church when Dr. V. P. Das of Chandigar, India, tells about his work among the lepers.

The doctor will speak again at the 11 a.m. Sunday service in St. John's Church.

Jubilee Grad

The third talk will be given by Doris Baker at the regular meeting of the mission at 2 p.m. Friday in Central Baptist Church.

A 1962 graduate of Royal Jubilee Hospital, she is the trained nurse at the mission's home and hospital in Poladpur where she has been since 1968.

The mission has 200 in-patients and 300 out-patients.

Miss Baker said this week she finds her work challenging and rewarding.

Many Aspects

"It involves your whole life," she said. "We aren't involved in just one but in many ways. We are concerned with rehabilitation, plastic surgery, public health, physiotherapy and psychology, in addition to the medical aspect."

Leprosy, while treatable, still affects 15 million persons in the world, Miss Baker said.

"It's only in the last 20 years that it has been treatable," she said.

A graduate of Oak Bay High School, Miss Baker has been a member of St. Mary's, Oak Bay, and St. John's Anglican churches.

Bishops Seek Option

Pontiff Steadfast On Celibacy Rule

By LOUIS CASSELS

The Roman Catholic Church may change the 900-year-old rule which requires priests to remain unmarried. But it won't happen while Pope Paul VI is in office.

That's the word from Vatican sources who report that on this subject, the sometimes-vacillating Pontiff has firmly made up his mind.

The celibacy issue is due to come up for discussion at this fall's Synod of Bishops in Rome. But the pope's attitude makes it a foregone conclusion the discussion will end with a reaffirmation of celibacy.

Pope Backed

Some bishops from the Netherlands and other Western European nations may make an argument for putting celibacy on an optional rather than a mandatory basis. But they cannot expect any support from the U.S. hierarchy which at its recent meeting in Detroit lined up solidly behind the pope on the celibacy question, despite the findings of a survey which the bishops themselves commissioned.

The survey, conducted by the National Opinion Research Centre at the University of Chicago, showed more than two-thirds of the American priests below the age of 45 would like to see celibacy made "a matter of personal choice" rather than a flat requirement.

Choice Stressed

Freedom of choice, rather than a widespread hankering after matrimony, seemed to be the most important consideration. Fewer than one-fifth of the priests said they'd probably marry if they could. Upwards of 80 per cent felt they could serve God and their congregations more faithfully and more effectively if they did not have families of their own.

This is precisely the argument that has been made through the centuries by proponents of celibacy, from the Apostle Paul to Paul VI. An unmarried priest can be more single-minded in his devotion to duty than a family man. He also can work longer hours and make do with less income than he'd need if he had a wife and children to think about.

Advocates of optional celibacy contend the present inflexible law is causing many promising young men to leave the priesthood and is discouraging others from entering it.

Parish Link Stressed

A greater sense of need for clergy and laity to consult about all aspects of parish life and for more involvement of the laity came out of an Anglican diocesan conference on parish renewal held in Parksville last weekend, Canon Hilary Butler of Christ Church Cathedral said this week.

More than 100 persons attended the conference of clergy and laity in Island Hall.

"It's the first time in the 10 years I've been here that the parishes could get together and discuss what goes on in the parishes," Butler said. "At Synod we're looking after the business of the diocese. It was my impression that the lay people were really excited about the idea."

Ideas from the conference will be taken back to parish task forces, recently formed, and to parish councils and congregations.

Some of the subjects discussed included beach services for transients, accepting people as people with sincere love and respect, family campout weekends, retirement homes for the aged, the blind, sharing talents with other parishes and taking stands on public issues.

Pimen of Krutitsy and Kolomna

Russian Church Installs Leader

MOSCOW (UPI) — Amidst scenes of medieval splendor, Metropolitan Pimen of Krutitsy and Kolomna was enthroned patriarch of all-the-Russias, Thursday, making him the supreme spiritual ruler of the millions of Russian Orthodox here and abroad.

The three-hour ceremonies at Moscow's Cathedral of the Assumption were conducted with the participation of about 5,000 worshippers including the patriarchs of Alexandria, Jerusalem, Antioch, Romania and Bulgaria and Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus.

The Vatican, which now has regular but informal relations with the Russian church, was represented by Giovanni Cardinal Willebrands, president of the Secretariat for Christian Unity.

Pimen is the fourth patriarch since the revolution of 1917 and the 14th patriarch since the Russians accepted Christianity in the 10th century.

About 300 years ago, Czar Peter the Great abolished the patriarchate and made himself head of the church.

Ironically enough, it was the fall of the monarchy in 1917 and the revolution that enabled restoration of the patriarchate.

Pimen, wearing magnificent brocaded robes of gold and green and a crown-like mitre of gold encrusted with jewels, was installed primate of Russian Orthodoxy on an ornate shell-shaped throne crowned with a golden cross.

When Pimen was pronounced patriarch, the assembled metropolitans and bishops, equally resplendent in their jewelled robes and mitres, proclaimed in chorus "axios patriarch," the Greek phrase meaning "he is worthy of being a patriarch."

The liturgy was conducted with the assistance of a mixed choir of about 300 voices whose chanting and responses of "gospode pomilui" (Lord have mercy) shook the walls of the onion-domed cathedral on Yelokhovsky Square.

Fifty-three years since Tikhon, the first patriarch after the 300 year gap, excommunicated the Soviet government, Pimen and his immediate predecessors patriarchs Alexius and Sergius had worked out a modus vivendi with the atheist Kremlin.

Identity Search Television Topic

An interview with a British potter working in Victoria and consideration of the question How can I be me? — will make up the television program of the Greater Victoria Council of Churches on Cablevision's Channel 10 from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m. Monday.

The first half an hour, titled Connections, will feature Dick Hensen, who has taught pottery classes at Pacific Pottery Studio, 648 Fisgard, for the past two months.

The studio is owned by Kent McLeod, volunteer worker with Young Life, an organization for young people who are not connected with any particular church.

The program, taped in the studio, will attempt to show the creative scope of working with clay and also its rehabilitative potential.

Four of the potter's students will appear — Dr. Richard Shutler, associate professor of anthropology at the University of Victoria; Joan Warren, mother of three and music student at UVic; Dr. Martin Scherzer, dentist and aspiring gourmet cook, and Wendy Warren, secretary to sculptor Elza Mayhew.

The second half of the program, titled Journey in Faith, takes the form of a panel discussion.

Some of the questions to be dealt with include: Do you pray? When you do, what happens? Does God work this way? Can we communicate with God and influence or control Him? Or is it for God to direct and control us? Does He? Will God listen? What's really involved in prayer? Does it do any good?

Panel members are Ann Purdon, a young mother; Mabel Sadler, a churchwoman; Rev. Norman Archer, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church, and Rev. Gordon Walker, rector of St. David's Anglican Church, who's also program director-producer.

Bishop Speaks In Cathedral

Holdup Perfect—Not Loot

LONDON (UPI) — By any self-respecting holdup man's standards it should have been a model heist.

A 10-man gang, faces covered with stocking masks, hemmed in an armored car early Friday as it was delivering sacks of mail and money to a bank in London's financial district.

Timing as precise as a Swiss watch, they moved in, covering astonished guards with sawed-off shotguns while they grabbed their loot, then sped away in a small fleet of getaway cars.

But police said their haul, estimated in the tens of thousands of pounds, was all in "mutilated" money — old notes so perforated, torn and marked as to be instant giveaway for anyone trying to circulate them.

"This has been a proper clanger (blooper) dropped by the robbers," said Scotland Yard Detective Chief Superintendent Gerald Lee, heading the investigation.

"Their information, obviously from a tip, was inaccurate. What they weren't told was that there were tens of thousands of pounds in new notes packed in the security van. They missed those entirely."

Futile or not, even police agreed the holdup was a masterpiece of planning and execution.

At just 7:35 a.m. the armored car pulled up at the rear of a building housing a financial district branch of the National Westminster Bank.

The four walked briskly, single file, into the entranceway. Suddenly five masked men jumped out of the shadows, firing two warning shots over the guards' heads.

At the same time five more spilled out of a panel truck which had pulled into the street, blocking the security car's exit. One of them shot guard Charles Gordon, 43, in the leg.

Within seconds they had taken to the panel truck and a number of other vehicles and sped off.

Hydro Strike

Pickets Removed At Jordan

Striking B.C. Hydro electricians withdrew picket lines from the Jordan River work site at noon Friday and construction on the dam is expected to be back to normal Monday.

Pickets were set up by about 20 Hydro employees at 6:30 a.m. Friday, halting work at the dam and several construction projects after an estimated 130 other tradesmen refused to cross the lines.

Tom Forkin, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, representing the striking workers, told the Colonist from Vancouver that the pickets were withdrawn at noon because all construction workers had left the site for the weekend.

The Jordan River strike was the latest in a series of hit-and-run actions staged in the last three days by the IBEW against the corporation.

The strike began Wednesday in Burnaby, moved to Williams Lake Thursday where 15 men stayed off the job, but returned to work Friday.

Forkin said workers at Jordan River and Prince George "will most likely be back on the job" Monday morning.

Asked what centres will be hit next, he said, "We'll see about that Monday.

"It looks very good as far as strike action is concerned, but, unfortunately, there's no progress as far as negotiations go."

Meanwhile, B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said the spot strikes haven't affected service to date and no negotiations have been arranged between the two parties.

He said it would be futile for the corporation to appear before an independent arbitrator, as requested by the union, because a mediator has already failed to find a solution to the dispute.

"I would say the mediator we had, Clark Gilmour, was one of the best in the business and he couldn't get us together."

He said the electrical workers are already "the mandarins of our work force, the highest paid of them all."

Talks in the dispute broke off a week ago when Shrum told the union that Hydro wouldn't pay them more than the 21¾ per cent offered Hydro office workers over a three-year period.

The union wants 18½ per cent over two years. Hydro electricians are now paid $5.39 an hour.

Late Friday, Local 378 of the Office and Technical Employees Union announced it had reached agreement with B.C. Hydro on a new three-year contract, providing salary increases totalling 22.8 per cent.

A total of 2,000 members are affected by the settlement, about the same number as are represented by the IBEW.

Zoning Battle: Third Round Soon

Once again, it's multiple-family versus single-family zoning or apartment block versus private home.

And again, as in several cases last year, including the contentious Spencer Castle rezoning, the city's politicians and their administrative advisers are at odds.

Twice Victoria real estate man John Dickie has tried to have a parcel of land at the corner of Cedar Hill Road and Ryan rezoned from its present R-1 single-family to R-3 multiple-family.

Twice his application was endorsed by the city's plan ning department, by the traffic engineer and by the city's Advisory Planning Commission.

But both times council turned it down. The second time the application didn't even make it to a public hearing. It was received and filed by council.

Dickie is trying again and again his application is backed by the planning department, the traffic engineer and the planning commission.

At present, a bylaw proposing the zoning change is being prepared by the city solicitor and council will be asked to give it first reading next Thursday.

If it is approved in principle, a date will be set for a public hearing.

And that's when opponents and supporters may state their views before council.

"I don't know what all the fuss is about," Dickie told the Colonist Friday.

"There are lots of apartments in the area and our block would really improve the general appearance of the street," he said.

Dickie said he wants to build a 72-suite, $1.8 million condominium apartment on the property which now consists of four homes and three empty lots.

"We have talked to all the neighbors and tried to respect their wishes in the design which we propose to use," he said.

In spite of frequent statements by aldermen that there is enough property in Victoria zoned for apartment construction, council often changes zoning from single-family to multiple-family, Dickie said.

"I just hope council will give this plan serious consideration when it comes up later this month," he said.

Soldier, Where Goest Thou?

The Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) will exercise its right of freedom of the city today when its members march through the streets with bayonets fixed, colors flying and drums beating.

The regiment will march from the Bay Street Armory at 2:30 p.m., down Douglas to Courtney, then to Government and south to the Empress Hotel where a ceremony will take place at 3 p.m.

When the regiment reaches the hotel, Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock, accompanied by city clerk Moran Waller and police chief J. F. Gregory, will step into the roadway and hold up his hand to halt the regiment.

The mayor will demand "by what right does this regiment march through the city of Victoria with bayonets fixed, colors flying and drums beating?"

The commanding officer, Lt.-Col. M. E. Heppell, will reply to the mayor by reading the freedom scroll presented to the regiment by the city in 1964.

At the conclusion the mayor will tell the commanding officer to "proceed in peace."

A bronze plaque commemorating the occasion will be presented to the city.

After the ceremony the regiment will march to the lawn of the legislative buildings to be joined by veterans wearing their glengarries and campaign medals. The entire parade will be inspected by Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson, honorary colonel of the regiment.

After the inspection a wreath will be laid on the Cenotaph in honor of those members of the regiment who fell on the Normandy Beaches on D-Day, June 6, 1944.

Cruise Crew In Air

A spokesman for P and O Lines in Vancouver, said Friday night that 30 crew members of the cruise ship Arcadia left last night by air for London at the company's expense, after they refused to sail on the ship from Victoria to San Francisco Thursday.

Four bellboys and 26 waiters refused to sail because of a dispute concerning overtime pay.

The company spokesman said the men were still employed by the shipping line, but discussions on their future would be held in London between the firm and the national Union of seamen.

The 30,000-ton Arcadia, with a crew of more than 730, arrived in Victoria Thursday with more than 900 passengers on a trip from Alaska.

The dispute revolved around a demand by dining room stewards for an extension to two hours of a company-imposed maximum of 30 minutes on overtime payment.

Horse Play

Colwood Trailriders will hold a junior fun day beginning at noon today on the club's grounds at 3339 Metchosin, Colwood. Children 16 years old and under will be allowed to participate, a spokesman for the group said.

'Hopefully Before Winter'

Will Someone Please Answer My Request?

"The Daily Colonist — If it's still there," it said on the envelope of a letter that reached the newsroom Friday morning.

The contents of the letter were even more pessimistic.

Because he didn't receive an answer from the "Victoria Tourist Bureau" regarding his request for information on motels that will accept guests with small dogs, a Vancouver man assumed that, maybe, there was no such bureau.

"Or else perhaps it is buried under piles of requests from Americans asking about polar bear hunts while the staff drinks tea," wrote E. Wakefield of 1757 East 49th Avenue.

Another possibility, he said, was that he didn't qualify for information because he wasn't an American.

At any rate, the letter went on, he would like to make it "over there" before winter comes.

The Colonist did a little research and came up with names of several motels willing to accept guests with small dogs, though two confine their hospitality to poodles and chihuahuas.

A Victoria Visitors' Bureau official told the Colonist the man's request for information had, in all probability, never reached the bureau.

"We answer every letter: last year, we made about 96,400 written replies," Mike Heppell said.

"It's always the same story; there's always one who gets overlooked and gets mad right away," he said.

Last year, Heppell said, one man complained because he didn't get the proper information within a couple of days.

"That man lived in Sooke," he said.

By HUBERT BEYER

Vancouver Island's Esquimalt and Nanaimo Dayliner has improved its service and facilities in every possible way, according to Canadian Pacific Railway officials.

"We have taken all the necessary steps to comply with the recommendations of the Canadian Transport Commission," W. W. Stinson, regional manager of the CPR which operates the Dayliner, told the Colonist from Vancouver.

"We think we have done everything we can do to upgrade service and conditions on the run," he said.

Ed McPherson of the CPR's public relations department said, also from Vancouver, the Dayliner's present service was adequate in every way.

To carry out the CTC's orders handed down following last year's public hearings in connection with the CPR's application to discontinue the run, the company, McPherson said, had:

- Put into service a 68-passenger car, replacing the former 48-passenger car which often necessitated the seating of passengers in the baggage compartment.
- Stepped up promotion of the Dayliner.
- Improved service by scheduling the run to coincide with ferry schedules.
- Repaired station facilities along the 140-mile run between Victoria and Courtenay.

"Especially in the field of promotion we have done quite a bit," said McPherson.

"Several times the passengers of the Princess Marguerite (on route from Seattle to Victoria) are told over the PA system that visitors to Victoria who don't return to Seattle the same day, should take a trip aboard the Dayliner over the beautiful Malahat," he said.

In addition to that, McPherson said, posters will shortly be displayed at the Seattle and Port Angeles ferry office and at the Empress Hotel, inviting tourists to take advantage of the railroad service.

"We have spruced up all the stations along the route. There are no more filthy conditions," he said.

"The company went to considerable expense to follow the CTC's orders."

Accountants Check Costs

Next Boost for Brewers?

The long cool one that took a price increase earlier this week could jump again after brewer's accountants go over their books.

The brewers say they won't share in the government's 20-cent price increase and their costs have risen to the point where they want 25 cents per case boost.

A spokesman for Carlings Ltd. in Vancouver said Friday, "Our accountants are going into the whole matter of both bottled and draft beer.

"Our costs have risen sharply. We recently signed a wage agreement providing for a $1 increase over two years, materials are more expensive and our general costs have risen."

The spokesman said there have been no increases in beer prices for 20 years. Twice the government has raised taxes which have been passed on to the drinker but the breweries have not raised their price, he said.

Canadian Breweries and Labatt's B.C. Ltd. are also researching costs and anticipate a price increase.

There has been no formal discussion with the Liquor Control Board but the brewers say they aren't ready with their figures yet.

If the increase is granted, the cost of a 12-bottle case would rise to $3.15.

'Plenty of Time ... To Get All Bugs Out'

By JIM BRAHAN

The first stage in a trans-continent, trans-ocean flight starts shortly after 8 a.m. today from Patricia Bay airport for U.S. flyers Margaret Mead and Fran Bera when they take off for Calgary.

Miss Mead, and co-pilot Miss Bera, both of California, plan to fly to London, by easy stages where they will enter B.C.'s centennial air race July 1 between London and Victoria.

The Piper Aztec E, named You've Come A Long Way Baby, flown by the California women will be one of 79 aircraft to take off in the 5,851-mile race with its finish line July 7 between Gonzales Observatory and the beacons on Trial Island.

"We are just going to take it easy on our way over," Miss Mead told the Colonist shortly after she landed Friday from Portland, Ore.

"Racing one way will be enough," she grinned.

The two plan to stop overnight at Calgary, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Goose Bay, Greenland, Iceland, Ireland, before landing at London.

"We're taking plenty of time because we are flying a brand new plane and it takes about 100 hours to get all the bugs worked out," the pretty brunette said, and explained they had planned to arrive in Victoria Wednesday but were held up because of minor mechanical trouble.

Miss Mead is being sponsored by an American cigarette company and has just recently finished a flying tour of 16 American cities.

They plan to arrive in London about June 15.

"This will give us time to have work done on the plane, also give us time for a rest and a bit of sightseeing before the race," Miss Mead said.

The air race is only the third of its kind in aviation history and is a major event in the province's centennial celebrations. Prize money totals $175,000 with first place receiving $50,000.

Points will be awarded according to net flying time over each stage and the overall winners prize of $50,000 will go to the pilot with the highest point aggregate.

Margaret and Fran

In the race, between takeoff and finish line, there will be six mandatory stops: Goose Bay, Quebec, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary.

The two women make a formidable racing team. Among Miss Mead's records are two wins of the Powder Puff derby. Miss Bera has won the derby seven times in its 25-year history. Miss Mead has logged 8,000 hours flying and Miss Bera 18,000.

All types of aircraft from single-engined monoplanes to executive type jets will compete in the race, each plane will be handicapped according to a formula based on engine power, wing area, and maximum take-off weight.

Unlike the powder puff derbies the women will have mostly male competition in the forthcoming race.

There are a total of 29 entries from Canada, 28 from the U.S., 14 from the United Kingdom, including one from Ireland; Sweden, 2; Australia, 2; West German, 1; Finland, 1; France, 1.

Miss Mead said this will be the only race she plans to enter this year.

"I flew in three last year and won them all, including the powder puff derby," she said.

"Racing is my fun," Miss Mead said.

Beacon Hill Park will be an excellent vantage point for Victorians to watch the aircraft flash across the finish line.

Convention

The two-day convention of the Public Denture Society being held at the Red Lion Inn, was opened at 7 p.m. Friday by Socred MLA Herbert Bruch.

Danish Touch for Home Screen

COPENHAGEN (AP) Something new is being developed for the pornography addicts: sex movies on casettes to be run off through the home television set.

It won't be long before Americans and Europeans can receive pornographic video casettes in unmarked packages from Denmark, an exhibitor at the latest sex and pornography fair said Thursday.

The exhibitor, a big producer of blue movies, said he is ready to make and market such TV casettes as soon as international standardization problems are solved to make sure his pornographic material will fit machines made abroad.

He demonstrated to fair-goers what it will be like to watch Danish porno on the home casette tube.

But the producer may run into trouble if he tries to mail his product out of the country. After numerous complaints from West Germany, Italy, France, Britain and the United States, the Danish justice ministry has taken a mail-order exporter of other pornographic materials to court in a test case.

This didn't worry the fair exhibitors, since they admit the bulk of porno exports is smuggled out in craftier ways.

Long-Awaited Curtis Holiday

Mayor Ship-Shape

Dorothy Wrotnowski

Just about all the 1,000 passengers were on deck as the P&O liner Arcadia slid into the dock at Ogden Point Thursday at 7 a.m.

Mayor Hugh Curtis of Saanich and wife Sheila were there among the passengers, and were both impressed by the greeting given to the ship. "You had to be aboard to really appreciate it," said the mayor.

The Pacific Maple Leaf Drum Corps (Audrey Foster in charge), The Robinettes, a branch of the Drum Majorettes, dressed in Lincoln green, and the Victoria Girls Drill Team acting as a guard of honor, were all there as part of the colorful welcome.

Gerry Gosley in his pearly suit and leading members of his Smile Show, provided humorous entertainment, and five young girls, Bonnie Fahey, Lorraine Storey, Juliana Lane, Patsy O'Neil and Sheila Foster, dressed in pretty period costumes, handed out posies to the passengers as they disembarked to discover the beauties of Victoria.

Curtis was really keen about the cruise to Alaska. "It was really great, great," he said. This was the first real holiday for Curtis since he became mayor of Saanich seven years ago. Before it had always been either a few days before or after a convention, he said. The kindly treatment and the service were absolutely tops, he thought. And he wasn't travelling in his capacity as mayor — didn't even send his card to the captain until the night before the ship docked here.

The Curtises not only enjoyed the trip, they had fun and Hugh managed a fairly respectable suntan. Sheila won the horseracing one night and her My Fair Lady hat that she made for Ascot Night won first prize. Hugh came up with the prize for his tote on the ship's run.

I learned all this at the reception and luncheon given by Capt. A. W. H. Dallas, master of the Arcadia, on board ship Thursday.

Oak Bay Mayor Frances Elford was there giving Betty Phillips of Vancouver, Maureen Duffus and myself full details of the technique she used to win the marble championship recently — at a game she had never played before.

Reg Wilde said he was taking the northern cruise in July and Pip Holmes, chamber of commerce president, was expressing pleasure at the success of the recent Victorian Day.

Sam Lane, one of Victoria's most enthusiastic boosters, was there, pleased by the welcome given the ship earlier that morning. "Those are great kids, the way they turned out to put on a really good show," he said.

The buffet luncheon was really something — the table was beautiful and, as usual, making the choice difficult. I used willpower to restrict myself to a shrimp curry, which was gorgeously hot, hot, hot, and a green salad. This I shared at a table with Mayor Courtney Haddock, Ken Briggs of King Brothers and Andy Stephen. The conversation was interesting, too.

Dr. J. W. Smith and Lee Mossbager of Watsonville, Calif., were in the Empress Hotel lobby the other afternoon waiting for their wives to come in from a shopping trip, using the time to reminisce about a trip to the Orient. Doc and Mrs. Smith and Lee and Dorothy Mossbager were on a cruise aboard the Canberra when they met, and have carried on the friendship since.

Lee Mossbager has been a realtor in the southern state for years, although his first ambition was to be a farmer. He took up animal husbandry and "dreamed of owning several big ranches." Still it gives him and the Doc (veterinarian) a common interest.

U.S. Woman Officer

Navy Citation, And Then The Pink Slip

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (UPI)—Lieut. Doreen Jean Two, a 14-year U.S. Navy veteran with a presidential commendation, says "it's inconceivable logic" that she will lose her job because of a rule designed "to get the deadwood out."

Miss Two, 38, said Wednesday she had received a letter from Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, chief of naval operations, informing her he "could not recommend" a departure from regulations, which require separation from the service for officers twice passed over for promotion.

The self-described "outspoken and aggressive" officer said she may appeal the ruling in a U.S. district court suit.

Zumwalt recently presented Miss Two, an assistant personnel officer, with a presidential citation. The citation, along with a navy achievement medal and two letters of commendation, credited her with saving more than half a million dollars in tax money at the Whidbey Island naval air station here.

"It's inconceivable logic that puts men in the service who don't want to be there and discharges people who want to stay," she said. "I'm not saying they need to promote me, but they don't have to fire me.

"I could go out right now and find 10 men who would be glad to leave the navy so I could take their place."

Lt.-Cmdr. Duane Buchholz, the base's legal officer, said the military ruling on promotions is designed "to get the deadwood out of the services."

But he said it was "false economy" in Miss Two's case. He said she has a fitness report average of 3.8 out of a possible 4.0 and is regarded by her fellow officers as a "highly talented, well-thought-of officer."

Zumwalt said in his letter: "After the most thorough and painstaking examination of your case, I deeply regret that I cannot in good conscience recommend your continuation on active duty."

ANN LANDERS and Privacy

Keep That Door Locked

Dear Ann Landers: I live in Los Angeles in a high-class apartment building with a well-guarded entrance and electronic devices to catch people who don't belong there.

I mention this so you will know why I do not feel it is necessary to lock and bolt the front door. You see, I was raised in Norfolk, Nebraska, and nobody ever locked their doors in Norfolk. I married in 1936 and we lived for many years in Grand Rapids, Michigan. Nobody locked their doors there, either.

My problem is a woman in this building. She has a habit of coming into my apartment without knocking. Yesterday I stepped out of the bathtub and nearly bumped into her. She was standing in the doorway. "Oh," she said, "No wonder you couldn't hear me. The water was running." Two weeks ago I was taking a nap and when I woke up I found her in the kitchen. She had come to borrow a cup of sugar.

How can I break this woman of this rude habit? Please don't tell me to lock the door. I am too old to change my ways. Thank you.—L.A. Lady.

Dear L.A.: So you're too old to change your ways? Well, if you don't change your ways you might not get any older. Los Angeles isn't Norfolk, and it's not Grand Rapids either. And 1971 isn't 1936. So get with it, Lady, before you meet somebody in your kitchen who did not come to borrow a cup of sugar.

Dear Ann Landers: Today is a sad one for me—maybe the saddest in my life. My son was placed under arrest for "contributing to the delinquency of a minor." The girl is pregnant, 14 years old, and lives in this building. She literally threw herself at my Albert.

Last summer the little tramp came over here wearing a half bra and shorts cut up to her neck. I never saw anything like it. The girl was as fully developed as any 20-year-old Swedish actress. Once when I saw her plunk herself down on my son's lap I phoned her mother and told her to keep that little sex-pot at home.

Albert is nearly 21 and I suppose he should have known better, but after all, man is not made of wood. I say the girl and her mother are to blame. Please print my advice to other mothers with good looking sons: If you see something like this happening under your nose, get in there and break it up. — Heartsick In White Plains.

Dear W.P.: There will always be sex-pots — and the age bracket is getting lower. My question is this: What's with a 20-year-old man that he would be fooling around with a 14-year-old girl? He has to be an idiot. Your Albert needs counselling and you could use some, too, Mom.

Measles Rash May Confuse

TORONTO (CP) — German measles, or rubella, may easily be confused with other rashes and many women who think they had the disease in childhood had something else, a Vancouver doctor said here recently.

"About half the women who think they had them (German measles) didn't and visa versa," said Dr. Dennis Vince, professor of pediatrics at the University of British Columbia.

Crash Left Sleep Alone

NEWCASTLE ON TYNE, England (CP) — Six-month-old Richard Draling was fast asleep in his parents' car when a tire burst on a Northumberland expressway and the car crashed at high speed. Sleepy Richard was sent flying into a ditch 30 yards away where his uninjured parents found him only bruised and scratched — but still asleep.

Pencil Paint Hazardous To Chewers

NEW YORK (AP) — People who chew pencils because they are nervous should be nervous about chewing pencils, the city's health department says.

Test results showed that more than one-third of a sampling of wooden pencils sold here were coated with lead paint. Lead content in the paint ranged as high as 80 per cent.

Jackets Replace Relaxed Raceway Clothing

EDMONTON (CP) — In an effort to keep up with reactionary fashions, the Edmonton Exhibition Association's racing committee early this year relaxed dress regulations at the Northlands clubhouse.

Unfortunately, the committee said Thursday the pendulum swung too far. Regular racing patrons were confronted with new fans in attire "unsatisfactory to the purpose and atmosphere" of the clubhouse — such as cutoffs, blue jeans and sweatshirts.

Formality Restored

Therefore for the second thoroughbred race meet of the season, beginning June 11, jackets will again be required for men with appropriate shirt and tie turtleneck or shirts and scarves or appropriate outerwear dress jacket.

Hot pants, matching pant suits, dresses, skirts and blouses will be acceptable for women.

The committee said the minimum requirements have been implemented at the suggestion of season passholders and box seat owners who feel that Northlands clubhouse can offer a distinctive dining and entertainment alternative to other Edmonton restaurants and lounges — "providing the atmosphere is maintained."

Cleaners Run Drug Chance

YORK, England (CP) — Industrial cleaning workers run the risk of becoming drug addicts — hooked on cleaning fluids. The warning comes from psychiatrist Dr. John Dodd writing in the Yorkshire medical publication. Certain fluids used for removing engine greases, Dodd claims, are addictive when sniffed and lead to hallucinations.

Fashion Bares Naked 'Twinkle,

LONDON (AP) — Designer Jean Allen has unveiled the latest thing in ballroom wear — the female bottom, naked under a sky blue dress in tricel crepe.

HOT PANTS become cool items for city jungles as safari walking shorts paired with matching khaki jacket. Short-sleeved T-shirt is third mate in combination.

Hot Pants Suit All Wardrobes

By BETH MOHR
Copley News Service

Hot Pants are stricken with fluctuating temperatures.

Sizzlers when they were introduced to an overwhelming reception by the young, they have cooled down to rather conservative warmth for a constantly growing acceptance.

The young still like them hot, at the shortest thigh-top length. In knits or crisp materials, they are worn with clinging skinny-rib sweaters or companion jackets for sports and casual wear. In satins, crushed velvet and other fancy fabrics, they turn up at swinging social events.

A little cooler are the city pants, lengthened to mid thigh or a little longer. Worn with blazers or more shapely long jackets, they become trimly tailored suits for town wear.

The temperature drops still lower in shy little jumpsuits that display the shorts modestly through the slash of a covering skirt.

In a variety of lengths, from mid knee to ankle, most skirts are full enough to fit easily over the shorts and follow the mood of the jumpsuit. Styles range from prissy, beruffled country looks to uncluttered shirtwaist silhouettes.

Glamor takes over for evening with shorty jumpsuits in chiffons, laces, soft silks and brocades. Skirts in sheer materials sometimes are lined, sometimes cast intriguing shadows over the shorts.

Jet Life Down to Earth

By JERRY HULSE
Colonist-Los Angeles Times

Girls and boys, I am about to dissolve a few myths.

● Few stewardesses marry the captain.

● There are plenty of propositions, but few proposals.

● Seldom does a stewardess date a passenger.

● And there's really very little of that "coffee, tea or me" action.

French stewardess Laura Ulmer, who flies the polar route for Air France, has a prepared routine for the passenger who asks for her telephone number.

Just Like Hugh

When the fire-breathing male calls, a recorded voice responds in French — telling him what time it is.

After researching my subject I feel a little like Hugh Hefner searching out bunnies.

Sally had a very shapely leg stuck in a garbage disposal bag.

It looked absolutely unglamorous.

It was then that I came to the conclusion that every girl who wants to become a stewardess should have to sit beside the galley on a busy jetliner.

No Spice

Only perhaps it'd lack a certain spiciness.

As I said, the girls destroyed a myth for me. Almost without exception.

If there be any glamor in the job it involves the stroll through the airport terminal to their jet — while they're still fresh and pretty.

It's surprising the number of stewardesses who have college degrees.

She joined Pan Am because she didn't want to get married.

No Play

This little dark blonde bonbon with the shoulder-length tresses and two incredibly blue eyes has been practically everywhere in the world with Pan Am: South America, Europe, the Orient, the South Pacific.

At the moment she was sporting the sexiest tan imaginable which she picked up while vacationing in Tahiti.

Gentlemen: Miss McDermott doesn't date passengers either.

But the glamor of flying? You're left with the impression it disappears as the girls enter the jets. From then on it's mostly work and no play.

Nevertheless, Western Airlines' 25-year-old Mary Kracht is a blonde goddess who'd look glamorous cooking in a taco stand, which, in fact, she once did.

She's also been: a secretary, receptionist, waitress, a sales girl and a delivery girl for a pathologist.

Proposals Scant

For some reason, she doesn't fit the stereotyped picture of the stewardess, either.

Besides being breathtaking she's also bright.

Proposals from the passengers? "Only about one every six months," she said.

Obviously, there are more propositions than proposals, but few are taken seriously.

Miss Kracht has a rule. "I don't have any boyfriends in home port (which is Los Angeles). This way I get to relax and rest on my days off."

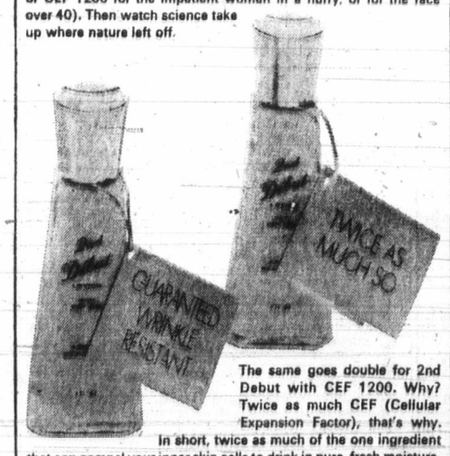
And 2nd Debut helps your skin resist a lot more than just wrinkles. Like age lines and crow's feet, for example. Not to mention all the other annoying little telltale signs that your skin has started losing some of its natural moisture.
How? By adding a scientific ingredient based on a European discovery known as CEF (Cellular Expansion Factor) that compels your skin's inner cells to drink in the necessary pure, fresh moisture. Just rub in 2nd Debut once in the morning and again before retiring. (Use 2nd Debut with CEF 600 for mild ageing problems; or CEF 1200 for the impatient woman in a hurry, or for the face over 40). Then watch science take up where nature left off.



The same goes double for 2nd Debut with CEF 1200. Why? Twice as much CEF (Cellular Expansion Factor), that's why. In short, twice as much of the one ingredient that can compel your inner skin cells to drink in pure, fresh moisture.

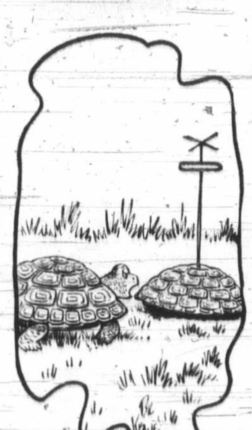
Bruce Lowther



"Do you hear me, Sammy? I want you to come out and get some exercise!"

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Friday's answer — Pick the phoney is the game, and Circle Theatre, Studio One, Climax and Playhouse 90 were real TV series but Alcan Theatre wasn't. Experts might have guessed I was referring to Alcoa Theatre, which ran for some years.

Today's question ends a week of this with some silly titles for TV series, of which only one is a phoney, believe me. Pick it from among Bride and Groom, Dick and the Duchess, Man and Wife, 26 Men and My Mother the Car. We'll do more of these later this month. Answers Tuesday.

Saturday Highlights

Saturday Movies

2:00—Hercules the Avenger (1965 dubbed dumbo)—11.

C-4:30—Man in a Looking Glass (tedious 1968 Baron thing), Steve Forrest. Look through it, not at it—5.

● C-7:30—Anastasia (1956 Czarist fantasy). Superb acting by Helen Hayes and Ingrid Bergman, and Yul Brynner is also present—11.

8:00—Secrets of a Co-Ed (1942), then at 9:15, Doublecross (1941), and at 10:20, Corregidor (1943). Put them all together they spell garbage—13.

C-9:00—Sam Hill (entertaining 1970 western action-comedy) Ernest Borgnine and a fine supporting cast—8.

9:00—Never So Few (1959 war loser, never so boring), Sinatra, Lollobrigida, McQueen. Miss it, please—12.

C-9:30—I Could Go On Singing (fairish 1963 Judy Garland). Also Dirk Bogarde, Jack Klugman, but it misses—4.

C-11:20—Sam Hill (see 9:00)—6.

1:35—10,000 Bedrooms (1957 Dean Martin). Taste city it ain't—12.

C-12:15—Tender Trap (silly 1955 romance), Sinatra, Debbie Reynolds. Remember when we discovered suburbia?—4.

2:15—Crack in the Mirror (fairly good 1960 double-triangle drama), Orson Welles, Brad Dillman, Juliette Greco. It's really late and the film's not that good—4.

Sunday Movies

11:30 a.m.—Belles on Their Toes (amusing 1952 family comedy), Myrna Loy and Co. Sequel to the equally-entertaining Cheaper by the Dozen—12.

C-1:30 p.m.—Cheaper by the Dozen (1950), Clifton Webb, Myrna Loy & Co. What a coincidence—5.

C-2:30—Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie (nauseating 1952 nostalgia musical). Don't try it—7.

4:30—Tarzan and the She-Devil (1953 Lex Barker). Plus Raymond Burr in his I'll-play-any-role days—7.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD and BEE SCHENKEN

Trump Coup Charlie was certainly one of the most amazing persons who ever appeared at our club. Ordinarily he was a very undistinguished type of player. His bidding was poor, his judgment was a awful, and most of the time his play of the cards could best be described as mediocre.

But if you gave him a really difficult trump contract to play his whole manner changed and he became keener than a bar rat. A typical example occurred in this deal, which came up late one night.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	6 ◊
6 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ◊.

Charlie might have been better advised to bid seven clubs over East's pre-empt bid of six diamonds, but he never was renowned for his bidding skill and he elected to call six hearts.

West showed fine judgment when he passed, for he knew he could defeat it. He also showed good judgment when he led a diamond, forcing Charlie to ruff.

Yet, amazing as it may seem, Charlie made the contract. He was already down to three trumps, against West's five, but nevertheless he made light of his task.

He took the A and K of trumps, discovering the 5-1 break, cashed four rounds of clubs, and followed with three rounds of spades, ending in dummy.

Charlie was now down to the singleton queen of trumps and two clubs, while dummy's last three cards were the ten of trumps and two losing diamonds. West, for his part, held the J-9-8 of trumps, but these proved of very little use to him.

With a smile on his lips, Charlie led a diamond from dummy and ruffed with the queen, poor West being forced to underruff with the eight. Charlie the led a club, ensuring that dummy's singleton ten of trumps would take a trick, in back of the J-9.

FUNGI MEAL UPSETS FOUR

PARKSVILLE — A feed of what they thought were mushrooms caused four Parksville children to be ill, two of them seriously, after an outing to Rathtrevor Beach recently.

The children, Mike, Andrew, and Angela Dudek, and Timothy Allix collected what they thought to be mushrooms and took them to the Dudek home where they cooked them. Fortunately Timothy, Angela, and Adrew did not eat many of the fungi but Mike consumed a larger amount. He was the first to fall ill and was reported to have been unconscious when rushed to hospital after Mrs. Dudek discovered what the children had been eating.

Timothy completed his paper route and then went visiting before going home about 7:30 p.m. By then he was staggering and having difficulty focussing his eyes. He was taken to hospital by the RCMP after being seen by a doctor.

All four children were treated in hospital and have fully recovered.

Mrs. Allix said she hoped it would serve as a warning to both children and adults about picking mushrooms. The incident could have been tragic.

Tidy-Up Time

If you happen to be doing your gardening on acid soil, and if you have a liking for flowering shrubs, you have probably had rhododendrons practically coming out your ears all this spring. You can have too much of a good thing, though, and there comes a time when rhododendrons no longer please the eye.

It is possible, with R. discolor and its hybrids, to carry the flowering season into July, and with R. auriculatum, into August, but except for the confirmed rhodomaniac, I think this is going a bit too far. The longest day of the year, June 21, is about the deadline for most of us, and after this date it is time to do some tidying up.

In cases where the spring blossom display has not been up to expectations, it is quite possible the trouble may be due to the fact that the spent blossoms were not removed after flowering last year.

This clean-up can make quite a difference in both health and present appearance — the shrubs look like death warmed over when covered with faded brown blooms — and by getting rid of these before they start making seed pods, you keep the plant from overtaxing its strength at a time when all its energies should be directed into preparing for next year's blossom display.

The long, thin pods of each flower cluster all arise from a common stalk, developed from last year's growth. If you look closely, you can see the new growth for next year's blooms emerging now from near the base of this stalk. The trick here is to take off the spent flower truss without injury to these new growths, for without them there can be no blossoms next year.

The best method is to cut through the stalk at the base of the old flower cluster, well above the new emerging shoot. A sharp knife, scissors or secateurs may be used for rhododendrons; the smaller blossoms of the azalea can be picked off by hand.

If your rhododendron is a big specimen, this is going to be a long, wearisome and monotonous chore, and you'll be sorry you ever started long before the job is completed, but I can assure you that it really is worthwhile and will pay handsome dividends at blooming time next spring.

One good thing about this clean-up job, though, is that it brings your bush under very close inspection as you work away at removing the spent blossom clusters. Because of this, you have a very good chance of catching the earliest symptoms of trouble in plenty of time to take corrective measures.

For instance, you may notice some leaves stippled with tiny light green dots on the upper surface, or with the undersides spotted with dark, resinous materials. Count yourself lucky if you catch these symptoms in their earliest stages — they would never have been noticed if you hadn't been working over the plant so closely.

This is the work of a pretty little creature called the Rhododendron Lace Bug, only an eighth of an inch long and as dainty as a ballet dancer, but a deadly enemy of rhododendrons and their little brothers, the azaleas.

Conventional sprays used consistently will control this pest, but a more modern and effecive method is to paint sections of the stem bark with neat Cygon 2-E. This is a systemic insecticide which is absorbed through the bark into the plant's circulatory system, rendering its leaves and sap poisonous to all insects that feed upon it.

War Against Critics

WASHINGTON—"The people who attack the FBI and its leader, J. Edgar Hoover, are doing the country a terrible disservice."

Thus spoke Professor Heinrich Applebaum, chairman of the criminology department at the Bonnie and Clyde Institute for Advanced Studies.

"How so?" I asked.

"There are 8,400 FBI agents in the country," Applebaum said, "including 57 blacks and no women. These agents are desperately needed in the war against crime."

"No one disputes that," I said. "But why would criticism of J. Edgar Hoover affect our country's battle against the forces of evil that would attack us from within?"

"Because," said Applebaum, "every time someone attacks J. Edgar Hoover, which is synonomous with attaking the FBI, two agents have to be assigned to the case to find out who made the attack and what is behind it. So far this year there have been 4,166 attacks made against Mr. Hoover in the press and at universities and in congress. This means 8,332 agents have had to be taken off their duties, which has left only six agents free to fight criminals.

"You mean the FBI has to devote most of its time these days to defending itself from attacks on the bureau?"

"That is correct," said Applebaum. "There was a time when the FBI was completely free of criticism. Then it was possible for Mr. Hoover to devote all this energies to capturing public enemies, Nazis, Communists and those who would destroy our way of life.

"But recently the attacks on the FBI director have made the bureau switch its game plan. Now hundreds of thousands of man hours must be spent finding out who is saying what about J. Edgar Hoover. As the criticism escalates, more and more people have to be assigned to making out reports on the attacks, and the backlog of criminal cases is building up."

"Professor," I said, "do you believe the criticism of the FBI director is a plot by criminal elements in this country to detract from the work the FBI has been chartered by congress to do"

"There is no doubt about it," he said. "Anytime a professor, student or a former FBI agent says something uncomplimentary about the FBI director, everything stops and hundreds of bureau employees are involved in the investigation.

"Now, these attacks are no accident. They are inspired by people in this country who are aware that the more agents and employees are assigned to tracking down critics of J. Edgar Hoover, the less law enforcement people will be available to go after them. The time will not be far off when all the resources of the FBI will be used for only one purpose: to get the people who are demanding Mr. Hoover's retirement."

"This is the most insidious plot I have ever heard of," I said. "Surely the FBI must be aware of what is going on."

"They are," Applebaum said, "but the first priority of any law enforcement agency is to protect its leader from attack, particularly from those who want to force him to resign."

"What is the solution?" I said.

"We must persuade the media that everytime they print a story or an editorial attacking Mr. Hoover, they are taking two agents off a criminal case. If the media want law and order in this land, they have to knock off their criticism of the FBI director so the bureau can go back to its original business, which is making America's streets safe after dark."

Thinking Aloud

Money and the affections differ in numerous respects, not the least of which is that we give money to those who importune us and seem to need it most, but resist bestowing our affections upon those who demand it most.

When we have "second thoughts" about something, our first thoughts don't seem like thoughts at all — just feelings.

Much of the mischief in the world is created by perpetuating the illusion — in fiction and elsewhere — that love is a "pleasure," and ignoring the other half of this truth, that love is also hard work; many people who imagine they are "looking for love" are at the same time unconsciously committed to escaping its laborious consequences.

For honest statements of Realpolitik, we have to forsake our contemporary statesmen and go back to someone as brutally candid as Napoleon, who observed that, "Diplomacy is the police in grand costume."

Beauty exacts its own price in the end, for when it has fled with time, what remains in the face indicates whether or not its possessor had deserved this gift and treated it wisely.

Now that men's and women's colleges are sensibly integrating, as they should be, isn't it time to adopt the opposite procedure at the lower school levels and segregate the boys and girls under grade six, which would speed up the learning process for both genders?

There is always one sin waiting for us at the bottom of the stairs: the person who can resist all temptations usually cannot resist the temptation to feel smug about this — and thus succumbs to the deadliest of sins, which is pride, and lurks in wait for all "virtuous" folk.

Many readers have asked me to explain "existentialism," and I am preparing a column on the subject; meanwhile, the best place to start understanding it is with Ortega's brief comment: "This is the simple truth — that to live is to feel oneself lost — he who accepts it has already begun to find himself, to be on firm ground."

It is the invariable flaw of all established societies that those who exercise the greatest social power are those who are already a generation out of touch with present realities; and even more so in the swiftly changing high-energy societies of our time.

Sad how the word "venereal," which originally applied to sexual desire, is now used only as an adjective for a disease.

Marilyn Beck . . .

. . . in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — Sandy Duncan may have been the darling of the TV commercial world and New York's Boyfriend theatre audiences, but the hierarchy at Paramount wasn't eager to have her as the lead of their big-budgeted Star Spangled Girl.

It took the combined efforts of producer Howard Koch and director Jerry Paris to convince the bosses she could cut it in that big-screen gem.

"Mr. Koch," said Sandy, "had to fight like a dog to get them to sign Todd Sussman and me."

Todd is Sandy's "Spangled" co-star and together they are one of the most engaging young cinema teams to come along in years.

Actually, it's remarkable that the film was made at all. Not too long ago producer Koch told me he doubted it would ever get filmed, "because no one believes in sweet virginal girls anymore."

That problem was solved with a change in story concept and the search for sexy cutie for the lead.

"That's why I had such a hard time landing the role," Sandy explained — with a toothy grin.

The problems in getting "Girl" rolling didn't end with the switch from virginal-sweet to mod-sexy. Neil Simon didn't appreciate the revisions made on his play, and eventually flew to Hollywood where he spent a week of round-the-clock work whipping the scenario into shape himself.

As it looks now, all that preproduction hassle was worth the trouble. Paramount brass are so high on the just completed film they're planning to feature Star Spangled Girls as their big Christmas release.

For Sandy, the excitement of the past six months — a starring role in Disney's $1,000,000 Duck, her current Paramount project, plus her upcoming CBS TV series — "is just too much, overwhelming! I think of so many of my friends who are so terribly talented and who can't get work, and I'm so terribly lucky."

Everything from Mime to Mary Pickford

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Variety is the keynote of this year's 19th Stratford Festival which, starting Monday, offers everything from Elizabethan tragedy to French farce, puppet shows to pop concerts, mime to Mary Pickford and, of course, Shakespeare.

Since 1953 the festival has presented, in addition to 32 of Shakespeare's 37 plays, works by Sophocles, Rostand, Moliere, Wycherly, Chekhov, Strindberg, Gogol, Dumas, Beckett, Ben Jonson, Sheridan, Ibsen, Arrabal, Wesker, Mrozek and Peter Luke; four original works by Canadian authors; Gilbert and Sullivan operettas; opera and ballet; the whole range of musical concerts; art and theatre exhibitions; Shakespearean seminars and film festivals.

This year the festival offers the greatest number and widest variety of performances of any single season, with seven plays, 25 concerts, classical music instruction, presentations by the National Theatre of Puppet Arts, Montreal Marionettes, and the Canadian Mime Theatre and an international film festival.

The season runs a record 22 weeks, including two weeks of student matinees and a week of previews prior to Monday's official opening, and before its concluding performance Oct. 16, an estimated 350,000 persons will have partaken of its varied fare.

It will be followed, on June 8 and 9, respectively, by the Elizabethan tragedy The Duchess of Malfi, by John Webster, and Shakespeare's epic tragedy, Macbeth.

The fourth production at the main Festival Theatre will be Ben Jonson's comedy Volpone, opening July 27.

At the Avon Theatre two French farces — Eugene Labiche and Marc-Michel's An Italian Straw Hat and Georges Feydeau's There's One in Every Marriage — will open July 2 and Aug. 6, respectively.

The Avon is also the site of this year's international film festival — making a return to Stratford after a 10-year absence — which will feature a tribute to Canadian-born film star Mary Pickford. Nine of Miss Pickford's best known films, including My Best Girl, Little Lord Fauntleroy, Pollyanna and Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm, will be featured, beginning Sept. 10.

New to Stratford this year is the Third Stage, a covered theatre in a parkland setting where the English-language premiere of The Red Convertible by Latin American playwright Enrique Buenaventure will be performed, as well as the puppet and mime shows.

This year's concert artists include pop performers Melanie and B. B. King, guitarist Alexandre Lagoya, baritone Gerard Souzay, tenor Jon Vickers, cellist Janos Starker, flutist Jean-Pierre Rampal, and pianists Alfred Brendel, Lorin Hollander and Joseph Schwartz.

Police Band Staging Final Show

The 51-member Victoria City Police Youth Band will present its final concert of the 1970-71 season at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the McPherson Playhouse.

Guests at what the band is calling a centennial concert will be Victoria Boys' Band, singer Peter Chipman and dancers from Bebe Eversfield studio.

Proceeds will go toward the purchase of band equipment.

Books Bring Prison

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two Winnipeg men were each sentenced Friday in Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench to one year in jail and their paperback book distribution firm, Great West News Ltd., was fined $10,000 after an assize court jury convicted the pair of possessing obscene written material for the purpose of distribution.

Myer Robert Michell, 52, and Larry Mantell, 38, were charged after police seized 37 books from the store.

The sentences are the heaviest imposed in Manitoba for such an offence. The longest previous sentence was one month in jail.

Justice John Hunt, in passing sentence, said "In my opinion the court should deal with filth of this nature in increasing severity to curb such practices. Fines in the past have not had much effect."

An appeal is expected.

Three Firms Deny Watchdog's Charges

High Oil Profits, Prices Hit

From CP

Dr. John Young's prices and incomes commission Friday criticized four big oil and gasoline companies for not rolling back excessive price increases last winter.

Three of them — Imperial Oil Ltd., Shell Canada Ltd. and Texaco Canada Ltd. — denied the charges and said they observed price guidelines.

The fourth, Sun Oil Ltd., in a carefully worded statement did not deny it went over the guidelines, but said its 1970 operations "were planned and conducted in a manner which we believed would in the normal course have met with the commission's price restraint program."

● Nixon sees big inflow of Canadian crude, Page 16

Ron Basford, minister of consumer and corporate affairs, said he regretted that the four companies did not agree, when asked by the commission, to take some "compensatory action" when their profits rose unexpectedly.

The commission report, which was tabled in Parliament, charged the companies with unduly large price increases and refusing to take "remedial action" requested at meetings between the commission, the government and the companies.

The four were among oil refiners and distributors who put a series of price increases into effect last fall. Price increases in gasoline, fuel oil, diesel and marine oils and solvents were scattered across Canada and concentrated in the Atlantic and Quebec regions.

At that time, the commission was policing a set of price restraint criteria agreed to by businessmen and governments in February, 1970. The rule was that price increases were not to exceed cost increases for the rest of the year.

The four oil companies said they believed they were acting within the rules. But severe

Grain Deal Signed By Soviets

OTTAWA (CP) — Russia will take 120 million bushels of wheat from Canada between now and 1972, it was announced Friday.

A new sale of 81,500,000 bushels, along with another 38,400,000 bushels under terms of a 1966 contract, was valued at $235 million by Otto Lang, minister in charge of the Canadian wheat board.

Lang, replying to questions in the Commons, said "the likely total sale of wheat for the 1970-71 crop year which ends July 31, will be within the range of 430 million bushels to 470 million bushels."

Contracts covering the new sale were signed in the Senate reading room in the Parliament buildings.

Jack Bigg (PC—Pembina) said "no news could be more welcome to Canada."

In a reference to Prime Minister Trudeau's recent Russia trip, Bigg added:

"I am delighted that at last, whether it is on the road to Damascus or the road to Russia, the present administration is seeing that a breakthrough in international relations is followed up."

NDP Leader David Lewis also welcomed the sale and noted that Trudeau was not taking credit for it.

He also said Canada should consider providing developing countries with long-term credit so they too might buy Canadian wheat.

Deliveries are to start this month from both the Pacific and eastern Canadian ports with the chance of some shipments through the northern Manitoba port of Churchill.

Grades to be delivered during 1971 are numbers 2, 3 and 4 Manitoba northern and No. 1 Canadian western red spring wheat.

Lang said the Russians also have an option to take No. 3 or No. 4 Canadian western durum wheat as part of the overall purchase.

He said the new sale bears out Russian promises to turn to Canada when they needed wheat.

Sharp Reports

New Era Of Hope In NATO

LISBON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp says there is a new spirit of hopefulness among members of NATO that the "era of confrontation in Europe is passing and an era of negotiation is under way."

The Canadian minister made the remark at a news conference Friday following a two-day meeting of foreign ministers from the 15-nation alliance.

Sharpe appeared pleased with the outcome of the meeting which expressed, among other things, general acceptance of a Canadian proposal to appoint a special NATO representative or representatives to investigate recent Soviet proposals for East-West talks on mutual European force reductions.

Sharp said the Canadian recommendation had run into some early opposition but this had been dispelled. It had been incorporated in a United States proposal, accepted by

Highway crater 100 feet wide, 20 feet deep

Highway Blast Kills Five

WACO, Ga. (UPI) — A trailer truck carrying 10,000 pounds of dynamite collided with an automobile on a busy highway Friday night and blew up, killing at least five persons and caving in a roof of a nearby shool gymnasium where 200 persons were holding a gospel sing.

The Red Cross said that 33 other persons were injured as a result of two explosions, one so great it ripped a crater 100 feet wide and 20 feet deep, "big enough to set a building in," in the highway.

A nearby house was wrecked, woods set afire for a quarter of mile and ambulances and fire trucks demolished just outside this small Georgia city.

The Georgia Highway Patrol said the disaster was set off about 8:30 p.m. when a small foreign car collided with the truck, owned by the Baggett Trucking Co. of Birmingham, Ala., en route from Birmingham to a granite quarry in North Carolina.

A patrol spokesman said that the truck also was carrying 10,000 pounds of a low grade type of explosive called "slurry" and dynamite caps in addition to the dynamite.

The patrol said a fire resulted from the collision, setting off dynamite caps that finally led to the blast so great it shattered windows in houses five miles away.

The patrol identified the truck driver as A. W. Fielding, 50, of Birmingham, and said he may have saved several lives by running up and down the highway warning motorists that his burning truck was loaded with dynamite. Fielding was not injured, but the driver of the car was killed.

Haralson County deputy sheriff Gene Kirk called it the biggest explosion he had ever heard.

Through a Glass, Darkly

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (UPI) — Miss Kristi Pollok, 21, was named winner of the Ontario County Dairy Princess contest amid general applause.

The new representative of the milk producing industry commented: "I'm so shook. Right now I'd like a glass of beer."

Police, Officials Agree To Meet

By BRUCE LOWTHER

The first sign of a possible thaw in the wage dispute between Victoria and its police, which has caused police to "work according to the rules," came Friday from Mayor Courtney Haddock.

He disclosed the Victoria police union executive had, at his request, agreed to meet three city representatives early next week.

And he also made two statements which could be taken to indicate the city might go above its last wage offer to police and might not refuse to go to arbitration as the police want.

Haddock said he met the union executive Friday morning and they agreed to sit down with lawyer Edwin Pearlman, city manager William Hooson and city personnel director Terence Fitzpatrick.

The mayor declined comment on what the meeting would discuss, including wages and arbitration, and did not give a definite date

'Doomsday' Cancelled

Because of a bomb hoax May 26 in Australia, a Seattle television station will have a love story instead of a suspense thriller as its late movie tonight.

Qantas airlines paid $560,000 May 26 after a phone caller, apparently following the plot of the 1968 Rod Serling movie Doomsday Flight, said a barometric bomb would explode aboard an airliner carrying 116 passengers when the plane reached a certain altitude.

No bomb was found when the plane landed at Sydney from Hong Kong and Australian police later detained a man for questioning.

Shortly after the hoax, actor-writer-producer Serling apologized, saying he wished he had never written the Doomsday Flight story and especially not so graphically that it had become a textbook.

Some weeks ago, KIRO-TV in Seattle set Doomsday Flight for showing at 11 p.m. today. Friday the station announced it had withdrawn the film, substituting the 1961 French love story Fanny.

Gaglardi Calls Nader 'One of Greatest Nuts'

Gaglardi was speaking to the annual conference of 260 members of the Motor Dealers' Association of British Columbia.

After calling Nader a nut, Gaglardi agreed cars are unsafe and safety features should be added. However, he said only 6 to 10 per cent of car accidents are due to mechanical faults in the vehicle.

Gaglardi warned the dealers that there was a danger of the car industry pricing itself out of the market, due to rising labor costs and a profit margin that is sometimes too high.

"The automobile is the most expensive and uneconomical product I can buy but it is the most necessary piece of equipment today and plays a vital role in molding the community," Gaglardi said.

Eighty-six per cent of all travel is by automobile. It supports allied industries such as mining, rubber, plastic, gas, oil, construction of highways and manufacturing, he added.

Surveying the provincial economy at present Gaglardi said the forest industry reflects the present condition of the Canadian economy in general, although the market should pick up this year.

And in support of our economy, he said, we should not be afraid of foreign capital. The campaign to "buy Canada back" is greatly exaggerated.

Canadians failed to recognize the wealth and resources of this country and would not invest in it.

Canada: Poor 47th State

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — If Canada were one of the United States, it would rank 47th among the states in income per capita, vice-chairman Robert Bonner of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. said Friday.

● Bonner lists dozen obstacles to trade development, Page 11

Addressing a business conference at the University of Western Ontario, Bonner said only Ontario and British Columbia, with per capita incomes of about $3,369 and $3,121, achieve any notable rank among American states, ranking 33rd and 42nd.

Canadian average per capita income in 1969 was a little more than $2,700 in U.S. funds, putting Canada ahead of only West Virginia, Alabama, Arkansas and Mississippi.

"There was a time when Canada ranked second only to the United States as measured by gross national product per capita," Bonner said.

"We are now fourth in world rank by this measure — Sweden and Switzerland having displaced us in recent years."

He said for Canada to attain full employment or an unemployment rate of 3 per cent by 1972-73 would require annual economic growth of about nine per cent, "and we are not yet prepared as a matter of national policy to achieve growth of that magnitude."

How Eight Students Put Out A Paper

—Barry Casson

Publishers Porcher and McEvay read old news in new newspaper

Deadline Headlines and Facts

by NANCY BROWN

There are a couple of youngsters at Shoreline junior high school who'll never again criticize a newspaper headline — or for that matter anything about their daily or weekly newspaper.

They've just finished putting together a four-page centennial newspaper, The Observer — one that might have been published in Victoria 100 years ago.

All the researching, writing, editing and make-up skills that go into a daily newspaper were used by the Grade 10 students who published the paper — but it took them four months to get it out.

And at the end of that four months they found themselves in a spot that newspaper people would understand — two inches of white space and not a line of copy.

They solved their problem simply — they made up a poetic advertisement, and that's an out a make-up man doesn't usually have.

There were six more on their committee — Peter Fitch, David Taylor, Linda Alexander, Kathy Malone, Val Wood and Elaine McBride. They were aided by social studies teacher Brian Wile.

The idea first came to the students when the school centennial committee was considering a project for what was to be a booth in a planned district-wide centennial Fair.

A display of an old-time printing shop was planned, and the newspaper was a secondary idea — something that could be handed out to fair visitors.

The fair idea was abandoned, but the newspaper idea grew.

Students started research at the Provincial Archives, University of Victoria library and the public library. In fact, they went most any place they could find an old newspaper.

They had about 10 hours of school time to do the research. The remainder of the work they did on their own.

Later they held meetings and decided on areas of interest, assignments, and most of all, deadlines.

They admit to some plagiarism in articles which cover B.C.'s entry into Confederation, prejudice against Chinese laborers, the transcontinental railway issue and thumbnail sketches of some politicians.

They added some letters to the editor, for and against Confederation, and critical of Darwin's Origin of Species.

A few household tips on soap making, blood tonics and medicines for colds make weight along with some advertisements.

The paper was printed Wednesday.

Now comes the problem of distribution.

"We don't really want to give it away in the schools," said McEvay. "There's four months of work in it, and it would be awful to see unwanted copies stuffed in the garbage can."

They have decided to send copies to the queen, Prime Minister Trudeau, local politicians, school board officials and similar people.

"We sure learned a lot putting that paper out," added McEvay. "We learned a lot about history, and even more about newspapers.

"I don't know how you put out a paper every day, or how people make up so many pages and write so many heads in one day."

Commented Laura Porcher: "It was fascinating, but I don't think I'd like to work on a newspaper — I don't really think I'm cut out for that kind of thing. I think I'd like to be a mathematician."

PROVINCIAL COURT

A 42-year-old Saanich man who incited two other persons to kick at two policemen was sentenced Friday in Victoria Provincial Court to one month in jail for assaulting a peace officer himself.

The man, Carl Henry of 135 Burnside West, pleaded guilty May 13 to such a charge and a Saanich policeman told court then that Henry grabbed one constable around the neck after two policemen came to his home on the evening of May 12 while investigating another matter.

The policeman also testified Henry incited two other persons in the home to kick the officers and one constable was kicked on the left hip. Sentencing Henry, Judge William Ostler noted both a previous assault conviction and the incitement.

James Foyer, 58, of 1269 Pembroke was jailed six months by Ostler after pleading guilty May 17 to a charge of trafficking Jan. 6 in Victoria in a derivative of barbituric acid.

Defence lawyer Cal Becker asked for a suspended sentence because the sale of pills in a downtown hotel was made at "a ridiculously low price" since Foyer, an alcoholic, needed only that much money for liquor.

Ostler noted the pills had been "obtained by devious means" and the sale was "deliberate to obtain something that he himself desired." He called Foyer "pathetic" and said the case was not one for probation, but for leniency.

□

Terry Horst Carl Reichenbach, 17, of 4043 Shelbourne, was remanded in custody to June 16 for a pre-sentence report and sentence after pleading guilty to a Saanich charge of breaking and entering and theft. A Saanich detective told court a large number of items worth a total of about $440 was taken "on or about" last Wednesday from a home at 3374 Shelbourne.

□

Peter Christopher Knox, 19, of 1075 Gosper, was fined $250 following his plea of guilty to a charge of possession of marijuana — a small quantity found May 22 when his car was checked in Oak Bay.

□

In traffic court, Judge E. F. N. Robinson ordered a $400 fine for Mrs. Denise Eleanor Burnham, 23, of 2653 Sooke, who was found guilty following a trial on a charge of failing to remain at an accident scene.

The charge resulted from an incident Dec. 27 in the 1600 block Island Highway, Colwood, during which George Richard King, 41, of 3408 Hazelwood, Happy Valley, was killed when knocked from his bicycle while going home from his night-watchman job. Mrs. Burnham also was given a partial six-month driving ban.

Robert John Lambie, 40, of 2637 Richmond, was fined $250 and given a partial four-month driving ban after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving May 29 in Victoria with a blood-alcohol reading of more than .08 per cent.

Turn Lane Allows Safer Park Entry

Earlier a double white line had been painted on the highway at that point so motorists driving south from Victoria had to use a narrow access road off West Saanich Road or somehow make a turn further along the highway and approach the park from the north.

There had been complaints, and fears of accidents as summer park traffic becomes heavy.

Firebird Formula 400 Some of the equipment illustrated or described is optional at extra cost.

It has a bumper you can knock and performance you can't.

It takes an eagle eye to spot Firebird's front bumper. Why? Because it looks like the rest of the body. Actually, it covers the entire front end. And it's made of Endura—Pontiac's rust-proof and amazingly resilient material that resists dents, dings and chipping. How about that...a bumper you can knock.

About the performance you can't. You can't, simply because you pick the output for your Firebird. Take our three Formula Firebirds. The Formula 350 comes with a 350-CID V8. The Formula 400, a 400-CID V8. And the Formula 455...you guessed it...a 455-CID V8. (You can order the 455-CID H.O. with functional scoops on this one.)

You don't have to order the front disc brakes. They're standard. So is a suspension firm enough to let you feel an occasional expansion joint.

Sound inviting? There's a place nearby where you can thump Endura and check out the rest of our story. Your Pontiac dealer's, of course. That's where you'll find the Formula Firebirds.

And the Trans Am, our ultimate performer. And the Esprit, which makes great sport of luxury. And our "basic" Firebird (only Pontiac would put so much into a car and call it basic), which manages to give you a sports car's personality with surprising economy.

The business of auto safety.

Auto safety is everyone's concern. But it's our business.

And we think the attention that's being paid to auto safety now is a good thing. Because it will result in better driving for everyone.

And, frankly, better driving for everyone means better business for us.

That's why we're trying to make it easy to be safe by putting in safety features that work by themselves. You don't have to do anything to make them work.

Like Side-guard beams. And the energy-absorbing steering column. And the Cargo-guard between the trunk and back seat. They start "working" even before you get in the car.

But two safety features, two of the most vital, are worthless unless you do something first.

Unfastened they do nothing. And you've seen enough statistics to know what a difference they can make. So use them.

But that's not all you can do. Because the most effective safety feature of all can't be added to our cars or anybody else's.

That feature is you. And the way you drive. Which should be defensively.

And rested. And sober.

We're all in this together. And together we can solve the auto safety problem once and for all.

And the time is now.

Audie Murphy–Past and Last

Requiem for a Hero

By VERNON SCOTT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The funeral for Audie Murphy lasted 40 minutes. Then pallbearers carried the casket, covered with red, white and blue flowers, out of the white wooden church to begin the last journey of the most decorated GI of the Second World War.

"The Kraut tanks rumbled past Lt. Murphy's position, passing him by as close as 50 yards and firing at him as they passed. The Kraut infantry line, consisting of two full companies of 125 men, surged up across the open meadow in a wide arc."

It was another meadow in Forest Lawn Memorial Park and dotting the slopes were 800 people who could not get inside the church where 400 others listened to the soloist sing How Great Thou Art and then cried as they filed past the coffin.

"Then I saw Lt. Murphy do the bravest thing that I have ever seen any man do in combat," wrote Lt. Walter Weispfenning in his official report of the engagement. "With the Germans only 100 yards away and still moving up on him, he climbed onto calibre macie gu."

troyer and began firing the 50-calibre machine gun."

There was only a sprinkling of uniforms on the green cemetery slopes and in the church Friday — some in American Legion regalia, a few with Veterans of Foreign Wars caps, most in civilian clothes with tiny metal American flag insignia in the lapel buttonholes.

"There he was, completely exposed and silhouetted against the background of bare trees and snow, with a fire under him that threatened to blow the destroyer to bits if it reached the gasoline and ammunition."

—AP

Former wife Wanda Hendrix weeps

Three young Marines from the El Toro base stood outside. One identified himself only as Private Smith. "We believe in what he stood for and wish more of our generation did," he said.

"Standing on top of the TD, Lt. Murphy raked the approaching enemy forces with machine gun fire. Twelve Krauts, stealing up a ditch to flank him from his right, were killed in the gully at 50 yards range."

From the crest of the hill on the sunny day the mourners could look below on the movie lots of Warner Bros., Disney and Universal where Audie made most of his movies including the only one that ever really went over — To Hell and Back.

"His clothing was torn and riddled by flying shell fragments and bits of rock. Bullets ricocheted and careened off the tank destroyer as the enemy concentrated the full fury on this one-man stronghold."

Out of the movie stars who lionized Audie when he first came to Hollywood only one showed up Friday. That was actress Ann Blythe who played in one movie with him But the little people showed up — the stagehands, character actors, electricians, grips.

"He was wounded in the leg by fragmentation from an 88-mm. shell but he kept on fighting. With blood spreading over his torn trouser leg, he continued to hold off the entire German force of about 250 men, aided only by our artillery fire."

His former wife, actress Wanda Hendrix, was there with her husband. She paused for a long moment at the casket. "That part of him that was a hero and a fine man I will always remember," she said. Then she paid respects to his widow, Pamela, who was in the sideroom reserved for the family.

"After an hour-long fight, exhausted, bleeding profusely and his ammunition spent, Lieutennat Murphy limped back to his company. He reorganized his men and led them in a violent attack on the enemy, driving the Germans from the area."

Lieutenant Col. Arthur Isbell the chaplain from nearby Ft. MacArthur, delivered the eulogy. He talked about Audie's life in Kingston, Tex., where he grew up. "His life as a war hero and international celebrity and businessman never changed the fine qualities that too few people came to know," Isbell said.

"Lieutenant Murphy then had his wound treated on the field. He consistently refused to be evacuated. Lieutenant Murphy's intrepid stand, fighting alone against overwhelming odds, enabled his regiment to hold ground that was won at a heavy cost in blood."

Dr. J. Vernon McGee, a minister from Murphy's home state, concluded the funeral rites and then the crowd dispersed. A top kick sergeant saluted the casket as it was carried to a hearse to be flown to Washington for burial in Arlington National Cemetery on Monday.

'Victoria Parley Fiasco' —Caouette

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit Leader Real Caouette predicts that the forthcoming constitutional conference in Victoria will be a fiasco.

Caouette said in an interview that while Canada's heads of government are fighting for a new constitution "they don't even know what they want."

"Ask any premier what changes they want and they don't know — Prime Minister Trudeau doesn't know either."

He said he would support changes giving more powers to Quebec, "but I wouldn't go along with any constitution which didn't give the same rights to all provinces."

'Everybody' Borrowed To Make It Back Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty-two adults and one baby, stranded in Hong Kong when their charter flight to Vancouver was cancelled, arrived home Friday on a regular scheduled flight — angry, broke and puzzled.

They were among 180 persons booked on the cancelled aircraft being returned to Canada by CP Air at reduced rates authorized by the Canadian Transport Commission. They were to have left Hong Kong on the charter June 1.

Interviewed at Vancouver International Airport, most said they had spent all their money the day before their charter was scheduled to return to Vancouver because they thought their holiday had ended.

They said they were told in Hong Kong that their flight had been delayed, at first for a day and then for up to 10 days. Some said they panicked at the thought of trying to survive without money for that length of time.

"The first I knew about any problems was when a girl phoned me and said the flight was delayed for 10 days," Mrs. Suetching Yeasting of Vancouver said.

"I was staying in a hotel with some other ladies. Everybody had to borrow money to get back to Vancouver. I feel terrible about the whole thing — everybody got mad."

Raze Devji, operator of International Charters, said Thursday the organization had acted as broker for a group called Commonwealth Friendship Association in arranging the charter.

He said a Dutch charter line with which he had arranged transportation pulled out of the deal April 14 when CTC permission for the trip was refused on the grounds that some members of Commonwealth had not belonged the required six months for charter planes.

Police Chiefs Plan Office In Ottawa

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police will establish a permanent secretariat in Ottawa this year to handle its affairs, the association's secretary-treasurer said Thursday.

Donald Cassidy of Ottawa, director-general of the National Harbors Board police, told the annual conference of the Western Canada Chiefs of Police Association the move was made possible by a $25,000 allocation by Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer.

Grim Reapers Win Retrial

CALGARY (CP) — A five-man Alberta Appeal Court ordered a new trial Friday on reduced charges of manslaughter for 11 of 13 men convicted of non-capital murder last year.

The men, all but one members of the Grim Reapers' motorcycle club, were sentenced to life imprisonment in the death of Ronald George Hartley, 23, of Calgary.

Hartley, president of the rival Outcasts motorcycle club, was beaten to death March 7, 1970, on a country road outside the city. The men were sentenced in September.

The judgement was written by S. Bruce Smtih, Chief Justice of the Alberta Appeal Court, and concurred by Justices James M. Cairns, G. H. Allen, H. G. Johnson and Carlton W. Clement.

The appeal court ruled that Mr. Justice Neil Primrose, who presided over the trial, did not adequately instruct the 11-man jury about the possibility of convicting 12 of the 13 of manslaughter.

CUPE Resolution

Mayor's Ouster Urged

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Delegates to the annual convention of the B.C. division, Canadian Union of Public Employees, have urged Prince George residents to remove from office Mayor Harold Moffat and any aldermen who support what the union describes as "scurrilous views in respect to public employees."

About 175 delegates representing 14,000 municipal, school board and university employees in B.C. unanimously supported a resolution which charged that Mayor Moffat has "grossly and publicly insulted the municipal employees of this province."

The Mayor told a meeting of municipal officers earlier this week that municipal vehicles should have radios installed to check on employees. He also advocated firing a few employees now and then to keep them alert.

Chinese Deer Born in Zoo

Postmen Revise Constitution

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Union of Postal Workers, in the final stages of a stormy convention, unanimously passed a revised constitution Friday after Montreal delegates returned from a brief walkout the previous day.

"I don't believe we'll have any more problems," said union president William Houle of Ottawa.

"We're in the home stretch . . . Several financial reports, election of officers and a few other details are the only items remaining on the agenda."

Houle said the new document includes the best features of constitutions from other Canadian unions. Its most significant features are a "streamlined executive structure" and a provision allowing the national officers to discipline union locals.

Poll Supports China in UN

NEW YORK (CP) — A poll by Lou Harris reports that Americans have reversed themselves and now favor admission of China to the United Nations by 48 to 27 per cent, with the remaining 25 undecided.

Road Slide Claims Two

LYTTON, B.C. (CP) — Two people were killed and five injured Friday when three cars dropped into a 40-foot crevice on Highway 12.

The dead, Nellie Gillis, 60, of Nelson, and Ramsey Henry, 30, of Lytton, were passengers in two cars which drove into the crevice after 150 feet of roadway slid down an embankment.

An RCMP patrol car also fell in, but the policeman was not injured.

Youth Music Camp Back For Courtenay Summer

COURTENAY — For the fifth successive year the Junior Symphony Society of Vancouver, will conduct the youth music camp in Courtenay from August 8 to 29.

Director Robert Creech says the fame of the camp has spread so far that this year students will be attending from as far away as Ontario and New York.

"The success of the camp has depended entirely upon the dedication of our professional musicians," Creech said.

Held in the past at Puntledge Park school on the banks of the Puntledge River, this year the music camp will move to G.P. Vanier high school complex situated at Sandwick on the outskirts of Courtenay. The school is only three years old and has a complete cafeteria. Students will be able to enjoy the recreational advantages of the Exhibition Grounds and campsite, again on the river bank.

Music Experience

Officials of the music camp say the aim is to provide a "musical experience where musicians at all levels, from preparatory students to some of the world's leading professionals, can work and perform together with no artificial boundaries."

"That aim has created at Courtenay a summer musical experience which is quite unique in North America," Creech says.

"The Vancouver Symphony Society over the past few years has made a tremendous effort to establish in Vancouver, outstanding musicians from other centres, to enrich the musical life of the city.

"Now these musicians are in turn making an equally valuable contribution to the future of music in B.C.," he said. The camp offers either two or three week sessions to young people between the ages of eight and 24. Fees are $145 and $95 and applications must be in the hands of the Registrar, Courtenay youth music camp, 557 West 12th Ave., Vancouver by June 15 and must be accompanied by $10 deposit. Applications for bursaries in cases of special need should also be addressed to the registrar.

Highly Organized

The music camp is highly organized and the daily schedule includes individual practice and group rehearsals of chamber music and full orchestra. The season is highlighted by a series of public concerts. Programs of recreation including swimming, riding and hiking are also carried out under supervision of qualified people, Creech said.

Faculty members for this year's camp include: Creech as director is a prominent former member of the Toronto Symphony and CBC Orchestras; principal horn with the National Festival Orchestra of Stratford; presently principal horn with the Vancouver Symphony. Creech has toured extensively with the Vancouver Woodwind Quintet.

Michael Bowie — conductor of the senior camp orchestra. Formerly with the London Symphony. Experienced conductor of youth groups presently violinist with University of Alberta String Quartet.

Garth Williams — conductor of junior camp orchestra. Former violinist with Vancouver Symphony. Currently head of the music department at Carson Graham school, North Vancouver. Conductor, preparatory division of Vancouver Youth Orchestra.

By KEVAN HULL

Three Canadian interscholastic records, a Canadian junior mark and a B.C. interscholastic standard were shattered Friday in the B.C. high school track and field championships which end today at Centennial Stadium.

Joan Pavelich, the Canadian senior record holder, established the first Canadian mark with a discus effort of 155'5". A member of the Canadian Commonwealth Games team last summer, the Vancouverite representing University Hill had an effort of 169'5" in a recent meet for the senior record.

Then Joyce Sadowick, another Canada team member, showed she had recovered fully from her leg injury by matching her personal best with a 54.7-second 400 metres, just three-tenths off the Canadian senior mark.

Miss Sadowick also anchored the Burnaby Central sprint relay team, which broke Mt. Douglas' B.C. scholastic and Canadian junior record of 49.0, to a 48.8-second clocking.

The other Canadian mark came in the 1500-metre steeplechase with John Coates of Richmond covering the course in 4:19.3, more than 10 seconds ahead of his nearest competitor. The previous mark was 4:20.1.

Al Weicker of Oak Bay broke his own B.C. interscholastic record, established during the Vancouver Island meet two weeks ago, and became the first B.C. schoolboy to better four minutes in the heats of the 1500 metres.

Weicker, pushed by Dexter Asson of Vancouver's King George who was also under the old record at 4:02.7, was clocked in 3:59.8. He also set up a possible double today by winning his 800-metre heat in 1:58.2, the fastest time of the night.

Two Mt. Douglas students gathered firsts, Brad Yakubowich winning the boys' 100 metres by a clear stride in 11.0 seconds and Lynda May coming within 10 yards of the Pan-American Games standard with a winning javelin heave of 147'11".

As expected, Patti Loverock of Vancouver's Eric Hamber and Langley's Debbie Brill of Garibaldi, both Canadian team members, won their specialties but with somewhat disappointing efforts.

Miss Loverock, a former Courtenay resident, covered the 100 metres in 11.8 while Miss Brill took the high jump at 5'8", four inches ahead of Nanaimo's Brenda Steffanson.

JILL FOURTH

Mike Morrill of Oak Bay was third and Gary Lockyer of Esquimalt, fourth in the steeplechase while Jill Pelland, the leading qualifier for the 80-metre hurdles, was fourth in the 100 metres behind Miss Loverock.

There will be 21 finals today with the program getting underway at 12:30 p.m.

Toronto-Owned Entry Swells Belmont Field

NEW YORK (CP-AP) — Toronto businessman Steve Stavro's last-minute entry of Sense a Fear Friday swelled the field to 13 for today's running of the Belmont Stakes, the third leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

The 13 entries are the most since 1954 when the field also contained 13. The most ever to start in the 1½-mile classic was 14 in 1875.

The entry of Sense a Fear came as a surprise because trainer Jerry Meyer had indicated he would start the horse only in a small field. However, Meyer said he knew his horse was ready to go the 1½-mile distance.

SEEKS TRIPLE CROWN

Meanwhile, the Venezuelan-owned Canonero II, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, will be out to clinch the Triple Crown with a victory here today. Only eight horses have ever won all three races, the last of which was Citation in 1948.

Canonero II, who began his Triple Crown drive in such low regard that he was made a member of the mutuel field in the Kentucky Derby, was listed as the 4-to-5 favorite for the Belmont.

All week there has been rumors that Canonero II was not a sound horse because of a skin rash and an infection in his right hind foot. But trainer Juan Arias says the horse is fit and ready and that both problems have been cleared up.

Dr. William O. Reed, a top veterinarian, said the colt will run without the slightest handicap.

OTHERS RUNNING

Others entered are J. M. Davis' Royal JD, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Epic Journey, Tartan Stable's Highbinder, Anthony Imbesi's Purse Finder, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lunger's Salem, Pastorel Stable's Twist the Axe, Peter Kissel's Pass Catcher, James J. Harris' Adobe Ed and the Johnny Campo-trained entry of Neil Hellman's Good Behaving and Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French.

The Belmont Stakes will be telecast on Channels 2, 6, 7 and 12 starting at 2 p.m.

If all 13 start, the 103rd running of the Belmont will be worth $162,850 with $97,710 to the winner.

Sense a Fear, a $5,200 yearling, has been second in three stakes races this year but in his last start finished last in the Peter Pan Purse, won by Purse Finder.

William Head	2	8	0	4

An 11-run explosion in the sixth inning brought Sooke Merchants from nine runs behind to a 12-10 win over Colwood Inn in a Stuffy McGinnis Softball League game at Sooke Athletic Park Friday night.

Sooke was behind, 1-10, when they pounded three Colwood pitchers for eight hits, got three bases on balls and took advantage of an error for the big rally.

At Heywood Avenue Park, Century Inn moved into a three-way tie for second place by beating William Head, 8-2. Century used a 12-hit barrage, scoring two runs in four separate innings.

Eric Peterson and Steve Ross gave up one hit each to lead Bell's Men's Wear to a 7-0 exhibition win over Iowa Ghosts before 275 fans at Royal Athletic Park.

Five errors by the Ghosts contributed to their downfall as Bell's scored twice in the first inning and once in the fourth before capping it with a four-run outburst in the sixth inning.

The 31-year-old Napoles battered the game but well-beaten Backus down to the canvas twice in the eighth round and had him in terrible shape when referee Vic Young halted the fight after one-minue, 53 seconds of the round.

Athletics Win Marathon

Oakland Athletics and Washington Senators battled through five hours and 19 minutes and 21 innings Friday night before the Athletics edged to a 5-3 American League victory.

The marathon game would have been halted by a 1 a.m. curfew at the end of the 21st inning.

Longest games in the history of the American League were a 4-1 Philadelphia win over Boston in 1906 and a 1-1 tie between Detroit and Philadelphia in 1945, both taking 24 innings.

The major-league record of 26 innings was a 1-1 tie between Brooklyn and Boston in 1920.

Jim Shellenback walked Reggie Jackson with the bases loaded and two out in the 21st inning, then wild-pitched another run home to give the Athletics their win.

Shellenback, the eighth Washington pitcher, then walked Bert Campaneris intentionally.

He wild-pitched the runners ahead with one base each and walked pinch-hitter Larry Brown and Jackson, forcing in the go-ahead run, before Campaneris scored on another wild pitch.

The Senators struck for three runs in the ninth inning, the last two on Toby Harrah's two-out bases-loaded single off Roland Fingers, the fourth of seven Oakland pitchers, to tie the game.

Cleveland Indians moved up to fourth spot in the American League East with a 4-2 victory over Minnesota Twins in a game shortened to six innings by rain.

Alan Foster held Minnesota to four hits and Ted Ford drove in three runs to help the Indians to the win. Ford's two-run double capped a three-run first-inning explosion by the Indians against Bert Blyleven.

In the National League, Joe Pepitone hit a home run and three singles and right-hander Ferguson Jenkins hurled a three hitter for his 100th career victory as Chicago Cubs stretched their winning streak to four games by trouncing Atlanta Braves, 11-0.

Jenkins, 9-5, retired 14 batters in a row after Sonny Jackson opened the Braves first inning with a bunt single, Jenkins also gave up singles by Bob Didier in the fifth and eighth innings.

Cincinnati Reds bounced back from their no-hit loss on Thursday night by hammering St. Louis Cardinals, 12-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Ross Grimsley.

The Reds, who were beaten three straight games by the Chicago Cubs, including a no-hitter by Ken Holtzman, blasted 17 hits including four each by Tony Perez and George Foster.

Victorians Stranded

At least two Victoria area residents were among a large group of Canadians stranded in Hong Kong Thursday because a charter flight which was to have taken them home did not arrive.

The Canadian government has intervened in the case of the 190 Canadian tourists, Mike Lemmon, Canadian Pacific's Airline's Hong Kong manager said.

Lemmon said the government has directed CP Air to offer lower fares from Hong Kong to Vancouver for those stranded passengers waiting to return home.

In Vancouver, it was learned that the flight was arranged by a recently-formed company known as International Charters but the manager of the company could not be reached for comment.

"They solicited every Oriental household on Vancouver Island, but nobody seems to know anything about this outfit," Mar said. He said he knows of at least two persons from the Victoria area who went on the charter flight to Hong Kong from Seattle.

However, he said he could not identify them.

But It Won't Recur . . . — . . . Says U.S. Coast Guard

Entry Refusal Irks Alberni Fishermen

There will be no recurrence of a May 29 incident in which five Canadian fishing boats were refused entry to an American port during a storm, U.S. Coast Guard officials said Friday.

Captain Ken Pierce of the Seattle Coast Guard office said the incident has been investigated, and all stations up and down the American coast have been told that refuge should be given when it is requested even if the port in question is full.

Meanwhile in Ottawa, the external affairs department is investigating the charges made by two Port Alberni fishermen that U.S. Coast Guard vessels have prevented Canadian fishing boats from entering Washington state ports.

Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said the charges involve an issue of customary international law. No treaty with the U.S. is involved.

According to fishermen Elliot Cook and Herb Kevis, a small fleet of 18 trollers was fishing off the Washington coast near LaPush, a small port about 40 miles south of Cape Flattery in the early morning on May 29.

At about 4:30 a.m. a sudden storm came up and the boats headed for shore.

Five boats headed into LaPush, but, say the fishermen, the Coast Guard refused to let them into the port.

The rest of the boats turned away, and each looked for shelter elsewhere.

Returning to Port Alberni this week, the fishermen demanded some action. They said the only reason that damage was so light was because the storm didn't last too long.

The fishermen say this was just one of a series of incidents and they want a stop to the trouble.

Cook says that American customs regulations demand 24 hours notice before a boat is allowed into an American port but "in case of storm, haven could be granted without the 24-hours notice."

Pierce said that an investigation was launched into the incident as soon as the coast guard received word of it.

He said that at about 5:45 a.m. on May 29 the fishermen on five Canadian boats reported rough weather, and said they were taking some water over the bow.

All the moorages in the small port were full, and reports were requested from other coast guard vessels in the area.

One boat anchored on the bar reported five to six-foot swells there, while the lightship reported six to eight-foot swells at sea.

"From this it was gathered that the boats were in no immediate danger, and since the port was full they were refused permission to enter.

"If they had been in trouble, or if they had declared themselves in immediate danger they would have been taken into port," said Pierce.

"Our function is to rescue people in distress and we would have been willing to co-operate and go out to help if necessary," added Pierce. "But in view of the crowded conditions and the lack of any clear cut statement that they were in trouble the request was denied."

Pierce said the coast guard regrets the incident, and has put word out to all stations up and down the coast that if there is any doubt, regardless of whether there is room or not, the ships are to be brought into port if there is any kind of trouble.

Meanwhile in Victoria, Dick Williams, past president of the Pacific Trollers Association said he feels i was an isolated incident.

"The co-operation from the U.S. Coast Guard is usually second to none," said Wilthe Pacific Trollers Associliams. "In fact in my opinion we get more co-operation from them than our coast guard can return to American fishermen when they are up in our waters."

He said he also sought refuge from Saturday's storm, at about noon when he entered Westport.

One trouble, said Williams, is that some fishermen head down to the Washington coast in boats that should really remain closer to home ports.

"I don't believe you should go down there unless you have a boat that can handle normal weather — and Saturday's weather was certainly normal for the time of year," he said.

CPR Officials:

Dayliner Improved Every Way Possible

By HUBERT BEYER

Vancouver Island's Esquimalt and Nanaimo Dayliner has improved its service and facilities in every possible way, according to Canadian Pacific Railway officials.

"We have taken all the necessary steps to comply with the recommendations of the Canadian Transport Commission," W. W. Stinson, regional manager of the CPR which operates the Dayliner, told the Colonist from Vancouver.

"We think we have done everything we can do to upgrade service and conditions on the run," he said.

Ed McPherson of the CPR's public relations department said, also from Vancouver, the Dayliner's present service was adequate in every way.

To carry out the CTC's orders handed down following last year's public hearings in connection with the CPR's application to discontinue the run, the company, McPherson said, had:

- Put into service a 68-passenger car, replacing the former 48-passenger car which often necessitated the seating of passengers in the baggage compartment.
- Stepped up promotion of the Dayliner.
- Improved service by scheduling the run to coincide with ferry schedules.
- Repaired station facilities along the 140-mile run between Victoria and Courtenay.

"Esqpecially in the field of promotion we have done quite a bit," said McPherson.

"Several times, the passengers of the Princess Marguerite (en route from Seattle to Victoria) are told over the P.A. system that visitors to Victoria who don't return to Seattle the same day, should take a trip aboard the Dayliner over the beautiful Malahat," he said.

In addition to that, McPherson said, posters will shortly be displayed at the Seattle and Port Angeles ferry office and at the Empress Hotel, inviting tourists to take advantage of the railroad service.

"We have spruced up all the stations along the route There are no more filthy conditions," he said.

"The company went to considerable expense to follow the CTC's orders."

He also commented on a recent fare increase which, he said, didn't change the fact that a trip on the Dayliner was still cheaper than a bus ride in relation to the distance it travels.

"The fare from Victoria to Duncan was increased from $2 to $2.20; the fare from Victoria to Courtenay is now $7.70 instead of $7; it's a 10 per cent increase," McPherson said.

Island Students Win Awards At B.C. Institute

A Saanich student and three other Vancouver Island students will receive awards at the B.C. Institute of Technology convocation at 8 p.m. next Friday in the campus' new $1½ million student activity centre in Burnaby.

Other Vancouver Island students who will receive awards are: Bruce Gordon Wilkinson, of 535 Birch, Campbell River, the B.C. Association of Broadcasters' award, broadcast communications technology; Teresa May, of 347 Kennedy, Nanaimo, Society of Industrial Accountants of B.C. award in accounting, financial management technology; and James Desmond Perkings of Youbou, the Council of the Forest Industries of B.C. award in forest products program, wood option, forest resource technology.

Top student among a total of 1,135 graduating students is Tim Shing Sebo, 20, of Vancouver, who won the Governor-General's silver medal for receiving a 91.41 per cent average mark in the field of instrumentation and systems technology.

New Locomotive Park Opens Today Amid Carnival Fun

CHEMAINUS — North Cowichan Mayor Gerry Smith Friday morning made a last check at the Locomotive Centennial Park which will be officially opened 11 a.m. today as part of two days of centennial celebrations in Chemainus.

Smith was accompanied by the landscape contractor Co Timmer of Saltair. To make the new park possible MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. donated an old logging locomotive and two railroad cars which now form an interesting permanent display at the entrance to Chemainus near the Horseshoe Bay inn.

North Cowichan council contributed $4,000 in centennial funds which, according to centennial chairman Ald. Donald Morton, was boosted "a great deal" by work provided by the company. The Chemainus Days today and Sunday will offer several different events starting with the arrival of the replica of the historic ship SS Beaver. The ship will dock at the Government Wharf at 9:55 a.m., greeted by the Powell River pipe band.

The North Cowichan mayor then will board the ship to welcome her master T. Gracie and his crew to Chemainus. At 10:30 a.m. a parade will leave the wharf area and, passing the water wheel, will proceed to the new Locomotive Centennial Park where at 11 a.m. the Chemainus sawmill manager will hand over the deed of the land to the mayor.

Short notes on the history of steam locomotives in Chemainus will be given by Harry Olsen.

The master of the beaver will unveil the centennial plaque.

Other events will include a barbecue at the water wheel, displays by the Powell River pipe band and the Kuper Island band. The day will end with a D-day dance at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall.

Sunday's events will be highlighted by a horseshow put on by the Chemainus Western Horsemen on the grounds at the Fuller Lake Arena, starting at 10 a.m., and an air sea rescue demonstration between 2 and 3 p.m. The Naden band will play between 4 and 5 p.m. and again from 7 until 8 p.m.

There'll Be Happy Buzzing Today Up Courtenay Way

COURTENAY—There will be unusual activity in the air around Courtenay this weekend as a centennial fly-in is scheduled.

About 50 aircraft from many points on the west coast of North America are expected to arrive for two days of fun.

Planes are scheduled to begin arriving about noon today officials said. There will be flying competitions during the afternoon, followed by a salmon barbecue and social evening.

Sunday morning flyers will participate in a fishing derby and later attend instructional classes relating to search and rescue, as well as survival techniques.

The fly-in to the city airpark is sponsored jointly by the Courtenay-Comox Chamber of Commerce, the centennial committee, Courtenay Rotary Club, Elks Club, CFB Comox and the Courtenay flying club.

French Tests Draw Protest

DUNCAN — In reply to the latest French atmospheric atomic test in the Pacific Ocean the Cowichan-Malahat branch of the pollution fighting group SPEC have sent a cable to the Canadian external affairs minster Mitchell Sharp. The telegram said: "We insist that Canada launch a formal protest over the renewal of French atmospheric atomic testing in the Pacific."

FUNGI MEAL UPSETS FOUR

PARKSVILLE — A feed of what they thought were mushrooms caused four Parksville children to be ill, two of them seriously, after an outing to Rathtrevor Beach recently.

The children, Mike, Andrew, and Angela Dudek, and Timothy Allix collected what they thought to be mushrooms and took them to the Dudek home where they cooked them. Fortunately Timothy, Angela, and Adrew did not eat many of the fungi but Mike consumed a larger amount. He was the first to fall ill and was reported to have been unconscious when rushed to hospital after Mrs. Dudek discovered what the children had been eating.

Timothy completed his paper route and then went visiting before going home about 7:30 p.m. By then he was staggering and having difficulty focussing his eyes. He was taken to hospital by the RCMP after being seen by a doctor.

All four children were treated in hospital and have fully recovered.

Mrs. Allix said she hoped it would serve as a warning to both children and adults about picking mushrooms. The incident could have been tragic.

Hydro Strike

Pickets Removed At Jordan

Striking B.C. Hydro electricians withdrew picket lines from the Jordan River work site at noon Friday and construction on the dam is expected to be back to normal Monday.

Pickets were set up by about 20 Hydro employees at 6:30 a.m. Friday, halting work at the dam and several construction projects after an estimated 130 other tradesmen refused to cross the lines.

Tom Forkin, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, representing the striking workers, told the Colonist from Vancouver that the pickets were withdrawn at noon because all construction workers had left the site for the weekend.

The Jordan River strike was the latest in a series of hit-and-run actions staged in the last three days by the IBEW against the corporation.

The strike began Wednesday in Burnaby, moved to Williams Lake Thursday where 15 men stayed off the job, but returned to work Friday.

Forkin said workers at Jordan River and Prince George "will most likely be back on the job" Monday morning.

Asked what centres will be hit next, he said, "We'll see about that Monday.

"It looks very good as far as strike action is concerned, but, unfortunately, there's no progress as far as negotiations go."

Meanwhile, B.C. Hydro chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said the spot strikes haven't affected service to date and no negotiations have been arranged between the two parties.

He said it would be futile for the corporation to appear before an independent arbitrator, as requested by the union, because a mediator has already failed to find a solution to the dispute.

"I would say the mediator we had, Clark Gilmour, was one of the best in the business and he couldn't get us together."

He said the electrical workers are already "the mandarins of our work force, the highest paid of them all."

Talks in the dispute broke off a week ago when Shrum told the union that Hydro wouldn't pay them more than the 21¾ per cent offered Hydro office workers over a three-year period.

The union wants 18½ per cent over two years. Hydro electricians are now paid $5.39 an hour.

Late Friday, Local 378 of the Office and Technical Employees Union announced it had reached agreement with B.C. Hydro on a new three-year contract, providing salary increases totalling 22.8 per cent.

A total of 2,000 members are affected by the settlement, about the same number as are represented by the IBEW.

Zoning Battle: Third Round Soon

The third skirmish in a zoning battle is shaping up at Victoria city hall.

Once again, it's multiple-family versus single-family zoning or apartment block versus private home.

And again, as in several cases last year, including the contentious Spencer Castle rezoning, the city's politicians and their administrative advisers are at odds.

Twice Victoria real estate man John Dickie has tried to have a parcel of land at the corner of Cedar Hill Road and Ryan rezoned from its present R-1 single-family to R-3 multiple-family.

Twice his application was endorsed by the city's planning department, by the traffic engineer and by the city's Advisory Planning Commission.

But both times council turned it down. The second time the application didn't even make it to a public hearing. It was received and filed by council.

Dickie is trying again and again his application is backed by the planning department, the traffic engineer and the planning commission.

At present, a bylaw proposing the zoning change is being prepared by the city solicitor and council will be asked to give it first reading next Thursday.

If it is approved in principle, a date will be set for a public hearing.

And that's when opponents and supporters may state their views before council.

"I don't know what all the fuss is about," Dickie told the Colonist Friday.

"There are lots of apartments in the area and our block would really improve the general appearance of the street," he said.

Dickie said he wants to build a 72-suite, $1.8 million condominium apartment on the property which now consists of four homes and three empty lots.

"We have talked to all the neighbors and tried to respect their wishes in the design which we propose to use," he said.

In spite of frequent statements by aldermen that there is enough property in Victoria zoned for apartment construction, council often changes zoning from single-family to multiple-family, Dickie said.

"I just hope council will give this plan serious consideration when it comes up later this month," he said.

Soldier, Where Goest Thou?

The Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) will exercise its right of freedom of the city today when its members march through the streets with bayonets fixed, colors flying and drums beating.

The regiment will march from the Bay Street Armory at 2:30 p.m., down Douglas to Courtney, then to Government and south to the Empress Hotel where a ceremony will take place at 3 p.m.

When the regiment reaches the hotel, Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock, accompanied by city clerk Moran Waller and police chief J. F. Gregory, will step into the roadway and hold up his hand to halt the regiment.

The mayor will demand "by what right does this regiment march through the city of Victoria with bayonets fixed, colors flying and drums beating?"

The commanding officer, Lt.-Col. M. E. Heppell, will reply to the mayor by reading the freedom scroll presented to the regiment by the city in 1964.

At the conclusion the mayor will tell the commanding officer to "proceed in peace."

A bronze plaque commemorating the occasion will be presented to the city.

After the ceremony the regiment will march to the lawn of the legislative buildings to be joined by veterans wearing their glengarries and campaign medals. The entire parade will be inspected by Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson, honorary colonel of the regiment.

After the inspection a wreath will be laid on the Cenotaph in honor of those members of the regiment who fell on the Normandy Beaches on D-Day, June 6, 1944.

Cruise Crew In Air

A spokesman for P and O Lines in Vancouver, said Friday night that 30 crew members of the cruise ship Arcadia left last night by air for London at the company's expense, after they refused to sail on the ship from Victoria to San Francisco Thursday.

Four bellboys and 26 waiters refused to sail because of a dispute concerning overtime pay.

The company spokesman said the men were still employed by the shipping line, but discussions on their future would be held in London between the firm and the national Union of seamen.

The 30,000-ton Arcadia, with a crew of more than 730, arrived in Victoria Thursday with more than 900 passengers on a trip from Alaska.

The dispute revolved around a demand by dining room stewards for an extension to two hours of a company-imposed maximum of 30 minutes on overtime payment.

'Hopefully Before Winter'

Will Someone Please Answer My Request?

"The Daily Colonist — If it's still there," it said on the envelope of a letter that reached the newsroom Friday morning.

The contents of the letter were even more pessimistic.

Because he didn't receive an answer from the "Victoria Tourist Bureau" regarding his request for information on motels that will accept guests with small dogs, a Vancouver man assumed that, maybe, there was no such bureau.

Or else perhaps it is buried under piles of requests from Americans asking about polar bear hunts while the staff drinks tea," wrote E. Wakefield of 1757 East 49th Avenue.

Another possibility, he said, was that he didn't qualify for information because he wasn't an American.

At any rate, the letter went on, he would like to make it "over there" before winter comes.

The Colonist did a little research and came up with names of several motels willing to accept guests with small dogs, though two confine their hospitality to poodles and chihuahuas.

A Victoria Visitors' Bureau official told the Colonist the man's request for information had, in all probability, never reached the bureau.

"We answer every letter; last year, we made about 96,400 written replies," Mike Heppell said.

"It's always the same story; there's always one who gets overlooked and gets mad right away," he said.

Last year, Heppell said, one man complained because he didn't get the proper information within a couple of days.

"That man lived in Sooke," he said.

By HUBERT BEYER

Vancouver Island's Esquimalt and Nanaimo Dayliner has improved its service and facilities in every possible way, according to Canadian Pacific Railway officials.

"We have taken all the necessary steps to comply with the recommendations of the Canadian Transport Commission," W. W. Stinson, regional manager of the CPR which operates the Dayliner, told the Colonist from Vancouver.

"We think we have done everything we can do to upgrade service and conditions on the run," he said.

Ed McPherson of the CPR's public relations department said, also from Vancouver, the Dayliner's present service was adequate in every way.

To carry out the CTC's orders handed down following last year's public hearings in connection with the CPR's application to discontinue the run, the company, McPherson said, had:

- Put into service a 68-passenger car, replacing the former 48-passenger car which often necessitated the seating of passengers in the baggage compartment.
- Stepped up promotion of the Dayliner.
- Improved service by scheduling the run to coincide with ferry schedules.
- Repaired station facilities along the 140-mile run between Victoria and Courtenay.

"Especially in the field of promotion we have done quite a bit," said McPherson.

"Several times the passengers of the Princess Margueri-te (en route from Seattle to Victoria) are told over the PA system that visitors to Victoria who don't return to Seattle the same day, should take a trip aboard the Dayliner over the beautiful Malahat," he said.

In addition to that, McPherson said, posters will shortly be displayed at the Seattle and Port Angeles ferry office and at the Empress Hotel, inviting tourists to take advantage of the railroad service.

"We have spruced up all the stations along the route. There are no more filthy conditions," he said.

Accountants Check Costs

Next Boost for Brewers?

The long cool one that took a price increase earlier this week could jump again after brewer's accountants go over their books.

The brewers say they won't share in the government's 20-cent price increase and their costs have risen to the point where they want 25 cents per case boost.

A spokesman for Carlings Ltd. in Vancouver said Friday, "Our accountants are going into the whole matter of both bottled and draft beer.

"Our costs have risen sharply. We recently signed a wage agreement providing for a $1 increase over two years, materials are more expensive and our general costs have risen."

The spokesman said there have been no increases in beer prices for 20 years. Twice the government has raised taxes which have been passed on to the drinker but the breweries have not raised their price, he said.

Canadian Breweries and Labatt's B.C. Ltd. are also researching costs and anticipate a price increase.

There has been no formal discussion with the Liquor Control Board but the brewers say they aren't ready with their figures yet.

If the increase is granted, the cost of a 12-bottle case would rise to $3.15.

Horse Play

Colwood Trailriders will hold a junior fun day beginning at noon today on the club's grounds at 3339 Metchosin, Colwood. Children 16 years old and under will be allowed to participate, a spokesman for the group said.

Women Take New Plane on Practice Trans-Ocean Flight

'Plenty of Time ... To Get All Bugs Out'

By JIM BRAHAN

The first stage in a trans-continent, trans-ocean flight starts shortly after 8 a.m. today from Patricia Bay airport for U.S. flyers Margaret Mead and Fran Bera when they take off for Calgary.

Miss Mead, and co-pilot Miss Bera, both of California, plan to fly to London, by easy stages where they will enter B.C.'s centennial air race July 1 between London and Victoria.

The Piper Aztec E, named You've Come A Long Way Baby, flown by the California women will be one of 79 aircraft to take off in the 5,851-mile race with its finish line July 7 between Gonzales Observatory and the beacons on Trial Island.

"We are just going to take it easy on our way over," Miss Mead told the Colonist shortly after she landed Friday from Portland, Ore.

"Racing one way will be enough," she grinned.

The two plan to stop overnight at Calgary, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Goose Bay, Greenland, Iceland, Ireland, before landing at London.

"We're taking plenty of time because we are flying a brand new plane and it takes about 100 hours to get all the bugs worked out," the pretty brunette said, and explained they had planned to arrive in Victoria Wednesday but were held up because of minor mechanical trouble.

Miss Mead is being sponsored by an American cigarette company and has just recently finished a flying tour of 16 American cities.

They plan to arrive in London about June 15.

"This will give us time to have work done on the plane, also give us time for a rest and a bit of sightseeing before the race," Miss Mead said.

The air race is only the third of its kind in aviation history and is a major event in the province's centennial celebrations. Prize money totals $175,000 with first place receiving $50,000.

Points will be awarded according to net flying time over each stage and the overall winners prize of $50,000 will go to the pilot with the highest point aggregate.

In the race, between takeoff and finish line, there will be six mandatory stops: Goose Bay, Quebec, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary.

The two women make a formidable racing team. Among Miss Mead's records are two wins of the Powder Puff derby. Miss Bera has won the derby seven times in its 25-year history. Miss Mead has logged 8,000 hours flying and Miss Bera 18,000.

All types of aircraft from single-engined monoplanes to executive type jets will compete in the race, each plane will be handicapped according to a formula based on engine power, wing area, and maximum take-off weight.

Unlike the powder puff derbies the women will have mostly male competition in the forthcoming race.

There are a total of 29 entries from Canada, 28 from the U.S., 14 from the United Kingdom, including one from Ireland; Sweden, 2; Australia, 2; West German, 1; Finland, 1; France, 1.

Miss Mead said this will be the only race she plans to enter this year.

"I flew in three last year and won them all, including the powder puff derby," she said.

"Racing is my fun," Miss Mead said.

Beacon Hill Park will be an excellent vantage point for Victorians to watch the aircraft flash across the finish line.

Three Firms Deny Watchdog's Charges

High Oil Profits, Prices Hit

From CP

Dr. John Young's prices and incomes commission Friday criticized four big oil and gasoline companies for not rolling back excessive price increases last winter.

Three of them — Imperial Oil Ltd., Shell Canada Ltd. and Texaco Canada Ltd. — denied the charges and said they observed price guidelines.

The fourth, Sun Oil Ltd., in a carefully worded statement did not deny it went over the guidelines, but said its 1970 operations "were planned and conducted in a manner which we believed would in the normal course have met with the commission's price restraint program."

Ron Basford, minister of consumer and corporate affairs, said he regretted that the four companies did not agree, when asked by the commission, to take some "compensatory action" when their profits rose unexpectedly.

The commission report, which was tabled in Parliament, charged the companies with unduly large price increases and refusing to take "remedial action" requested at meetings between the commission, the government and the companies.

The four were among oil refiners and distributors who put a series of price increases into effect last fall. Price increases in gasoline, fuel oil, diesel and marine oils and solvents were scattered across Canada and concentrated in the Atlantic and Quebec regions.

At that time, the commission was policing a set of price restraint criteria agreed to by businessmen and governments in February, 1970. The rule was that price increases were not to exceed cost increases for the rest of the year.

The four oil companies said they believed they were acting within the rules. But severe

Grain Deal Signed By Soviets

OTTAWA (CP) — Russia will take 120 million bushels of wheat from Canada between now and 1972, it was announced Friday.

A new sale of 81,500,000 bushels, along with another 38,400,000 bushels under terms of a 1966 contract, was valued at $235 million by Otto Lang, minister in charge of the Canadian wheat board.

Lang, replying to questions in the Commons, said "the likely total sale of wheat for the 1970-71 crop year which ends July 31, will be within the range of 430 million bushels to 470 million bushels."

Contracts covering the new sale were signed in the Senate reading room in the Parliament buildings.

Jack Bigg (PC—Pembina) said "no news could be more welcome to Canada."

In a reference to Prime Minister Trudeau's recent Russia trip, Bigg added:

"I am delighted that at last, whether it is on the road to Damascus or the road to Russia, the present administration is seeing that a breakthrough in international relations is followed up."

NDP Leader David Lewis also welcomed the sale and noted that Trudeau was not taking credit for it.

He also said Canada should consider providing developing countries with long-term credit so they, too, might buy Canadian wheat.

Deliveries are to start this month from both the Pacific and eastern Canadian ports, with the chance of some shipments through the northern Manitoba port of Churchill.

Grades to be delivered during 1971 are numbers 2, 3 and 4 Manitoba northern and No. 1 Canadian western red spring wheat.

Lang said the Russians also have an option to take No. 3 or No. 4 Canadian western durum wheat as part of the over-all purchase.

He said the new sale bears out Russian promises to turn to Canada when they needed wheat.

Highway Blast Kills Five

WACO, Ga. (UPI) — A trailer truck carrying 10,000 pounds of dynamite collided with an automobile on a busy highway Friday night and blew up, killing at least five persons and caving in a roof of a nearby shool gymnasium where 200 persons were holding a gospel sing.

The Red Cross said that 33 other persons were injured as a result of two explosions, one so great it ripped a crater 100 feet wide and 20 feet deep, "big enough to set a building in," in the highway.

A nearby house was wrecked, woods set afire for a quarter of mile and ambulances and fire trucks demolished just outside this small Georgia city.

The Georgia Highway Patrol said the disaster was set off about 8:30 p.m. when a small foreign car collided with the truck, owned by the Baggett Trucking Co. of Birmingham, Ala., en route from Birmingham to a granite quarry in North Carolina.

A patrol spokesman said that the truck also was carrying 10,000 pounds of a low grade type of explosive called "slurry" and dynamite caps in addition to the dynamite.

The patrol said a fire resulted from the collision, setting off dynamite caps that finally led to the blast so great it shattered windows in houses five miles away.

The patrol identified the truck driver as A. W. Fielding, 50, of Birmingham, and said he may have saved several lives by running up and down the highway warning motorists that his burning truck was loaded with dynamite. Fielding was not injured, but the driver of the car was killed.

Haralson County deputy sheriff Gene Kirk called it the biggest explosion he had ever heard.

Police, Officials Agree To Meet

By BRUCE LOWTHER

The first sign of a possible thaw in the wage dispute between Victoria and its police, which has caused police to "work according to the rules," came Friday from Mayor Courtney Haddock.

He disclosed the Victoria police union executive had, at his request, agreed to meet three city representatives early next week.

And he also made two statements which could be taken to indicate the city might go above its last wage offer to police and might not refuse to go to arbitration, as the police want.

Haddock said he met the union executive Friday morning and they agreed to sit down with lawyer Edwin Pearlman, city manager William Hooson and city personnel director Terence Fitzpatrick.

The mayor declined comment on what the meeting would discuss, including wages and arbitration, and did not give a definite date

Sharp Reports

New Era Of Hope In NATO

LISBON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp says there is a new spirit of hopefulness among members of NATO that the "era of confrontation in Europe is passing and an era of negotiation is under way."

The Canadian minister made the remark at a news conference Friday following a two-day meeting of foreign ministers from the 15-nation alliance.

Sharpe appeared pleased with the outcome of the meeting which expressed, among other things, general acceptance of a Canadian proposal to appoint a special NATO representative or representatives — to investigate recent Soviet proposals for East-West talks on mutual European force reductions.

Sharp said the Canadian recommendation had run into some early opposition but this had been dispelled. It had been incorporated in a United States proposal, accepted by

Through a Glass, Darkly

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (UPI) — Miss Kristi Pollok, 21, was named winner of the Ontario County Dairy Princess contest amid general applause.

The new representative of the milk producing industry commented: "I'm so shook. Right now I'd like a glass of beer."

'Doomsday' Cancelled

Because of a bomb hoax May 26 in Australia, a Seattle television station will have a love story instead of a suspense thriller as its late movie tonight.

Qantas airlines paid $560,000 May 26 after a phone caller, apparently following the plot of the 1968 Rod Serling movie Doomsday Flight, said a barometric bomb would explode aboard an airliner carrying 116 passengers when the plane reached a certain altitude.

No bomb was found when the plane landed at Sydney from Hong Kong and Australian police later detained a man for questioning.

Shortly after the hoax, actor-writer-producer Serling apologized, saying he wished he had never written the Doomsday Flight story and especially not so graphically that it had become a textbook.

Some weeks ago, KIRO-TV in Seattle set Doomsday Flight for showing at 11 p.m. today. Friday the station announced it had withdrawn the film, substituting the 1961 French love story Fanny.

Gaglardi Calls Nader 'One of Greatest Nuts'

Gaglardi was speaking to the annual conference of 260 members of the Motor Dealers' Association of British Columbia.

After calling Nader a nut, Gaglardi agreed cars are unsafe and safety features should be added. However, he said only 6 to 10 per cent of car accidents are due to mechanical faults in the vehicle.

Gaglardi warned the dealers that there was a danger of the car industry pricing itself out of the market, due to rising labor costs and a profit margin that is sometimes too high.

"The automobile is the most expensive and uneconomical product I can buy but it is the most necessary piece of equipment today and plays a vital role in molding the community," Gaglardi said.

Eighty-six per cent of all travel is by automobile. It supports allied industries such as mining, rubber, plastic, gas, oil, construction of highways and manufacturing, he added.

Surveying the provincial economy at present Gaglardi said the forest industry reflects the present condition of the Canadian economy in general, although the market should pick up this year.

And in support of our economy, he said, we should not be afraid of foreign capital. The campaign to "buy Canada back" is greatly exaggerated.

Canadians failed to recognize the wealth and resources of this country and would not invest in it.

Canada: Poor 47th State

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — If Canada were one of the United States, it would rank 47th among the states in income per capita, vice-chairman Robert Bonner of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. said Friday.

● Bonner lists dozen obstacles to trade development. Page 11

Addressing a business conference at the University of Western Ontario, Bonner said only Ontario and British Columbia, with per capita incomes of about $3,369 and $3,121, achieve any notable rank among American states, ranking 33rd and 42nd.

Canadian average per capita income in 1969 was a little more than $2,700 in U.S. funds, putting Canada ahead of only West Virginia, Alabama, Arkansas and Mississippi.

"There was a time when Canada ranked second only to the United States, as measured by gross national product per capita," Bonner said.

"We are now fourth in world rank by this measure Sweden and Switzerland having displaced us in recent years."

He said for Canada to attain full employment or an unemployment rate of 3 per cent by 1972-73 would require annual economic growth of about nine per cent, "and we are not yet prepared as a matter of national policy to achieve growth of that magnitude."
